MACFARLANE BEATS JONES BY 1 STROKE FOR OPEN GOLF TITLE

Pro Conquers Amateur in Second Extra Round of Longest Match in History, 72-73.

FIRST 18 HOLES END 75-75

STAGES A DRAMATIC FINISH

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5.—The gods of golf held their fingers crossed for Bobby Jones today, but vainly. After a day of dramatic moments such as no other championship, American or British, has ever witnessed, Willie Macfarlane, the pedagogical-looking Scotsman who presides over the practice tees at the Oak Ridge Club at Tuckahoe, won the twenty-ninth open championship of America. He defeated the amateur champion today by one stroke, his total for the thirty-six holes played to decide the issue at the Worcester Country Club being 147 strokes to Jones's 148.

The end came on the last hole, where Macfarlane took a par 4 and Jones a 5 through one faulty shot and another splendid "do-or-die" one that died. With the match all even in strokes, and everything—fame and riches for Macfarlane and a record achievement for Jones—at stake, Bobby sliced his drive into some long grass after Willie had split the fairway. Having to play first, Macfarlane pitched onto the upper tier of the green, about fifty feet from the hole, but facing a treacherous downhill putt to lay dead for his 4.

Then Bobby played. He was resolved to go for the hole, which was cut close to the edge of the green, trapped in the front. Only a miracle shot would place the ball near the hole under the conditions, although the lie was a good one. Bobby made a hasty decision. With Macfarlane's ball in a place where a 4 was inevitable unless he overran, Jones determined to play for either a 3 or a 5 and end the agony then and there.

Jones' Shot That Failed.

The pitch out of the rough kept coming straight for the pin, and for a second or two it appeared as if he had brought off another Inwood shot which gave him the 1922 title in the play-off with another Scot, Bobby Cruickshank. The ball dropped short into the sand, causing a gasp to go up from the gallery banked around the finishing hole. Jones was closer to the hole than was Macfarlane, who had, therefore, to play first.

It was a ticklish situation for the Aberdonian, for the missing of a five-foot putt on the same green had denied him the championship eighteen holes previously. There was no certainty that he would lay the putt dead; there was no certainty that Jones wouldn't hole out from the trap or put the ball up close for a par 4 which would mean playing on and on ad infinitum.

Willie, to his own annoyance, had missed five and six-footers previously in the round, but he made sure of this one. Showing no outward signs of the tension that must have been his, calmly surveying the line of the putt, he tapped the ball and sent it spinning on its way toward the hole. On it went, getting closer and closer to the hole. A great shout went up. "It's in!" No; it wasn't, but it was perilously close to the hole, not more than a foot away, sitting up for a sure 4—one of the finest approach putts ever made and a wonderful display of nerve and lack of nerves.

And His Last Fatal Putt.

It was now up to Bobby to play. On his next shot would depend whether or not he was to have a chance to equal Chirk Evans's record of winning two titles in one year. The Atlantan made a courageous recovery to ten feet beyond the hole and if he could get that one down it meant another tie and another round.

There was a tense silence as he took his stance, glanced along the line of putt, drew back his putter and hit the ball. It started true for a few feet, then swerved off and grazed the side of the hole. Macfarlane had won the championship—the first Scotsman to win the title since 1910, when Alex Smith was crowned.

Thus ended the championship of championships, the greatest struggle between two of the game's giants that the world has ever seen. Never before in golf's history had two men been forced to play two rounds to decide which one of them was to be the champion. It was a perfect ending to a day of tremendous happenings that forced two thousand mad enthusiasts to dash hither and about, up and over the hills of the Worcester Country Club in spite of a torrid sun that poured down on scorched heads. It was 94 in the shade and there was no shade. In the hills of the far holes and in the woods the heat was stifling, yet it failed to daunt the intrepid followers who could not afford to miss even so much as a single shot in a match such as this.

Macfarlane's wonderful accomplishment in winning the title is best illustrated this way: He tied Jones at the end of the seventy-second holes of tournament play proper. He saw his own good work in the first round of the play-off obliterated by Bobby's almost phenominal run of luck on the middle holes and in the afternoon he began the final

House Struck by Lightning Four Times in One Evening

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD HILLS, N. Y., June 5.—Lightning, proverbially reputed never to strike twice in the same place, created a precedent by striking Judge Charles Haines's home on Old Croton Road four times in a single evening.

All four bolts came during the thunderstorm of Monday, and three of them drove the Haines family from their beds. The first bolt struck the southern side of the house, ripping off boards and plaster and plowing up earth for twenty feet alongside the foundation. The family, after going out to see if the house was afire, went to bed again, but were driven out a few minutes later when the second bolt struck the south gable, leaped to an oak tree and stripped it of bark. The third bolt came down a chimney, scattering bricks, crossed the room leaped through a window and destroyed a prize bed of rhododendrons. The fourth bolt, five minutes later, shattered an old locust tree, part of which fell against the house and shattered several windows.

BUCKNER CALLS FOR QUICK COURT REFORM

ADVOCATES FOUR CHANGES

TYBEE, Ga., June 5.—Addressing the Georgia State Bar Association at Tybee Island today, Emory R. Buckner, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, said that the administration of the Federal criminal law had broken down in his district and that it cannot get any worse without passing into the hands of a receiver. Mr. Buckner came south to call for help. He suggested four changes in the laws which, he said, would transform the present methods of Federal law enforcement from the sort needed in 1875 to the kind called for in 1925.

He pointed out that the needed amendments could only be made by Congress, and that he felt an appeal to Georgia lawyers was proper because every Federal district is a national affair, that constitutional relief can only come from the nation, legislative relief only from Congress and administrative relief only from officials in Federal offices who are appointed from all parts of the United States.

"Our local problem is a national problem," he declared. "In our great distress we beckon to you and the rest of the nation and shout, 'Come over into Macedonia and help us.'"

Points to Multiplication of Crimes.

Mr. Buckner said that the chief reason for the breakdown of the Federal criminal law in New York was the multiplication of Federal offenses without adequate machinery for enforcement and that there is not enough magic in a Government printing press to act as investigator, prosecutor, Grand Jury, Judge, clerk, petit jury and all the other officials needed for a prosecution.

He said that it was not alone prohibition which paralyzed the administration of criminal law in his district, that it had become the fashion to make prohibition the whipping-boy for everything, and that the laws that helped to make the congestion, and to crush the officials seeking to enforce the law, were the immigration, pure food, tax, narcotic, customs, navigation, banking, postal and a long list of other laws.

"We cannot enforce these laws in New York," he said, "with our present machinery. We have to pick and choose. Coerced to choice, I propose so far as I can to select the important violators of the law instead of the unimportant law-breakers. In my district we are beginning to make allotments to the various governmental departments, because we do not propose to permit any one law or group of laws to nullify others. We are saying to all of the authorities having control of various departments, 'You can have this much and no more.'"

Then Mr. Buckner made his four suggestions for changes in the present method of enforcing Federal laws. These changes, he said, would bring the methods up to date and would replace the present methods that are fifty years old.

The first and most important of the proposed changes suggests the establishment of inferior Federal courts for the trial of petty offenders and misdemeanors without indictment and without a jury. In explaining his idea, he said:

"Every Police Magistrate in New York can send people to the workhouse for six months for petty offenses against

ALLIED NOTE CALLS ON REICH TO DISARM; REFUSAL IS HINTED

ARMS FACTORIES MUST GO

BERLIN SHOWS ANGER

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—The allied disarmament note to Berlin, made public here tonight, brings home forcibly to the Government of the Reich, headed by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, that Germany has not yet liquidated the obligations growing out of her defeat in the World War.

In contrast to the manner in which the Reich's reparations obligations were handled last year, when Germany's free acceptance was asked for and obtained, the Allies now demand radical measures by Berlin to make good her defaults in the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, call for the resumption of authority by the Allied Military Control Commission to see these changes made, and state that Cologne will not be evacuated until Germany has complied.

While couched in courteous terms, the Allies' note is basically the strongest notification made to Germany in the past two years.

The allied communication is made up of a covering note of some 1,200 words, then a list of German violations of the military provisions of the treaty, next a series of measures Germany must take to obtain control of Cologne, and, lastly, a list of the concessions the Allies have already made on the disarmament clauses of the treaty. The most important allied demands call for the abolition of the German great general staff, for an end to the semi-secret military training of millions of young Germans in patriotic societies and clubs, for the immediate reduction of the national police from 180,000 to 150,000, for the cessation of military air training, for prohibition of gas warfare experiments and for dismantling a number of factories used for war purposes.

Term for Cologne Evacuation.

There is a flat denial of the German charge that the failure to evacuate Cologne last January was either a violation of the treaty or a reprisal, it being insisted that the treaty plainly states that the evacuation of the bridgeheads in five, ten and fifteen years after the coming into force of the treaty depends on German observance of the treaty clauses.

The Allies make it very plain that they still adhere to the policy set forth in the treaty of keeping Germany a disarmed nation, for in giving reasons for their note the Allies say the present situation, if not remedied, would "enable the German Government to reconstruct an army modeled on the principle of a nation in arms. This would be directly counter to the treaty of peace." They add that the "totality of these defaults is so serious a menace to peace" that so long as these defaults remain Germany cannot be considered to have fulfilled her obligations.

The Allies declare that the evacuation of Cologne depends on Germany and Germany alone. In a short period, it is said, Germany can make good and obtain control of Cologne. This done the Allies agree to withdraw the Allied Military Control Board and turn its duties over to the League of Nations.

The note recalls that only recently, in aiding forbidden military training in numerous associations, the Reich has again violated the treaty, and then concludes with the expression of a hope that Germany will see the wisdom of complying quickly with the allied terms.

Offenses Cited and Cures Demanded.

In the annexes to the note the Allies set forth a series of items in respect to which Germany has violated the treaty, and then give a long list of measures to be taken, which call not only for executive action by Berlin but for legislative action as well.

The first demand is that the Schutzpolizei (security police) must be decreased from 180,000 to 150,000, as allowed by the Allies in 1920.

In the second place, the national military organization of the police must be abolished and its collective military training ended, it being made responsi-

Loeb Has Mind Collapse After Measles; Raving and Violent, He Is Strapped to Bed

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Richard Loeb, convalescent from measles, is seriously ill in the prison hospital at Joliet State Penitentiary, suffering from a mental condition which suggests, Dr. Herman Adler, State criminologist, reported today, "a post-infectious delirium."

"Babe" Leopold's partner in the murder of "Bobby" Franks, a year ago last May, has been behaving strangely since Tuesday. He throws things at prison guards, it is reported; has had an impassioned argument with a "trusty"; has made several attempts to jump out of the window, and so often has raved and grown violent that Warden Whitman has found it necessary to have his erstwhile "model prisoner" strapped to his hospital bed.

It is too early, Dr. Adler says, to determine whether or not young Loeb is the victim of a serious mental breakdown, with the possibility of losing his mind. It is much more likely, Dr. Adler believes, that this illness is a not unusual after-effect of an infectious disease, such as measles, on a psychopathic patient. The psychiatric expert's official report, made today, expresses this theory.

"Richard Loeb," the report reads, "is recovering from an attack of measles. According to observations at the prison hospital, within the last thirty-six hours he has exhibited increasing signs of disturbance. These manifestations have been somewhat irregular in appearance, but are definitely of a mental sort. His condition suggests a post-infectious delirium such as is not infrequently observed in psychopathic individuals after infectious diseases, such as measles."

One thing is certain, Dr. Adler maintains, and that is that Loeb is not feigning his illness. Contradicting such a rumor, the alienist declared that "that's the easy story they circulate about every prisoner when he is sick."

Loeb was taken ill with measles a few weeks ago and seemed to have recovered completely until Tuesday night, when he developed a temperature. In the absence of Dr. W. R. Fletcher, prison physician, Dr. Harry A. Patterson of Joliet was called and at first diagnosed the ailment as a type of mental disorder. Later he declared he believed Loeb was malingering to get sympathy.

About this time young Loeb began throwing things and trying to jump out of the window, so he was strapped to his bed.

With four other cases of measles in the prison, a quarantine was placed on the building today by direction of the State Board of Health.

While Loeb's condition seems to be growing worse, that of Leopold, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is reported improved.

BANKS AID STINNES, FEARING COLLAPSE

PESSIMISTS SEE A PANIC

But Reports That Colossal Trust Will Liquidate Are Denied as Hugo Takes Control.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 5.—Does it mean the fall of the house of Stinnes? That is the question being asked throughout Germany today, while the wildest rumors bob up as to the significance of granting to the Stinnes' interests of a large credit by the Reichsbank and other leading German banks.

From this welter of rumors what emerges with anything like certainty is that the Stinnes concern is really in financial difficulties. Another fact is that these difficulties do not imply—for the present, at least—a serious impairment of the Stinnes financial power or German financial panic.

With the granting by bankers to the Stinnes concern of a credit estimated as high as 50,000,000 gold marks, the immediate difficulties of those who inherited the colossal and complex business left by Hugo Stinnes, Germany's spectacular financial czar, seem to have been tided over. But there is considerable apprehension in the minds of well-informed business men here as to what is reserved by the future for the colossal industrial combination welded together by the late Hugo Stinnes—a combination scarcely ever equaled in size and certainly never in complexity.

The rumors flying about here today run all the way from an optimistic declaration that the Stinnes power is absolutely unshaken to the assertion that it is about to collapse, exposing Germany to a financial catastrophe. A significant point about yesterday's conference at the Reichsbank, where the financial support by bankers of the Stinnes concern was discussed, is that no member of the Stinnes family was present.

Taken in conjunction with the recent business estrangement between Dr. Edmund Stinnes, son of the late Hugo Stinnes, and his younger brother, Hugo, this is construed by some to mean that the Stinnes brothers "bit off more than they could chew." They tried to run the great interest merged by their father.

Stocks and bonds of the many concerns comprised in the Stinnes holdings dropped sharply on the Exchange here today, following reports of the difficulties wherein the Stinnes heirs were involved. Nevertheless it is insisted in circles usually well informed that nothing really serious is impending. It is admitted that the Stinnes interests are facing difficulties and that their reorganization will be attempted in conjunction with the bankers who have come to the aid of the Stinnes heirs. Beyond that, however, an optimistic note was struck similar to that of the short communiqué issued last night after the conference between the bankers and the Stinnes representatives. Among those at the conference was Dr. Schacht, President of the Reichsbank.

The eminence of the bankers helping the Stinnes concern is adduced by the optimists as evidence of the firm's unimpaired solvency. The pessimists, however, say that it may mean that the bankers are compelled to intervene lest the Stinnes concern crash, bringing most serious general consequences to Germany.

The Socialist organ Vorwärts is particularly outspoken in chronicling the happenings culminating in the bankers' support of the Stinnes interests. In fact were one to read only what the Socialists are saying one would gather that the days of the Stinnes glory are numbered.

The Vorwärts denounces the Stinnes complex as the most baleful product of Germany's inflation period. It claims that Stinnes's sons, though not having the father's ability, sought to continue his audacious policy of business expansion until they got hopelessly beyond their depth.

The Vorwärts brands the late Hugo Stinnes as one of the main obstacles to Germany's reconciliation with other nations and gloats at what it insists is

ARMS CONFERENCE FOR OUTLAWING GAS

Geneva Meeting Declares for Immediate Protocol to Bar Use of It in War.

BURTON STARTS MOVEMENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 5.—On proposal of Representative Theodore E. Burton of the United States delegation, a protocol is to be drawn up at once by the arms conference with a view to outlawing the use of poison gas in warfare. The Protocol will be based upon Article 5 of the Washington treaty and added to the traffic in arms convention.

This was decided by the arms conference today, after a long discussion, as the best manner of dealing with the problem of poison gases.

Mr. Burton, in making the proposal for inclusion in the arms convention of the provision based on Article 5, said that if this could not be done President Coolidge would issue an invitation to the powers represented here to attend a conference at Washington for the prohibition of chemical warfare.

The United States delegation at the beginning of the conference proposed an amendment to prohibit export by contracting parties of all poison gases intended or designed for use in connection with the operations of war. A similar proposal was made by Poland in regard to bacteriological warfare.

In the Military Commission it was decided that such prohibition of exportation would not have the effect of putting an end to chemical or bacteriological warfare, first, because the prohibition of exportation would in no wise prohibit producing States from making use of this war material. Secondly, the prohibition would be difficult of application as it would be practically impossible to discriminate between chemical products used for industrial, pharmaceutical and other purposes and those which might be used for chemical warfare.

For this reason it was decided the problem could be definitely solved only by a universal undertaking to abstain from chemical and bacteriological war. The committee expressed the hope that a conference to this end would be called and suggested the inclusion in the final act of the conference a clause which after stating the desirability of suppressing such form of warfare, concludes: "Every effort should be made to conclude as soon as possible a universal convention dealing with the problem of chemical and bacteriological warfare in general."

At the beginning of this afternoon's session a Swiss delegate presented an amendment, which, after declaring gases and analogous liquids banned by civilized nations and prohibited by agreements between a large number of powers, says the conference notes "that in these circumstances chemical means of warfare in particular are included among implements and materials" prohibited by international law "under Article 10 of the present convention."

After recognizing the difficulties of prohibition of export of these materials, the delegates recommended calling a conference.

Burton Asks Quick Action.

Representative Burton said it was possible to take even more prompt and effective measures and that calling a formal conference was unnecessary.

He continued:

"I should like, therefore, to recommend that we take this occasion to prepare here and now a resolution based on Article 5 of the treaty at Washington with a view to its immediate signature by delegations which may be prepared to do so but which would be open to signature of other States for a reasonable time whether represented or not.

In this we will have taken a very definite step towards universal prohibition of gas warfare.

"In event that for any reason it is felt action I have suggested can not be taken this time the President of the United States will be glad to extend an invitation for a meeting in Washington with a view to framing a convention for the prohibition of the use of asphyxiating

BLACKMAILER KILLS THOMAS L. LEEMING, WEALTHY IMPORTER

Shoots Victim, Who Had Given Him $8,000 and Refused $7,500 More.

TRAGEDY AT ELEVATOR DOOR

SERVED TERM FOR ROBBERY

Thomas Lonsdale Leeming, a wealthy middle-aged importer, prominent in Brooklyn social and musical circles, was shot and fatally wounded as he entered an elevator to go up to his office in the building at 130 William Street, Manhattan, yesterday afternoon. He died in the Beekman Street Hospital.

The slayer was caught after a short chase. He was Charles Muller, an ex-convict and alleged drug addict. Muller, who is 26 years old, was once a protége of Leeming. The importer, driving his car up a steep road in the Catskill Mountains one night seven years ago, gave Muller a ride. They were friends until last October, when Muller began to blackmail the wealthy man.

Rather than let his wife and three children, who are in their twenties, and his business and social associates hear what Muller threatened to say about him, Leeming paid the blackmailer $8,000 last October and December, the police were told after the murder. Yesterday Muller demanded from Leeming an additional $7,500, which he said Leeming had promised him.

Muller stopped Leeming when the importer entered the lobby of the office building. Brushing past him, Leeming walked to the elevator and appealed for assistance to the elevator operator, Hugh Ferally, and the assistant superintendent of the building, Charles Hubner.

"I've been annoyed by this man's following me and I don't want him to come up on the elevator with me," said Leeming.

"I want to see you just a minute," Muller said, keeping one hand in his coat pocket.

Fires Three Shots.

Leeming turned toward the elevator, whereupon Muller fired three shots through his coat pocket from a .25-calibre automatic. One bullet struck Leeming in the stomach and he fell on the floor. Muller ran into William Street and fled through the lunch-hour crowd. Hubner, Ferally and others, yelling for the police, chased him to Ann Street, where he was caught by two policemen.

An ambulance took Leeming to the hospital. Muller was brought to his bedside. The dying man raised himself, pointing a trembling finger at Muller, and said:

"That man is an ex-convict. I befriended him and he shot me."

"I'm sorry my gun jammed," said Muller. "If it hadn't, I'd have given you the rest of it."

Muller first told the police that he was the illegitimate son of a brother of Leeming, and that Leeming had withheld $15,000 which the brother, on his deathbed, had entrusted to Leeming to give to Muller. After several hours' questioning he admitted this story to be untrue.

Admits "Framing Up" Leeming.

The slayer then said that the real reason for the killing was Leeming's refusal to pay further money. Muller said that he and another young man, also a protégé of Leeming, "framed" Leeming last October in a room in the Hotel Pennsylvania, where Leeming was living temporarily. On the following day he received $500 and in December he received $7,500 from Leeming, according to Muller.

At the time of the $7,500 payment, Muller went on, Leeming promised to pay him $7,500 more in three months. He said that he had been out of town since December and did not try to collect the second $7,500 until yesterday. Muller came here Thursday from Philadelphia, where he had been living.

The story of the $7,500 payment in December was corroborated by Irving McQuade, Leeming's financial secretary. McQuade said that Leeming telephoned him as follows one morning:

"Mac, draw a check for $7,500 and bring it to me at the Hotel Imperial."

"You mean $750?" McQuade replied.

Arabic's Passengers Swelter Here After Shivering at Sea

Passengers who arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Arabic from Hamburg via Southampton, Cherbourg and Halifax found the heat very trying, as they had been suffering from the cold for the greater part of the voyage.

The vessel came over the Great Circle track, to the northward, in order to make Halifax, and three days ago the temperature was down to 40 degrees. Passengers wore their heavy overcoats and asked Purser Grahl if the Arabic was going in search of Amundsen.

The steam was kept on in the saloons and cabins until the liner passed Nantucket on Thursday afternoon. She had 250 passengers aboard.

GUIDER QUITS HYLAN ON SUBWAY TAX PLAN

Refuses to Vote on Any but Two Routes Proposed by Board of Transportation.

FAVORS 6TH AV. PROJECT

Borough President Joseph A. Guider of Brooklyn broke away from Mayor Hylan at the Board of Estimate meeting yesterday and, after declaring he was opposed to financing the construction of the proposed city subway system by assessments, refused to vote on all except two of the proposed subway routes recently submitted to the board by the Board of Transportation.

At the request of Mayor Hylan and Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, Mr. Guider modified his opposition to the Board of Transportation sufficiently to vote for the validation of the two sections of the Sixth Avenue route, clearing the way for further progress on Mr. Miller's pet project of removing the Sixth Avenue elevated structure and substituting a subway.

Mr. Guider's firm and outspoken opposition to the plan for making possible a five-cent fare on the city's proposed subway system by raising 60 per cent. of the cost by direct tax and assessment on property benefited was considered to have more than ordinary political significance and to reflect opposition to this method of financing which has already risen in Brooklyn. Mr. Guider was named as Borough President with the support of John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn Democratic leader, whose support is essential to Mayor Hylan if he is to get a renomination. He will undoubtedly be a candidate for re-election and made evident that he had no desire to run as a sponsor of the plan suggested by John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation.

Guider Outlines His Stand.

"I am opposed to the financial provisions in the Delaney report," Mr. Guider said. "I do not at all approve the suggested routes for that part of the proposed municipal subway system to be located in Brooklyn. I think action at this time is unnecessary and I am opposed to it."

It apparently had been Mayor Hylan's intention to seek the validation of the twenty-two routes proposed by the Board of Transportation. He seemingly did not know just what to make of Mr. Guider's declaration, and said:

"But the financial phases of the report are not under consideration today. Won't you please go along with us on some of these things, especially on these routes located in Manhattan?"

Mr. Miller added his plea, and Mr. Guider agreed to vote for two routes in Manhattan, which were adopted unanimously.

The routes approved are 101D and 101C. The former covers the north and south route in Sixth Avenue from Carmine Street to Fifty-third Street. The latter is a continuation of the same line south from Carmine Street to Lispenard Street.

"This marks the completion of the second step in the removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated and its replacement by a subway," said Mr. Miller. "I am glad that Mr. Guider agreed to these routes, for the removal of the unsightly Sixth Avenue structure is essential to the development of downtown Manhattan."

Craig Loses on Five-Cent Fare.

Earlier in the meeting Controller Craig made another unsuccessful attempt to get the board to consider his Municipal Assembly bill imbedding the five-cent fare in the city charter, and launched Mayoralty booms for Mr. Delaney and Murray Hulbert, former President of the Board of Aldermen,

HOTTEST JUNE 5 RECORDED

Some Merchants Declare Full Holiday Today—Charity Society Asks Aid for the Poor.

NATION'S CASUALTIES HIGH

Five Days' Deaths Reported to be 167—Many Schools Close—New Heat Records Up-State.

Twenty-one deaths and ninety-three prostrations or injuries due to the heat were recorded yesterday, the fifth day of the hot wave, when the temperature mounted to 96 degrees at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, one degree hotter than on Thursday. It was the hottest June 5 on record in New York City.

Reports of deaths began to come in before daybreak, when even the relief brought by the breezes of preceding days was absent and people sweltered in rooms from which sleep was banished. The toll mounted steadily through the day, as those weakened by four days of heat succumbed under the oppressive sun. The day began under a dull leaden sky, but before noon the sun broke through to scorch and burn again.

It was the same throughout a greater part of the country, for record temperatures were reported all through the East and Midwest. Schools and factories closed, and thermometers in the sun reached marks of 120, and even more.

There is as yet no prospect of relief for several days. The weather forecasters explained last night that the unusual duration of the hot weather was caused by a low pressure area in the North, which drew winds from the Gulf of Mexico heated as in an oven by their passage over the country. Until that area breaks there can be no relief.

The official temperatures recorded here yesterday were:

Marines Will Guard President and Patrol Summer White House at Swampscott

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A special detail of thirty or forty marines will guard President Coolidge during his stay at Swampscott.

Those charged with providing proper safeguards for the President have decided that the Secret Service force at the White House is inadequate to patrol thoroughly the boundaries of White Court, the home on the cliffs where the President and his family will spend the Summer. The coast line at that point is rugged and unfenced and it is deemed advisable to have the grounds patrolled.

When the President's consent to this step was obtained, it was found that a detail from the White House police could not be sent to White Court because there is no appropriation for such a purpose. Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, learning of the difficulty, offered to furnish thirty State Police, but the President declined, saying this would be too much of an imposition. Finally it was decided to use marines.

The men to serve in the detail will be picked from various regiments and will be selected personally by Major Gen. Lejeune, commandant of marines. It is thought that Lieutenant Poe, marine officer of the Mayflower, will be in charge of the detail.

Governor Smith Cancels 1,040 Engagements; Doctor Orders Him Not to Use His Voice

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 5.—Governor Smith today directed his Secretary, George B. Graves, to cancel 1,040 personal and speaking engagements. This action became necessary, the Governor said through his secretary, because of the condition of his throat.

This afternoon the Governor had a long talk with his physician, who strongly advised that for the next few weeks at least he give up all speaking engagements and confine himself to such matters as would not compel him to use his voice.

The Governor objected, but the physician told him that otherwise there might be serious consequences.

"In that case," the Governor is reported to have said, "the engagements will be given up."

Secretary Graves said he expects to have some difficulty in explaining to the Governor's friends. Each one will receive a personal letter from the Governor, he said.

Governor Smith was still at the Executive Mansion tonight, not having gone to the Capitol since he returned from New York earlier in the week.

He does not expect to go to the Capitol before Monday at the earliest. He will see but few visitors then and none where it will be necessary for him to hold an extended conversation. The Governor is conserving his strength for the meeting of the Barge Canal Survey Committee, which was authorized by the last Legislature. This meeting is set for Thursday.

Appeals for Aid.

Although the official temperature in New York City yesterday was 96 at 4 P. M., a thermometer under an awning at Pierrepont and Fulton Streets, Brooklyn, registered 107, and other thermometers exceeding 100 at other points in the metropolitan area.

The suffering in the tenement house sections of the city among the poor was so great that charity societies sent out their first appeals for help. Lawson Purdy of the Charity Organization Society sent out the following notice:

"With 6,232 children under the care of the society and 1,749 families where there is serious illness, the present heat wave is causing us grave concern. Our workers are at the point of exhaustion themselves trying to relieve the situation.

"I want to ask the public to help us by sending in relief funds at once. Especially do we need money to be enabled to escape the city's heat and get away for the week-end or longer should feel glad to send something for the city's unfortunates who are left behind.

"We are arranging fresh air care for as many of our families as possible and are sending extras to those who lie ill in tenement homes. Checks made payable to the Charity Organization Society will be used at once and gratefully received by all of us."

Although there was no concerted movement to do so the Merchants' Association heard that some merchants, in various parts of the city, were planning to close their stores today to give full holiday to their workers and it was reported that some factories might also close. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced that its 9,000 employees would have the day off. The merchants also reported a tremendous demand for electric fans, many of them having already exhausted their stocks. The New York Edison Company did such a large fan business that the persons standing in line were even greater than in 1917, when scouts for dealers were telephoning all over the city trying to locate fan stocks.

Many of the Magistrates' courts relaxed their dignity because of the heat and those awaiting call were permitted to remove their coats and collars. There were 550 cases waiting to be called in the Traffic Court, and the rooms were packed.

There was a lot of excitement as well as heat in Columbus Circle when some girls who were attending the Gertrude Hoffmann dancing unit combined a hunt for coolness with an opportunity to get some publicity by dashing in bathing suits from the Century Theatre to the pool at the foot of the Maine Monument and taking a dip. They tied up traffic, and one of them, Catherine Gallimore, 18 years old, of 782 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, received a summons to appear in the West Side Court today. The others took to the park and ran back to the theatre.

Trials in White Plains Adjourned.

In White Plains the trial of Miss Jennie Fava on a charge of forgery was adjourned until Monday by County Judge William F. Bleakley because of the heat, and the suit of Charles J. Davis, against three surgeons on the charge of performing an unnecessary operation on his son was put over for the same reason by Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor Jr.

The Rockaways and Coney Island and Long Beach were jammed with crowds as large as the usual Sunday throngs in July. Real estate men were busy renting bungalows, and many persons offered premiums of several hundred dollars to obtain immediate occupancy. Thousands of persons slept on the beach from Far Rockaway to Neponsit on Thursday night, and none of the old inhabitants could remember when there had been so many automobiles there at night.

Thousands last night went to the parks and slept on the lawns and benches. Central Park attracted the greatest number. Mount Morris Park, between 120th and 124th Streets, accommodated at least 1,500 persons. About 6,000 persons slept in Riverside Park between 135th and 155th Streets. In Isham Park, at 214th Street and Broadway, 2,000 sought relief from the heat. It was estimated that 5,000 negroes slept in St. Nicholas Park.

The schools continued to close in many Eastern cities yesterday, nearly all of them in Connecticut, shutting up until the present hot spell is over. In Rhode Island children collapsed at their desks and the schools were closed early in the morning. In New York City teachers did all they could to make the day bearable and there was little studying done. It was not at all unusual to see a whole class resting with their heads on their desks, or marching out at a time to get water. In one school on the lower east side an ice man, father of one of the pupils, made friends of all the teachers by sending around ice twice in the course of the day. The teachers cracked the ice and kept it in bowls on their desks for themselves and the children to munch.

Hotter Up the State.

The heat up-State continued to reach new marks yesterday, according to The Associated Press. At Poughkeepsie six more persons were prostrated, and the thermometer reached 100. Even the trained athletes practicing there for the crew races were ordered to relax in their efforts and only did a few perfunctory strokes during the day. A thermometer in the sun on a construction job in that city reached 141 and work was declared off. Factories and shops also closed.

In Binghamton it was 96 at noon. Utica sweltered, and Emile Brucker, 45 years old, died in St. Luke's Hospital there. It was 102 in New Haven, Conn., at noon, and factories closed all over the city. At Southington a woman who sought relief from the heat in a brook was drowned. In Baltimore 101 was recorded, breaking all records for June in that city. Schools were closed and shops worked on half time.

Chicago reported a temperature of 95, and it was between 95 and 100 in the central valleys. Estimates in Chicago were that more than 150 persons had died in the East and Midwest in the last few days. Lincoln and Grant Parks in Chicago were thrown open to those who wished to sleep in them. Northern Michigan and Minnesota are due for warmer weather, according to the weather man, who could see no relief for two or three days. It was a little cooler in Boston, but all schools in the city were closed for the day at noon.

HEAT NOT UNPRECEDENTED.

The Country Had Eight Sweltering Weeks in 1894.

The persistency of the present hot spell has given rise to discussion as to whether the climate of this country is gradually changing. Belief that the present hot spell is unprecedented is contradicted by the records.

In 1894 there were nearly eight weeks from June 9 to July 31 when the temperature hovered around the 90s. The hottest temperature recorded in that time was 99 degrees on June 23, and the lowest 69 degrees on July 8. Except for five or six cool days in all those eight weeks there was little relief from the heat.

In 1856 there was another hot period and in the week ending Aug. 15 of that year 651 persons died in the United States of heat prostrations. In recent years New York has known Summer days when the heat was excessive, but usually a cooling Summer shower has followed.

4 DROWN AT MOUNTAINVIEW.

Go Into Water Overheated and Are Seized With Cramps.

MOUNTAINVIEW, N. J., June 5.—Four persons were drowned in and about Mountainview tonight, and many were rescued. In each case the police believed that the victims plunged into the water while overheated and were seized with cramp.

The victims were:

High Pressure Area Persists From Bermuda to Arizona.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The familiar "no relief in sight" emanated from the Weather Bureau again tonight as the sixth day of the heat wave enveloping the country from Iowa and Illinois eastward hung up new temperature records at half a dozen points in the East and added about half a dozen prostrations to Washington's total.

The area of high atmospheric pressure extending from Bermuda westward to Arizona had shown no sign of weakening, the bureau said, which would hold out any hope of relief in the hot weather for at least two or three days.

The mercury bubbled up to the 100-degree mark on the official thermometer here today, and reached the same maximum at Baltimore and Philadelphia, breaking records for this early in the year at all three places.

COOLIDGE GOES TODAY DESPITE INTENSE HEAT

Rail Men Will Do All They Can to Make His St. Paul Trip Comfortable.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—Apparently unperturbed by the heat, which has stifled Washington and the territory through which he will travel, President Coolidge went ahead today with plans for his Minnesota trip, which will take him away from the capital from mid-afternoon tomorrow until Wednesday morning.

With the temperature in the street soaring above 100 degrees, the President put in a full day in his office, dressed in a dark gray woolen suit. He had doffed his vest, but otherwise was attired as usual.

Railroad officials who will be in charge of the President's train on its thirty-hour run from Washington to St. Paul, while hopeful that there will be a material drop in temperature, are making arrangements to give the official party all relief possible if the heat wave continues.

Traveling on a special section of a regular train, with accommodations limited to members of his party, the President will have the seclusion he preferred to forego last Winter, when he traveled in a car sharing accommodations with the public. The train will be made up of a compartment car for the President and Mrs. Coolidge and their guests, club, observation and dining cars, and a car for newspapermen.

Wherever possible, the train will be routed to avoid large stations and terminals. Arrival at St. Paul is scheduled for soon after 8 o'clock Sunday night, and the President and Mrs. Coolidge will go to the home of Secretary and Mrs. Hoover, who will make the trip with them, to be overnight guests.

Monday's program calls for the President's attendance at a noon luncheon to be given in his honor at the Nicollet Hotel in Minneapolis, to which he will motor from St. Paul, and for the delivery of an address in the afternoon at the Norse-American Centennial at the State fair grounds. In the evening, before boarding a train for the return journey to Washington, he will be the guest at a reception to be held in the State house in St. Paul.

PLANS FIGHT FOR ZONING.

New Jersey League of Municipalities to Appeal Decisions.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., June 5.—Forty members of the New Jersey League of Municipalities met today in East Orange to discuss means for establishing building zones in the twenty towns of the league.

Previous measures to establish zones in Nutley, N. J., and other league communities have been thwarted by the courts. It was decided therefore at today's meeting to appeal these cases to a higher court and a resolution was passed calling for individual contributions from the league members to enable its Zoning Committee to proceed with these appeals.

STICK IN HOT ASPHALT, BARELY ESCAPE AUTOS

Woman Loses Shoe and Just Saves Stocking — Policeman Held Fast in Front of Truck.

The situation in which Br'er Rabbit found himself when he met the Tar Baby was almost duplicated twice yesterday, when a young woman got stuck in the soft tar surface and a policeman got stuck in the asphalt of two roads, and were almost run down by automobiles. As a result of the policeman's predicament, traffic patrolmen throughout the city were supplied with wooden platforms on which to stand.

The young woman, who refused to reveal her name, got stuck as she was crossing the eastern approach of Washington Bridge at 181st Street. She was in the middle when the signal for the resumption of traffic was sounded. She stopped, and her sharp heels sank into the tar melted by the heat as two lines of automobiles started toward her. She started to step back to the curb, but her feet were held fast. She gave a wrench, and a foot came from a slipper. She got it back into the shoe and tried again as the cars, almost upon her, came to a stop with a grinding of brakes.

Once more she wrenched, and then as her foot again came from the slipper, she lost her balance, and her stockinged foot sank into the blistering tar. Her stocking was half dragged off as she pulled her foot up. Then standing on one foot, she lost her balance again and fell, crying with pain as her hands sank into the tar.

A dozen men ran to her aid from automobiles and a street car, and the employes of the latter, with jerky steps, reached her first. By a united effort they got her loose and carried her to the sidewalk, where she got a taxi and went home.

Patrolman McAvoy of Traffic A got caught in the asphalt at the intersection of Broadway and Seventh Avenue, where he was on duty, and discovered it when he tried to step out of the path of a big truck moving toward him. He found he could not move because his feet had sunk nearly an inch into the soft asphalt. Only by using all his strength could he pull himself loose and get out of the truck's way.

KILLED BY HEAT AT 105.

Benjamin Keyser, Oldest Jersey Man, Stricken on Walk.

Benjamin Keyser of Lancaster Road, Ridgefield, N. J., who celebrated his 105th birthday on May 28, was probably the oldest victim of the heat wave. He was stricken Thursday while walking near his home and died last night in the North Bergen Hospital.

Keyser was said to have been the oldest man in New Jersey and the oldest communicant of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America. He was born in Dublin in 1820 and came to this country with his wife and young daughter in 1844. His wife died in 1888 and he moved to West Hoboken. About twenty-five years ago he retired from business and went to Ridgefield.

When a 104th birthday anniversary party was held at his home last year, his eleven grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren gave him a birthday cake bearing 164 candles. At that time he remarked that he smoked, did not require glasses and twice every day walked half a mile to the Post Office. It was on one of these walks Thursday that he collapsed.

WOMAN DIES IN HELL GATE.

Swimming to Escape Heat, She Drowns as Her Children Watch.

While her three little girls and several hundred others in Astoria Park, Long Island City, looked on last night, Mrs. Mildred Castelli, 24 years old, of 62 Ditmars Avenue, Long Island City, was caught in a Hell Gate whirlpool and drowned while taking a swim to escape the heat.

Mrs. Castelli was an expert swimmer. When she reached the park she left the children on the river bank with friends and plunged in. She stroked strongly and shouted back to those on shore how cool the water felt. Suddenly she struck the whirlpool and shouted for help.

While Mrs. Castelli battled bravely with the current, a dozen men started for her. The women, frightened by her cries, left the water and watched the rescue attempt from the shore, where the three little girls wept. Some one tried to launch a boat, but it overturned.

When the swimmers reached the whirlpool Mrs. Castelli had disappeared. Late last night the body had not been recovered. The neighbors took the woman's children, all under five years, home to their father.

20-INCH SNOWFALL IN UTAH.

Farmers Rejoice at Cool, Wet Weather in Northwest.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 5 (AP).—Cool weather prevailed throughout Utah and Idaho today. Snow was reported from certain sections of Yellowstone National Park, in the Northwest section of Wyoming and in the mountain sections of Utah.

In Southern Idaho and Southern Utah frost did some damage to crops, the Weather Bureau reported. The cool and wet weather of the past week has been very beneficial to the farms.

At Brighton, Utah, the source of most of Salt Lake City's water supply, more than twenty inches of new snow had fallen up to midnight last night.

Blame Heat for Troy Man's Suicide.

TROY, N. Y., June 5 (AP).—George E. Smith, President of the Smith Yarn Mills here, today ended his life by shooting himself in the right temple when in his office at the mills. He was 76 years old and had been in ill health for some time. It was believed that the intense heat of recent days had added to sufferings from poor health and caused him to end his life.

AWARDS $19,107,902 IN CLAIMS ON GERMANY

Commission Allows $16,500,000 to Shipping Board—New York Firms Win Cases.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—Awards totaling $19,107,902 to American claimants were announced today by the German Mixed Claims Commission. The awards included one to the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation for $16,500,000.

The award to the Shipping Board included approximately $9,000,000 it has paid out to owners of ships which were lost in the war while it was operating them. It also included payment for four Dutch vessels requisitioned by the United States Government in March, 1912, for commercial purposes, and for vessels owned and operated in commercial trade during the war by the Shipping Board.

The board's entire award bears interest of 5 per cent. from November 11, 1918, bringing its present value to approximately $21,000,000.

The commission's awards also included one of $84,852 to Otto Carl Feldheim of New York; $28,935 to the F. W. Woolworth Company of New York; $450,000 to the Standard Commercial Tobacco Company, Inc., of New York; $4,653 to Parke, Davis & Co. of Detroit; $20,000 to Henry William Ludeke of East Orange, N. J.; $49,127 to Elsa Knauth of Kingston, N. Y.; $204,000 to the Luckenbach Steamship Company of New York; $131,000 to Edward F. Luckenbach of New York; $52,148 to Emil Frenkel of New York, and $82,204 to the Standard Commercial Steamship Corporation of New York.

BLACKMAILER KILLS THOMAS L. LEEMING

count at the Brooklyn Trust Company and bring it here for me to sign."

McQuade took the check to Leeming, who signed it, and told him to cash it and bring the money back to the hotel room in $100 notes. He said Leeming and Muller were sitting at a table, on which was a pack of cards. After McQuade returned with the money he left Leeming and Muller in the room.

The next day McQuade asked Leeming about the money.

"What was the idea?" he said. "It didn't look right to me."

Paid $7,500 in Fear of Death.

"I paid that money under duress," replied Leeming. "That man had a gun in his pocket and was aiming it at me, even when you were in the room."

"Why don't you report it to the police?" asked McQuade.

"It would cause too much scandal," Leeming replied.

Leeming told McQuade that Muller had threatened to kill Leeming and commit suicide in the room at the Imperial if the importer did not "come across." He said that after McQuade left the room Muller forced him to accompany him downstairs and enter a taxicab, telling the driver to take Leeming to the Cunard Line piers. McQuade said Leeming told him that Muller had leaned into the taxi and said: "You'll never see me again."

McQuade also said Leeming told him that Muller was a drug addict and had told him he intended to buy drugs with the $7,500. The police believe that Muller had spent or gambled away all this money.

Leeming also told McQuade of his meeting with Muller in the Catskills. According to McQuade, Leeming said that Muller had told a story of misfortune that had touched his heart.

Mr. McQuade was with Mr. Leeming in the hospital when he died. Others at the deathbed were Leonard Busby Leeming, a son; Smith Ely Jelliffe Jr., a nephew, and D. E. Austin, a business partner. Herman L. Du Pree, a foster son, with whom Mr. Leeming had had a luncheon engagemtn for 1 o'clock, arrived just after his death. Mr. Leeming's wife was at their country home in Glen Cove, L. I., at the time of the shooting. She came to New York at once, but arrived after her husband had died.

The Leemings had homes at 94 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, and at Glen Cove. Mr. Leeming was born in Montreal, Canada, on Jan. 9, 1872. He was graduated from the Columbia University School of Mines in 1894, two years after his marriage to Miss Gertrude Busby at Glen Cove. They have three children—Helen Schuyler Leeming, born in 1900; Leonard Busby Leeming, born in 1902, and Thomas Lonsdale Leeming Jr., born in 1904.

Mr. Leeming was senior member of the firm of Thomas Leeming & Co., drug and perfume importers; Vice President of Nestle's Food Company of New York; Vice President of the Leeming, Miles Company, Ltd., Montreal, Canada, and a director of the Dime Savings Bank. He was a director of the Brooklyn Academy of Music and a member of the committee which underwrote the appearances of the Metropolitan Opera Company in Brooklyn. With Mrs. Leeming, he was responsible for bringing many concerts to Brooklyn.

A Member of Many Clubs.

Mr. Leeming was a trustee of Adelphi College, a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, President of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, and a member of the following clubs: Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht, Nassau County, University, Century, Hardware, Columbia University, Rembrandt and Hamilton.

Muller at first said he lived in Saratoga, N. Y., but later gave his address as 1,206 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia. He said neither was his real "home town," which he refused to name because he did not want his people to learn what had happened. He stated his age as 26 and his occupation as machinist. Locked up in Police Headquarters on a charge of homicide, he will be arraigned in the Homicide Court today.

Detectives found last night that Mueller has a prison record and an alias.

Mueller, as "Charles Koehler," was arrested March 11, 1922, charged with felonious assault. This charge was changed to robbery and in the Court of General Sessions Mueller, as Koehler, was sentenced to serve from two and a half to five years in Sing Sing by Judge Francis X. Mancuso. The complainant was Fred Sylvester of 137 East Eighteenth Street, who charged that his gold watch and money had been taken by Mueller in a hold-up.

In a furnished room at 218 East Sixty-eighth Street, which had been occupied by Mueller for five weeks, Detectives Fay and Upham found an expensive brown leather suit case containing a loaded .32-calibre Colt automatic pistol, ten pawn tickets, a massage machine, thought to be stolen, and a skeleton key.

Had Guns Months Ago.

Detective McLennan visited the Hotel Imperial, Broadway at Thirty-first Street, and found two black leather bags which the manager said had been left there by a "Charles Leeming, a cousin of Thomas L. Leeming," when he checked out of the hotel on Dec. 8, 1924. "Charles Leeming," the police say, was Mueller. Inside one of the bags were two cardboard boxes which had held the pistol with which Leeming was shot and the .32 calibre pistol found in the furnished room in Sixty-eighth Street. These were bought in a hardware store in Philadelphia. The significance of these boxes is that Mueller had the pistols when he stopped at the Imperial last December, at which time Leeming gave him $7,500.

Mr. Thomas L. Leeming,
130 William Street.
Dear Sir:

We are holding baggage for your cousin, Charles S. Leeming, since December 8, 1924. We received a wire from him from Atlanta, Ga., asking us to forward to him, care of the American Express Company, his bags. We wrote to your cousin and have never received a reply. We would like to ascertain his home address so that we can communicate with him regarding his baggage and also an unpaid bill amounting to $13.20. Thanking you for any information you can give us, we are,

Yours truly,
HOTEL IMPERIAL, Credit Manager.

This bill and others contracted by Mueller, when he was known as "Charles Leeming, Mr. Leeming's cousin," were paid by Leeming.

Besides numerous pictures of a certain kind Detective McLennan found in the second bag a letter written by Leeming, showing that he occasionally financed Mueller.

The letter was written on the stationery of Mr. Leeming's firm and was addressed to Morgan and Sampson of 501 Howard Street, San Francisco, Cal. It read:

"This will serve to introduce to you my cousin, Mr. Charles Leeming.

"Will you be so good as to cash for Mr. Leeming the enclosed cheque for $50?"

The letter was signed "T. L. Leeming."

WASHINGTON'S EYES ON RESTLESS CHINA

POLICE STRIKE IN SHANGHAI

More Than 150,000 Workers Now Out There—Canton Factions Engage In Battle.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The gravity of the situation in China is fully recognized in Washington but officials today deprecated, and some of them characterized as unfortunate, the publication of reports concerning the situation, hinting at the possibility of civil war on a large scale between the forces of Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, and Feng Yu hsiang, the "Christian" General, leading the other Northern faction, with Japan backing Chang and Soviet Russia supporting Feng.

Any alignments of sympathy which may exist between Moscow and Tokio and the rival Northern Chinese generals, it was stated in a responsible official quarter, are believed to be of a much less tangible nature than indicated, and while there may be secret ill feeling between Chang and Feng, both are, ostensibly, at least, reported to be supporters of the Peking Government.

President Coolidge, it was stated by a spokesman at the White House today, has no information whatever on which the plans of Soviet Russia may be with respect to China. There have been ample signs that Soviet propagandists have been taking advantage of the Shanghai situation to stir the Chinese to hostility against foreigners, but officials indicated that the Government is without concrete evidence that Russia is planning the conquest of China or seeking a clash with Japan by fomenting a civil war between Generals Feng and Chang.

While it is true that General Feng has been receiving small quantities of arms and munitions from Soviet Russia, these supplies, because of difficulties of camel transportation, have been limited. It is doubted whether Feng is equipped to engage in a campaign with the aim, if he desired to open hostilities with Chang Tso-lin, who is well fortified, has the moral support of Japan, and is in control in parts of North China.

Serious as have been the demonstrations at Shanghai, it was stated, they have not interfered with the alignments in North China except in so far as the doctrine of unrest may have permeated the minds of students and agitators all over China.

Marines Sent to Protect Americans.

In landing marines in Shanghai and sending warships to Canton to protect lives and property, the Government is carrying out the traditional American policy, it was explained at the White House today.

President Coolidge believes that such precautions should be taken and he is following the recommendations of the Asiatic commander. These marines will protect American lives and property. Marines, it was said, are never landed on foreign shores for any other purpose, and this policy will be rigidly followed.

John Van A. MacMurray, the new Minister to China, will leave Washington tomorrow for Peking. He will proceed to San Francisco and sail on June 13.

Despite the confusion in China, it is the expectation of the Washington Government that the Chinese Customs Conference will be held, in some habitable some time this Fall, and it is hoped that this conference will bring the various factions together. It was revealed today that the Washington Arms Conference agreements do not necessarily require that the 5-in. or special taxes be abolished before the surtax increase of 2½ per cent. may be accorded to China, although the full total increase of 12½ per cent. in import taxes could not be granted without the abolition of the likin.

It is expected that the Customs Conference will result in the granting of the 2½ per cent. increase in return for written promises by China that everything possible will be done to bring about the abolition of the likin, and that the additional increase will be held out as a reward for the final accomplishment of that end.

Big Chinese Armies in Field.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—Information from authentic sources of the swift approach in China of general warfare which promises to dwarf present disturbances in Shanghai, Canton and Changsha is in the hands of the Washington Government.

The purport of this information, which also has reached The Associated Press, is that a clash for military mastery of China is impending. Whether it will come immediately on the heels of the trouble in the coastal regions or break later is held problematical, but authorities on the ground declare it is inevitable.

Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, with his force of 200,000 men, and Feng Yu-hsiang, with a following of 175,000 are being watched by observers. Friction between them already has developed to the point where armed struggle may be precipitated at the least provocation.

President Coolidge is being kept advised of the situation in China. He intends that the American naval craft now in Chinese waters, as well as the marines landed in Shanghai, the legation guard at Peking and other American detachments shall be utilized for the protection of American lives and property.

At present, not including the additional ships and men now en route to Shanghai, the American forces of the army, navy and Marine Corps in China comprise the 841 officers and men under the command of Brig. Gen. W. D. Conner at Tientsin, the Peking Legation guards and the marine detachment landed at Shanghai, with two companies of volunteers, one infantry and one cavalry, serving as part of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps.

In addition to these and excepting the emergency detachments now at Shanghai there are 940 British, 604 Japanese, 1,622 French and some Italian troops in China for the protection of their nationals and interests.

Information has reached The Associated Press pointing to direct Russian Soviet participation in the impending struggle for the control of China.

The preparations already made contemplate a civil war of major proportions, centring in the northern provinces and dwarfing in importance the present sporadic disturbances in the south.

The ultimate political consequences can only be conjectured. The area of probable operations is in the sphere of greatest interest to Japan, and the aid of the Soviet is being thrown behind the standards of Fen Yu-hsiang, leader of the faction least friendly to Tokio. Opposing Feng stands Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, reported to have the moral, if not the actual physical, support of the Japanese Government.

In its last analysis such a struggle might easily approximate a war between Japan and Russia, with the actual campaigning carried on by Feng and Chang and the supplies furnished by Moscow and Tokio.

Chinese Factions Battle in Canton.

CANTON, June 5 (AP).—In fighting here tonight the Cantonese drove the Yunnanese from the city.

A general strike is threatened and telegraphic communication with Hongkong has been suspended.

Inhabitants are fleeing to Hongkong.

Martial law is proclaimed here nightly.

The merchants, who have suffered considerably, are demanding action against the military establishments with the ultimate idea that a peaceful civil government under the Kuomintang may be placed in power.

Banks and business houses were closed today as money and valuables were placed in the foreign settlement for safekeeping.

Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

SHANGHAI, June 5.—Five hundred native police employed in the International Settlement struck today, making the situation much worse. About 1,500 police are still loyal, but efforts are being made to disarm them when they leave duty.

The landing of more American sailors is helping, but the defection of the native force is producing a pessimistic feeling in the foreign community.

The chief development in the strike today was its extension to the International Settlement, where most of the foreigners reside now. It is estim

HYLAN'S 'PROGRESS' FOR SHOP WINDOWS

MAYOR APPROVES PLAN

Publication to Be Sold to Store Owners—Hylan Says It Will Enlighten People.

"Seven Years of Progress," a history of the Hylan administration, will be depicted in 10,000 shop windows in New York in a new pictorial poster publication, designed along the lines of Current Events, beginning July 1.

The new publication is backed by The World Pictorial Company, Inc., of Washington, D. C., of which Francis G. Harley is the head. They have opened headquarters at the Hotel Cadillac and have advertised for salesmen in New York newspapers.

The plan is to be self-supporting, Mr. Harley said last night. Pictures will be sold to shop owners in all parts of the city at a nominal price. "Naturally," he said, "we don't expect to sell to persons antagonistic to the Mayor. But that doesn't mean that we are floating this scheme in the Mayor's interest alone.

"It is not a begging nor a hijacking proposition and it's to be as high class as any New York newspaper. We intend to publish pictures of timely topics. We have simply chosen 'Seven Years of Progress' to start with. The Mayor and the city officials are not under any obligations to us, nor are we under any obligations to them."

Shows the Mayor Digging.

Mr. Harley exhibited copies of the first posters, of which there are four. The first is captioned, "Hon. John Francis Hylan, who is completing his second four-year term as Mayor of New York City and is in line for a third term."

It shows the Mayor breaking ground for the new Washington Heights subway. To the right of the picture is an editorial dwelling on the Mayor's fight for a 5-cent fare. It begins: "Service to the people has been the keynote of the entire Administrations of the Hon. John Francis Hylan, Mayor of New York City, now completing eight years of strenuous service and in line for renomination and re-election for four years more."

The second is a picture of the police parade with an inset of Commissioner Enright, and captioned: "New York's 'Finest' rank as the best in the world and they are directed by the World's foremost police executive." To the right is an editorial on the record of the New York Police Department.

The third picture is devoted to the Fire Department with an inset of Fire Commissioner Drennan, and an accompanying editorial eulogizing his work. The fourth picture deals with "The Great Transit Tunnel to Staten Island," and is captioned: "Under Mayor Hylan's Administration this project is being promoted to relieve congestion and to develop one of the city's important boroughs."

Hylan Endorses Plan.

Mayor Hylan, Commissioner Enright and Arthur S. Tuttle, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate, have written letters to Mr. Harley endorsing the plan. The Mayor's letter said:

City of New York,
Office of Mayor.
June 2, 1925.

Dear Mr. Harley: Thank you very much for the advance proofs you so kindly sent. The pictures are excellent and the accompanying text gives them an added value. The more people know about New York and the service the city renders its people the more they will appreciate their city.

The unfairness of the traction controlled press prevents the people from knowing the truth about the big things that the city Government is doing. All we want is that the people should know the facts and your move to give them the facts in attractive illustrated form will be a real public service which will be of unquestioned value.

We will be glad to cooperate with you in furnishing photographs and information for inclusion in your series, which, displayed in the stores and windows, will present the activities of the various departments and boroughs to many thousands.

If the facts set forth in the "Seven Years of Progress" which have not been and cannot be controverted, are presented to the people of this city, they will know what their Government has done and is doing for them. With appreciation of your effort to present these facts in striking form, I am,

Very truly yours,
(Signed) JOHN F. HYLAN.

In his letter Commissioner Enright said he thought the pictures very good and had no particular change to suggest.

STEEL PIER HOLDINGS SOLD.

Report of $2,100,000 Deal Verified, but No Details Given.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 5. — Charged cording to an apparently authoritative report the Steel Pier holdings here, including the pier and the Boardwalk properties opposite, have been sold for $2,100,000.

Frederick G. Burke of Ventnor City, a large stockholder in the pier activities, declared that the sale had taken place but would give no details. Jacob Bothwell, manager of the Steel Pier, had nothing to say about the matter. The pier was damaged by fire several months ago and $100,000 has been spent in remodeling its entrance.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT ON INSURANCE HEAD

L. A. Cerf Accused of Punching Complainant When Business Connections Were Severed.

Louis A. Cerf, 61 years old, general manager of the Mutual Benefit Insurance Company, whose whome is at 78 Lloyd Road, Montclair, N. J., was released in $1,000 bail for trial in Special Sessions when arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman on an assault charge made by William J. Louprette, 40 years old, President of the Life Associates Company of 99 William Street.

Mr. Louprette, who lives at 1,383 East Twenty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, charged that on May 29 Mr. Cerf punched him several times in Mr. Cerf's office at 11 John Street. Representative Royal H. Weller, counsel for the complainant, said that for thirteen years Mr. Louprette's firm had given its life insurance brokerage business to Mr. Cerf, and the alleged attack occurred when his client informed Mr. Cerf that the business connection was to be severed, Mr. Louprette alleged that after knocking him down with blows on the head and body, Mr. Cerf several times struck his head on the floor. Herbert C. Smyth, counsel for Mr. Cerf, entered a plea of not guilty and waived examination.

The complainant's lawyer referred to the fact that in August, 1920, Mr. Cerf had received a fractured skull in the Hudson Terminal in an altercation with another man. The police had been conducting a search for him for twenty-four hours when his family learned that he was dying at the Broad Street Hospital.

WILL BACK DEFENSE DAY.

Pennsylvania, Oregon and Massachusetts Governors Endorse Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—The Governors of Pennsylvania, Oregon and Massachusetts telegraphed the War Department today that they would take steps to carry out in their respective States observance of the defense test July 4 in cooperation with the War Department.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania said:

"Every effort will be made in Pennsylvania to make the second defense day celebration as successful as the first. Have instructed Adjutant General Beary to take up question with General Sturgis."

"As Governor of the State of Oregon," Governor Pierce telegraphed, "I will do everything possible to support and cooperate with the Government in carrying out defense test plans to be outlined by General Menoher for July 4."

Herman A. MacDonald, Secretary to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, said: "Governor Fuller wishes me to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of May 29 and to inform you that he has directed the Adjutant General to take the necessary steps for the proper observance of defense day in Massachusetts."

AQUITANIA HAS ROUGH TRIP.

Mrs. H. P. Whitney Arrives on Liner—Will Design Duse Memorial.

The Cunarder Aquitania arrived late yesterday—through rought weather, the officers said. Among her first cabin passengers was Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, American sculptress, who had been spending three months in France and Italy. Mrs. Whitney said that it would take nine months to cast the bronze statue which she created for the monument at St. Nazaire to commemorate the landing there of the first American troops. She added that she had been commissioned by the Duse Memorial Committee to design a monument to be erected at Asolo, Italy, in memory of the great actress.

Another passenger on the Aquitania was John R. Mott, General Secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., who had been attending conferences at Budapest and other capitals in Europe. Harold F. McCormick of Chicago returned after a three weeks' stay in London and Paris and had nothing to say about his wife, Mme. Ganna Walska, the singer, or any other subject.

Newmarket Trading Company and Several Individuals Accused.

Trial of the Newmarket Trading Company and several individual defendants on charges of using the mails to defraud and conspiracy began yesterday before Federal Judge John C. Knox. After a jury had been obtained the trial went over until Monday. The indictment accuses the defendants of defrauding merchants out of $500,000 by establishing stores in various States, ordering large quantities of goods and then of changing their location, taking the goods with them.

Two of the individual defendants, Irving Silverman and Morris Rachmil, have pleaded guilty and are expected to testify for the Government. Maxwell S. Mattuck, head of the criminal branch of the United States Attorney's office, said that the trial probably would take a week. Assistant United States Attorney David P. Siegel will prosecute the defendants.

BANKS AID STINNES, FEARING COLLAPSE

By T. R. YBARRA.

the impending downfall of the stupendous industrial edifice reared by him.

Some idea of the vastness and complexity of the Stinnes interests may be gained when it is remembered that it includes enormous mining concerns, factories, electrical works, automobile plants, insurance companies, shipping combines, manufacturing trusts, oil fields, hotels, theatres and newspapers. It was said at the death of Hugo Stinnes last year that he himself did not know what he did and did not own.

Deny Liquidation Is Intended.

BERLIN, June 5 (AP).—A group of the larger German banks, headed by the Reichsbank, has decided to come to the rescue of the Stinnes concern to the extent of 40,000,000 marks, because the banks fear that its collapse would adversely affect German economic life. The funds to be placed at the disposal of the Stinnes family, it is announced, will enable it to renew short time credits.

This action by the banks was reported by some newspapers this morning, following yesterday's conference between the members and friends of the Stinnes family, representatives of the Reichsbank and various German banks and a number of industrial leaders, at which the Stinnes affairs were discussed.

A communiqué issued at Stinnes headquarters denies flatly rumors that the family intends to liquidate its holdings. It states the exact contrary is the case and that a new program, under the direction of Hugo Stinnes Jr., will devote itself to rational centralization of the various Stinnes enterprises.

The voluntary support of the Berlin banks is designated in the communiqué as a vot of confidence and an endorsement of the new orientation decided on by Mrs. Claire Stinnes, widow and sole heir of the magnate, her son, Hugo Jr., and the intimate associates of the elder Stinnes.

The family will continue publication of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which it views as a special legacy by the late Hugo Stinnes.

The present conflict in the family's affairs, says the communique, is the outcome of the "dualism" caused by conflicting views, which now have been removed through the withdrawal of Dr. Edmund Stinnes (oldest son of the late Hugo Stinnes).

The financial writers are inclined to view the crisis in the affairs of the Stinnes concerns as the logical sequence of the late Hugo Stinnes, former head of the concern, having overloaded during the inflation years. With few exceptions the writers concur in the belief that the Stinnes family's determination to jettison doubtful holdings and return to a policy of rigid centralization of its major properties represents sound procedure.

There is a general impression that, despite the present need of large credits, the Stinnes family's fortune is intact, and that once a policy of retrenchment and concentration is in full operation its holdings will acquire the desired element of liquidity.

The late Hugo Stinnes is quoted as having realized months before his death that the structure he reared during the inflation period gradually was becoming top-heavy. It is asserted that among his last instructions were that his sons dispose of such shareholdings in other ventures as represented temporary investments and confine themselves to the consolidation of the family's traditional enterprises.

Young Hugo Assumes Charge.

MULHEIM, Germany, June 5 (AP).—Hugo Stinnes Jr. has assumed active charge of the family's interests and plans to make this city his future headquarters. Since the retirement of the elder brother, Dr. Edmund Stinnes, the family council is said to have adopted a policy of rigid concentration and coordination of its various interests, planning to dispose of such undertakings as are not actively identified with its major schemes.

Hugo Jr. will head an executive directorate comprising Dr. Voegeler of Dortmund, Dr. Wittheoft of Hamburg and Dr. Silverberg of Cologne, who were associated with the late Hugo Stinnes Sr., founder of the family fortune.

LONDON, June 5 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph Agency dispatch from Amsterdam regarding the financial crisis through which the Stinnes organization in Germany is passing, says the Stinnes interests are not able to meet liabilities abroad, totaling 120,000,000 marks.

The difficulties have been caused, says the Exchange Telegraph Agency, by various foreign credits of the Stinnes interests being called in. Efforts to obtain new credits in the United States failed, it is stated.

New York bankers familiar with the German situation said yesterday that the Stinnes organization was in a position to work its way to firm ground, but that it would be necessary to dispose of many of the interests which had been acquired in recent years, and concentrate on a few lines such as coal, iron and steel.

It was declared that no Stinnes financing was likely in New York. Adequate banking connections are available in Germany for the Stinnes group, it was said, and bankers here declared that they had not been approached on the subject of a loan. The split among members of the Stinnes family is expected to result in wide changes of policy.

V. Everit Macy Gets Most of His Wife's Estate; Total $3,146,210; Jewelry Worth $385,507

An appraisal filed yesterday of the estate of Mrs. Edith Carpenter Macy shows that she left $3,146,210, of which $2,477,427 was in securities and $385,507 was the value of her jewelry. Mrs. Macy, who died Feb. 1 last, was the wife of V. Everit Macy, philanthropist, of Westchester County. Mrs. Macy gave the bulk of her estate to her husband, leaving him the residuary estate, $2,217,034; her jewelry, a trust fund of $144,635, which she had a right to dispose of under the will of her uncle, Franklin E. James, and a joint bank account of $1,791.

The only public bequest in the will was $25,000 to Teachers' College, to be added to the Ruth Fund for the aid of needy students. Among the debts of the estate was a balance of $45,000 due on a pledge to Teachers' College, a balance of $12,500 on a pledge to the Walter H. Page School of International Relations, and a balance of $2,000 to the Westchester Girl Scouts. She gave bequeats of from $10,000 to $15,000 to relatives and friends, and left $25,000 to her cousin, Isabel C. Morrison.

The largest holdings of securities were $200,000 Federal Land Bank bonds, $100,000 New York City 4½s, 12,000 shares Standard Oil of Indiana, worth $831,000; 15,000 shares National Fuel Gas Company, worth $165,000; 300 shares Mechanics and Metals Bank, $119,250, and $137,000 Provident Loan Society certificates.

The chief items of jewelry comprising the total of $385,507 were a necklace of sixty-three graduated pearls, weighing from ten to twenty grains each, valued at $125,000; a platinum and diamond corsage, $20,000; necklace of fifty-two pearls of nine grains each, $20,000; Indian-cut emerald diamond and onyx necklace, $14,500; rope of pearls, $12,300; ear drop containing a large black pearl and one white pearl, cracked, $30,000; cabochon emerald brooch, $6,600; emerald and diamond bar pin, $15,500; bracelet containing nineteen emeralds, $15,000; diamond chain, $10,000; pearl ring, thirty-five grains, $15,000, and three-stone emerald ring, $7,500.

GRAPPLES BURGLAR UNTIL SHE IS SHOT

WOUND IN HAND IS SLIGHT

Policeman Attracted by Shooting Runs Up Too Late to Catch the Fugitive.

Unarmed and alone, Mrs. Emma Decker, 33 years old, wife of the superintendent of an apartment house at 664 West 161st Street, made a plucky though futile attempt late last night to stop a negro burglar, armed with a jimmy and revolver, as he was clambering down the fire-escape of an adjoining apartment house.

In the scuffle that followed when Mrs. Decker caught the man's coattails and attempted to hold him till help came she was shot in the right hand. The negro escaped.

Mrs. Decker was in her apartment on the ground floor of the house when tenants shouted that a burglar was on the fire-escape. She ran to the rear, where the house is separated by a small courtyard from a similar building, fronting on 665 West 160th Street.

She saw the negro, a slender young man, clambering down the fire escape with a revolver in one hand and the end of a jimmy protruding from a newspaper held in his other hand. As he stepped from the fire-escape she grappled with him. He resisted and shot.

Patrolman James Stevens of the West 152d Street Station heard the shot and ran up, but was too late to see in which direction the negro ran. The policeman took Mrs. Decker to Columbus Hospital, where her wounds were dressed by Dr. Longo. Then she returned home.

The police learned that earlier in the day two boys had been seen trying to break into the apartment of B. Feldman on the first floor of the 160th Street house. They are trying to find out if this was the apartment that the negro had designs on, and if the boys had been sent on first to spy out the situation.

ANNETTE LEVY MOVES UP.

Makes Greatest Gain for Day in Jefferson Vote.

Miss Annette Levy, daughter of Justice Aaron J. Levy and nominee of County Clerk James A. Donegan in the voting contest being conducted for funds to save Monticello, the Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson, was the largest vote-getter in yesterday's betting in the contest. The Grand Street Boys' Association swung into line behind her candidacy yesterday and the result was the casting of 20,000 votes in her favor and her moving up from thirty-second to sixteenth place on the list. At the close of balloting yesterday the standing of candidates who had 20,000 or more votes was as follows:

LORD DERBY TO SELL BOROUGH OF BOOTLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—The entire Borough of Bootle will be sold by the Earl of Derby to the corporation of Liverpool if negotiations proceeding between the parties are successful. Bootle, which is part of Lord Derby's immense estate, is a square mile and a half in area and has more than 80,000 inhabitants. A million pounds is mentioned as its purchase price. The land was acquired in 1724 by the tenth Early of Derby for £14,000.

Lord Derby's possessions were brought into the political limelight during the general election in 1923, when he hinted in a speech that taxation might render it necessary for him to leave Knowsley Hall. He referred to the heavy death duties on estates such as his and the extreme difficulty of raising funds to discharge the duties.

His estates originally consisted of 68,942 acres in Lancashire, Cheshire, Flintshire, Surrey and Kent. He sold 5,000 acres at Bury a week ago for a figure which he declared was considerably under £1,000,000 and last year he sold his land at Colne for a substantial sum.

$50,000 FOR A SAFETY FUND.

General O'Ryan Will Head a Westchester County Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 5.—A campaign to raise $50,000 to carry on the work of the Public Safety Bureau of the Westchester Chamber of Commerce will be started tomorrow under the direction of Major General John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division during the World War.

Coroner Edward F. Fitzgerald of Westchester recently credited the bureau with causing a 37 per cent. reduction in accidents from automobiles, whereas a country-wide increase of 10 per cent. was reported.

District leaders appointed are as follows: Yonkers, William L. Brün; White Plains and vicinity, H. B. Vincent; Port Chester, Elwood Burdsall; Ossining and vicinity, Fred P. Stafford; Dobbs Ferry, David Ravekes; Tuckahoe, C. H. Behrman; Mamaroneck, John S. Kane; Pelham, William B. Randall; Roy, Congressman J. Mayhew Wainwright; Mount Kisco and vicinity, Major General John F. O'Ryan; Bronxville, Warren J. Hoysradt; Scarsdale and Hartsdale, Rush Wilson; Larchmont, Isaac S. Holbrook; Harmon and Croton, Alvin M. Higgins; Hastings, John S. Vinsser; Ardsley, S. H. Addyman, and Irvington, R. C. Abercrombie.

INDICT 3 IN PICKFORD CASE.

Grand Jury Holds Men Accused of Planning to Kidnap Actress.

LOS ANGELES, June 5 (AP).—Three men were indicted by the County Grand Jury today on a conspiracy charge in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap Mary Pickford, moving picture actress, and hold her for $200,000 ransom.

They are Charles F. Stevens, Adrian J. Wood and Claude E. Holcombe, arrested several days ago after police said they had overheard the trio discussing their plans.

Douglas Fairbanks, husband of the actress, appeared before the Grand Jury. The men were jailed in the absence of $50,000 bail each.

Benj. Winter Buys In West 57th St.

Benjamin Winter yesterday bought through Peter Grimm, as broker, the property 217 and 219 West Fifty-seventh Street, running through to 216 to 224 West Fifty-eighth Street. The price named was $1,960,000. This property was formerly the Gould Riding Academy and is now occupied by the Lincoln motor car showroom. The plot comprises 16,000 square feet fronting on Fifty-seventh Street and on Fifty-eighth Street, between Seventh Avenue and Broadway.

which he apparently did not intend to be taken too seriously.

Mr. Craig also arraigned the Mayor for alleged failure to keep his promises, and referred to him as "the five-cent fare champion who had talked seven-cent fares with Mr. Shonts of the Interborough."

"If a man perjures himself in court all his testimony is discredited," said Mr. Craig, looking at Mayor Hylan. "If a Mayor makes promises and doesn't keep them, then he becomes discredited."

Mr. Craig repeated his charge that Mayor Hylan was not really for the five-cent fare and that his bill was necessary to prevent public officials from changing their minds. Twice in his speech he referred to the coming city election.

"Why, John H. Delaney, who from his own report shows a tendency to raise subway fares may be the next Mayor," Mr. Craig said, looking at Mayor Hylan, who sat beside him. "As a matter of fact, Delaney has as much chance as any one to get the nomination—far more than some persons I could name."

The Controller grinned as he said this and waved his hand in the direction of the Mayor. The latter smiled but made no comment, although he appeared confused as a ripple of daughter swept through the room.

"Even Murray Hulbert may be your next Mayor. Who knows?" Mr. Craig continued. "He has about as much chance as Delaney."

Mr. Craig then assailed Julius M. Mayer, formerly Judge of the United States Circuit Court, who once sentenced him to sixty days in jail for contempt of court, and ended his plea for his bill as follows:

"All you members of this Board of Estimate are grown men. You are not children. You have minds of your own, and it is not necessary for you to vote exactly as you are told. However, I know how it will work. The Mayor will say, 'Call the roll,' and you will all fall into line."

"Don't pay any attention to the Controller," interjected the Mayor.

"I resent the Controller's imputations," said Mr. Guider, when, as Mr. Craig predicted, every member of the Board but himself voted with the Mayor and against consideration of his five-cent fare fixation bill. "I am not even sure that the Controller is right on his law. But I am sure of one thing. The Mayor has never asked me to vote with him, but the Controller has. I vote as I see things and take dictation from no one.

"I am not sure that the Controller has his law straight. He has fallen down in his interpretation of the law in times past, as repeated court decisions against his contentions have shown. For example, he carried the Classon Avenue sewer case in Brooklyn to the courts. He met defeat at every stage of the court proceedings."

FIGHTS SUBWAY TAX PLAN.

Eighth Av. Association Favors Higher Fare if Necessary.

Further opposition to the Board of Transportation's plan to raise 60 per cent. of the cost of the city's proposed subway system by tax and assessment on real property was expressed yesterday by the Board of Directors of the Eighth Avenue Association in a letter to Mayor Hylan and the Board of Estimate. The letter, which was signed by James W. Danahy, asserted that the Board of Transportation had "erred" in obtaining consents of property owners to the subway routes without mentioning the assessment plan, and declared the association would work against it.

"The Eighth Avenue Association is not a partisan organization, and takes the present stand not because of any partisanship but because it believes the plan is unjust and discriminatory," says the letter. "The association favors a 5-cent fare if it is economically possible to operate the subways on such a fare. If, however, such a rate will not pay construction and operating costs, the association maintains that the fare should be increased and that it should be borne entirely by those who use the subway.

"The cost of building and equipping the new subway routes will be approximately $3,200,000 a track mile, according to the plan presented by the Board of Transportation. Consequently, the cost of constructing the proposed Eighth Avenue subway, in which this association is particularly interested, from Greenwich Avenue to Columbus Circle will be about $38,000,000. Under the proposed plan the property owners along this route would be compelled to pay about $9,000,000 of this amount through direct assessment, and also pay their share, through increased property valuation, of the $187,000,000 which is to be raised by the issuance of short-term bonds.

"The Board of Transportation justifies this taxation on the ground that the subway enhances the value of the property. This enhanced valuation, however, has already been largely discounted by increased taxes, which have mounted about 50 per cent. on Eighth Avenue in the last five years.

"The property owners, already burdened with excessive taxes, cannot carry this increased burden without raising rents, which are also at their peak in the Eighth Avenue territory. Any noticeable increase in rents at this time would drive a large number of merchants out of business and bring hardships to the families who live in this neighborhood."

CLUBWOMEN DECRY SENSATIONAL NEWS

PICK A BROOKLYN LEADER

Mrs. Harry C. Palmer Unanimously Elected In Annual Convention at Jamaica.

Mrs. Harry C. Palmer of Brooklyn was unanimously elected President of the Long Island Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday at the federation's annual convention in the Jamaica Methodist Episcopal Church, Clinton Avenue, Jamaica. The entire ticket of officers for the ensuing year, of which Mrs. Palmer is the head, was selected by a nominating committee several days ago.

More than 200 prominent women of the Island attended the convention, representing every town and every club in the federation. The delegates adopted unanimously a resolution which reads:

"Whereas the exploitation of crime news in the press by flaring headlines and front-page publicity tends to create a morbid taste for gruesome events and incites to crime, especially among the undisciplined youth;

"Whereas the newspapers offer the best medium for educating the masses either for good or evil; be it

"Resolved, That the Long Island Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled on June 5, Jamaica, N. Y., call attention of the press to the demand for clean, wholesome news, subordinating that which is vicious and unwholesome."

Rev. P. E. Shoemaker, pastor of the church, rendered the invocation. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. Glenn Cuyler Pettit, President; Mrs. Richard M. Chapman, Mrs. Clinton H. Hoard, Mrs. George W. Dallas, Mrs. Isaac F. Russell, Mrs. Frederick Glover, Mrs. Ernest M. Strong, Mrs. Stanley M. Cox, Mrs. Harry C. Palmer, Mrs. H. H. Wright, Mrs. R. Edson Doolittle, Mrs. William Whittaker, Mrs. Laura D. Burroughs.

Stanley High, a member of Dr. Christian F. Reisner's committee for erecting the Broadway Temple in Manhattan, spoke for Dr. Reisner, who was unable to attend on account of illness. His subject was "Our Modern Youth." Following him on the program were Mrs. James Matthews, who officiated at the dedication of a new flag; Mrs. William Norris, Mrs. George Berry, Alicia Scott, Howard Fisher, Hallett Gilberte, Mrs. Myrtle Mason, Mrs. William McCarroll and Dr. Louis K. Anspacher, whose address on "Drama as a Social Force in a Democracy," was followed by the report of the election and installation of officers.

Besides Mrs. Palmer, the officers elected are: First Vice President, Mrs. Glenn C. Pettit of Rockville Center; Second Vice President, Mrs. Ernest M. Strong of Plandome; Third Vice President, Miss Gertrude J. Corwin of Brooklyn; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. C. Ledard of Hollis; Recording Secretary, Mrs. F. H. Handsfield of Rockville Center; Treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Martin of Brooklyn; Historian, Mrs. H. H. Marshall of Garden City.

Representatives for their counties are: Kings County, Mrs. Charles D. Smith of Brooklyn; Queens County, Dr. Julia Weyrant Perry of Forest Hills; Nassau County, Mrs. G. M. Dallas of Bellerose; Suffolk County, Mrs. Stanley M. Cox of Wantagh.

Members of the Federation say the convention was the most successful and largest ever held. Guests of honor at the convention were Mrs. Richard M. Chapman, Mrs. R. Edson Doolittle, Mrs. Emory A. Brown, Mrs. Alice Ralph Wood, Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, Mrs. R. G. Mason and Dr. Louis K. Anspacher.

KILL GIANT SWORDFISH AND SHARK IN FIGHT

Monsters Battling When Netted by Fishermen—One Weighs 1,000 Pounds, the Other 800.

Special to The New York Times.

BELMAR, N. J., June 5.—A swordfish weighing 1,000 pounds and a shark weighing 800 were killed by Lester Wolcott and W. H. Bennett, Belmar fishermen, after a fight lasting a half hour, twenty miles from shore here today.

The huge fish were caught in a sea net and had been fighting each other. The shark had been wounded and was getting the worst of the fight when the fishermen drew up. Armed with pikes and axes, Wolcott and Bennett flayed at the churning fish.

During the melee the fishing boat was nearly overturned when the sea monsters rammed the craft's sides. Both the shark and the swordfish, the latter the largest of its kind ever caught in these waters, were more than twelve feet in length. The shark was not of the man-eating variety, however, fishermen said.

The fighting fish ripped the net, and in the struggle the smaller fry that had been ensnared escaped.

MISSISSIPPI BOY KILLS HIS TEACHER

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., June 5 (AP).—Noland Stubblefield, second 14-year-old Mississipi youth to face a murder charge within a month, was in jail here today accused of killing A. K. Watkins, his school principal. The boy told of the slaying, officers said, following his capture in a dense wood near the spot where the body of Professor Watkins was found with a shotgun charge in the breast.

Professor Watkins is said to have incurred the enmity of young Stubblefield by efforts to discipline him.

Rumors of friction between the principal and his pupils led to a meeting of the school trustees at which 108 parents were present. The meeting voted 100 to 8 to retain Professor Watkins, and four of the eight negative votes cast, it is said, were by members of the Stubblefield family.

Police said the boy admitted killing Professor Watkins "to get rid of him." Waiting until his father and mother were away from home, the boy is alleged to have taken his father's shotgun, gone to the Watkins home, where several of the principal's children were playing, and fired a shot over their heads as a ruse to draw his intended victim from the house.

As Professor Watkins went down the road to investigate, he passed a clump of bushes, from which a shot was fired at close range.

$3,000 FOR INJURY TO EYES.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., June 5.—Because her vision was temporarily inverted by an accident and she saw things upside down, Mrs. Viola Post of Balmville has just received a verdict of $3,000 damages from a jury before Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of Nyack.

The verdict resulted from a suit for damages that Mrs. Post instituted through her counsel, Charles Sneed, against Leroy De Vall of Mount Treenper, N. Y., after a collision of automobiles at Valls Gate, Orange County. A doctor testified that a fracture of her skull exerted pressure upon the optic nerve that caused, temporarily, an inversion of vision and for a while objects appeared to her eyes as being upside down, but this fault eventually corrected itself. She also suffered painful headaches, it was alleged, and other discomfort. The jury gave her husband, Willis Post, $654. Her husband was with her in the crash.

FIGHT TO KEEP PARK OPEN.

Injunction Sought to Prevent Rye Authorities From Closing It.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., June 5.—Arthur I. Strang, counsel for Paradise Park, Rye Beach, one of the amusement resorts which the village officials have made unsuccessful attempts to close by resurrecting the Sabbath law passed in 1785, will file briefs Monday with Supreme Court Justice Albert S. F. Seeger for a permanent injunction to restrain the authorities from interfering with the operation of the park.

Strang will contend that the action of the authorities was an attempt on the part of the reform element to deprive several million persons of their pleasure during the Summer months. The park is now open under a temporary injunction granted by Justice George H. Taylor Jr.

GOING TO THE SUN

Out in northern Montana stands a giant of the Rocky Mountains called Going-to-the-Sun.

As one ascends this mighty old patriarch the feeling of going to the sun becomes almost real.

There are easier ways, however, of going to the sun than by climbing the Rockies.

For instance, thousands go to the sun at Coney Island and bask in its warmth on the Boardwalk,

And, at the peak of a glorious day, enjoy a good meal at CHILDS.

KANE MURDER CLUE POINTS TO A WHITE

A Third Negro Suspect Clears Himself—Held on Complaint of Little Girl's Parents.

POLICE THEORIES SHAKEN

Finding of Short Brown Hair on Dead Girl's Clothing May Indicate Slayer.

Everett Kelly, a negro elevator operator, was arrested yesterday on a charge made by a 12-year-old girl. Detectives following the faint trail of the murderer of Miss Florence Kane questioned him for several hours, trying to connect him with the crime. Kelly proved that he knew nothing of it.

The elevator man was arrested by Detectives Menahan, Curley and Noll on complaint of the parents of the girl, who live in an apartment house where Kelly is employed. When the detectives tried to arrest the negro he knocked Detective Menahan down. Curley and Noll subdued him and later declared they had found a blackjack in his pocket.

Although the police continued to search for a negro as the slayer of Miss Kane, they began yesterday to incline to the belief that possibly a white man committed the crime. This theory was inspired by three short brown hairs found on the clothing of Miss Kane by Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, Bellevue Hospital toxicologist. The weakness of this clue, however, lies in the fact that the brown hair may have been on Miss Kane's coat prior to the crime.

Captain John J. McCloskey, in charge of the investigators, reiterated his statement that nothing definite had been developed in the hunt for the criminal, but said that several "leads" were being run down which might prove fruitful.

MEAT NOT HARMFUL, DOCTORS ARE TOLD

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, American, Pleads in London for Common Sense Diet.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—Sir Arbuthnot Lane, famous English surgeon, presiding at a luncheon given by the English-Speaking Union in honor of the American doctors who have been in convention here, said that medical men had far more freedom in America in giving publicity to their ideas than had physicians in England.

"In almost every American newspaper one may see medical questions freely and boldly discussed by doctors," said Dr. Lane. "If a doctor were to do that in England, he would have the Ethical Committee of the British Medical Association down on him immediately. The committee really says in effect, 'what business have doctors to educate the public?' The public have no business to be educated and should be left to their fate.'

"The medical profession should not stand for this situation, and the public should insist upon hearing the truth, as they do in America. Furthermore, when the public are sufficiently educated the medical profession will disappear."

"The science of health has now reached such a high point of development in America that people believe that if ninety-nine per cent. of all drugs were thrown into the sea it would be a good thing for the human race, though rather hard on the fishes," Dr. Woods Hutchinson, American medical writer, told the doctors. His remarks caused much laughter.

"This was Oliver Wendell Holmes's theory, and it is widely accepted today," said Dr. Hutchinson. "Doctors now take their remedies from good food, fresh air and bright sunshine, and by advocating all the good things provided by nature they are opening a new era. Life is no longer a meditation on death. Health, not disease, is now being made contagious.

The most important single factor in a common sense diet is meat and lots of it. There is not a particle of evidence to support the old tradition that meat is bad for gout or the kidneys, or tends to harden the arteries. People who live on meat, like those in Canada, Australia and New Zealand are long-lived. Another new rule of the modern American doctor is to find what the patient likes best in the way of food, then let him have it.

Dr. Hutchinson's remarks, in addition to provoking merriment, caused comment because of his radical departure from old ideas. He exploded the cereal diet, saying that people who lived on these had about the same resistance power as rabbits or cows.

"The man who follows such a diet either soon quits it or else it quits him in an attack of pneumonia," he said. "We have been under the obsession that anything uninteresting must be good for us. Now we find that the one thing we cannot get along without is a luxury."

There was more laughing at the doctors' expense at another luncheon in their honor by the American Society in London when Wilson Cross, presiding, said that he saw many doctors present eating the very things which, for fees, they had ordered him to keep off as ruinous to his health.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo presided at a dinner to 700 doctors and guests at Guildhall tonight, given by the Advisory Committee of the Interstate Post-Graduate Assembly of America. Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, was the chief speaker. A message of welcome from the King to the American doctors was read.

We announce with deep regret the death of our President, Mr. Charles Woodruff Halsey.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon, and our stores will close at 3 P. M.

ROGERS PEET COMPANY

ALLIED NOTE CALLS ON REICH TO DISARM

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

ble only to the local authorities instead of the National Government.

In the next place the nation-wide portable wireless system of the police force is to be dismantled, and only a small number of permanent wireless stations retained.

Germany must dispense with several thousand machines for the making of munitions now retained by private concerns, and a long list is given of former Government factories for making munitions which must be dismantled down to the equipment required, in the judgment of the Allied Military Control Commission, to supply the German troops permitted by the Treaty of Versailles.

The note then states that the present equipment of the German forces is out of all proportion to their needs, and the allied commission is given wide powers to bring down the equipment to scale.

One point is made that Germany now has 200,000 railroad cars arranged for the transport of troops, whereas 10,000 would carry all the troops Germany is permitted to have.

Eight thousand steel helmets recently supplied to the police must be surrendered.

It has been discovered that many German units without horses hold large supplies of harness and saddlery, and this is to be given up. Surplus uniforms and general equipment must be abolished and the number of gas masks must be greatly reduced.

The Allies allege that Germany re-established the great general staff forbidden by the treaty, and it is demanded that laws be passed changing the powers conferred on the Military Directorate of the Reich. It is also demanded that the recently opened schools for training staff officers be closed, and that the gas schools be abolished immediately.

The note charges that Germany has complete railroad plans for mobilization, and that railway equipment still is manufactured with a view to military use. This must be stopped, and it is demanded that the sections dealing with military transport be eliminated from the German military instructions.

Must End Secret Army.

Another part of the note deals with the issue of surplus officers in the Reichswehr, and says the Allied Commission will revise the personnel of the German Army.

Recalling that it had been found that commercial airplanes had been used for military training, the Allies' note says:

"A decree forbidding the cooperation of all kinds of aircraft with the army must be promulgated and put into force."

On the important issue of short-term enlistments in the Reichswehr, the note declares that only twelve-year enlistments will be permitted, and the total number must always be kept down to 100,000, and a limit fixed for the number of discharges to be allowed. It is also demanded that an end be put to the training of reserve officers, which has been admitted by Berlin.

Perhaps the most important demand relates to the "large number of associations, whose members number several millions and take part in military training. Rifle ranges have been placed at the disposal of several of them by the Reichswehr, and in many cases their members undergo training with the army."

The Allies call for a measure "to prevent associations, whatever their nature, from occupying themselves with any military matters or having any connection with the Ministry of War or any other military authority."

The Allies also state that where guns have been permitted in forts these guns have been found on mobile mountings, and must be put on permanent mountings and the portable mountings destroyed.

The note ends with the statement that Germany is found to be fulfilling her reparation obligations.

The tenor of the note, as well as its contents, show that an important discussion must be opened with the Reich, and on its outcome must depend largely the fate of the negotiations for a security treaty. Now that the French have British adherence to their assertion that Germany has been retaining military equipment and personnel above what is allowed by the treaty, they may be expected to insist on satisfaction. Indeed, the issue raised is an immense one, since the evacuation of the Ruhr is tied up with the Cologne evacuation.

Text of the Note.

The text of the allied note is as follows:

Paragraph One—In their note of Jan. 5 last the allied Governments informed the German Government that the extent to which the Treaty of Versailles had been fulfilled by Germany did not justify them in granting her the benefit of partial evacuation in advance as contemplated by Article 429.

Paragraph Two—At the same time they declared their intention of awaiting the final report of the Interallied Commission of Control before informing the German Government what will remain for Germany to do in order that her military obligations may, within the terms of Article 429, be considered faithfully fulfilled."

Paragraph Three—This report now has been received and examined. It establishes numerous defaults of the German Government in respect to obligations devolving upon them under Part V of the Treaty of Versailles and thus enables the allied Governments now to make the communication which they had promised.

Paragraph Four—The allied Governments consider it of capital importance to place in the foreground of their argument the general observation that these defaults, if not promptly rectified, would in the aggregate enable the German Government eventually to reconstitute an army modeled on the principles of a nation in arms. This would be directly counter to the treaty of peace under which the German army was to be used exclusively for the maintenance of internal order and for the control of the German frontiers. It is this circumstance which, while it demonstrates the importance of each individual default, renders the totality of these defaults so serious a menace to peace.

Paragraph Five—In order that the treaty may be fulfilled in its fundamental provision it is therefore necessary that these important defaults should be made good. So long as they remain unrectified it will be impossible to consider Germany's military obligations fulfilled. It should be clearly realized that breaches of treaty thus specified constitute the most serious but not the only evidence of non-fulfillment by Germany of this essential portion of the treaty of peace.

Call for Good-Will.

Paragraph Six—In the accompanying memorandum will be found the first examination of the state of execution of the military obligations devolving upon Germany, as established by the report of the Commission of Control, dated Jan. 25, 1925. The second is a summary of the principal points in the military clauses on which the Allies have not yet received satisfaction. The third is a detailed list of the measures which should be taken to rectify these defaults. In regard to these the allied Governments have given necessary instructions to the Commission of Control, the body qualified by the treaty to act in this respect. The fourth is a list of concessions already made by the Allies. This list has been inserted in order that the statement of the position should be complete.

Paragraph Seven—The allied Governments are convinced that it merely requires good-will on the part of the German Government and the German authorities to secure that rectification of the defaults cited in the third part of the memorandum are carried out in a relatively short period.

Paragraph Eight—In fine, it now rests with the German Government themselves to create conditions so that the evacuation can speedily be effected. It is they themselves who will profit by the readiness with which they give effect to the rectifications demanded, as well as the care with which they proceed strictly to conform their attitude to the terms of the treaty.

Paragraph Nine—The Reparation Commission has, in a letter of which a copy is enclosed, declared that Germany, at the present moment is faithfully fulfilling her reparation obligations as they are at present fixed. The allied Governments therefore are prepared, notwithstanding reservations which state that the non-execution of other parts of the treaty would justify on their part any consideration of capital importance they attach to the execution of the military clauses of the treaty, to order the evacuation of the first zone of occupation so soon as the breaches of the treaty enumerated in Part III. of the attached memorandum have been made good.

Paragraph Ten—They are confident that during the period required for the execution of the rectifications in question no fresh serious infraction by Germany of any of her obligations under the treaty will arise to hinder the operation of Article 429.

Withdrawal From Cologne Promised.

Paragraph Eleven—There will then be nothing further to prevent the withdrawal of the Interallied Military Commission of Control, whose task it will be possible to consider completed. Its withdrawal will be notified to the Council of the League of Nations in view of the application of the measures laid down by that body for the purpose of execution of Article 213 of the treaty of peace.

Paragraph Twelve—Finally, the allied Governments have observed from the terms of the German Government's notes of 6 and 27 January, that the latter appeared to misapprehend the reasons which led the allied Governments to take the present attitude. Anxious to avoid all possibility of a misunderstanding in the future, they wish to declare afresh, as they did in their note of 26 January, that they intend scrupulously to observe the terms of Article 429 of the treaty.

Paragraph Thirteen—The allied Governments equally cannot leave unchallenged the allegation contained in the German note of Jan. 6 that the non-evacuation of the Cologne zone on Jan. 10, 1925, constituted a measure of reprisal on their part. Such a contention, already refuted in the allied note of Jan. 26, shows complete misapprehension of the bearing of Articles 428 and 429 of the treaty. It was for the German Government, by faithfully fulfilling their obligations, to earn the benefit of evacuation of the first zone of occupation, as provided for by Article 429.

Paragraph Fourteen—Again, the allied Governments cannot admit that their decision was an act of severity out of all proportion to the importance of the military obligations which remain to be fulfilled. On the contrary, among those obligations which the German Government represent in their note as being of secondary importance, are clauses to the essential importance of which the Allies have for long but in vain drawn the attention of the German Government, and particularly in the collective note of Sept. 29, 1922.

Paragraph Fifteen—Furthermore, subsequent to the note on several occasions and again quite recently, the German Government committed new serious infractions of the treaty, notably by proceeding to the incorporation in the Reichswehr of short term voluntary recruits; by authorizing numerous associations, illegal under the terms of the treaty, to carry out military training; by encouraging the development of certain plants in factories.

Paragraph Sixteen—Nevertheless, the allied Governments, having cited these infractions, are prepared, in their anxiety to avoid all controversy, to keep in mind only the assurance contained in the German note of the 6th of January, to the effect that the German Government will do their best speedily to attain a necessary practical result.

Paragraph Seventeen—It is for this reason the allied Governments again appeal earnestly to the German Government to liquidate with the necessary good will, the outstanding matters, the settlement of which the gravity of the situation demands. This is the only way in which that Government can, in their own words, "bring alleviation to Germany by the liberation of a portion of the occupied territory."

Berlin Foreign Office Angry.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 5.—Two points stand out in the Wilhelmstrasse opinion of the Allied Military Control note received here yesterday and published today. The first, which is the most interesting to Americans, is the allied demand that Germany destroy machinery in the Krupp and other factories. It is held that if carried out this would be a deadly menace to the execution of the Dawes plan.

The second is that the allied demand that Germany reorganize and curtail her army is a direct defiance of the Versailles Treaty.

High official circles in the Wilhelmstrasse point out that the Allies, though they know but too well that Germany can fulfill the Dawes plan only if she devotes herself to the most intensive economic reconstruction, nevertheless demand the destruction of German property worth more than $25,000,000, which would be a shattering economic blow, seriously jeopardizing German capacity to continue payments under the Dawes plan.

Regarding the allied demand that the Commander of the German Army be shorn of his powers and the German Army be reorganized, Wilhelmstrasse heatedly contends that there is not a single word in the entire Versailles Treaty giving the Allies the right to tell Germany how she shall run her army. The Germans contend that they have observed the treaty stipulations as to size and organization of the German Army. Beyond that they insist that it is none of the Allies' business how Germany trains or groups her soldiers.

Wilhelmstrasse officials become infuriated when discussing this section of the Allies' note. They declare the allied idea seems not only to rob Germany of all offensive military power, but also of all possibility of defending herself.

Reverting to the Dawes plan, the significance of the allied note, they claim, is that the allied insistence on the destruction of Krupps and other equipment has not the slightest military meaning, but is based on fear—especially in England—of growing German competition. It was pointed out today that some plants whose machinery was ordered to be destroyed or scattered are manufacturing for America, which is said to have aroused fear among competing European firms and caused the inclusion in the allied note of the destruction orders which, if obeyed, would fatally cripple German competition.

Attention also was called to the fact that one of the plants which would be seriously affected if the terms of the note were carried out, is a big German cheap automobile factory. Here, too, the fear of German competition is seen as the underlying reason for the destruction orders.

Resent Demoting Army Chief.

Wilhelmstrasse is especially bitter regarding the allied demand that General von Seeckt, commander of the Reichswehr, be shorn of his special powers, deprived of his large general staff and relegated to a position of mere Chief of Staff to the Defense Minister, Herr Gessler. The Allies contend that this is what he ought really to be. They claim the Germans have evolved a position of Commander in Chief of the German army and created around him a General Steff, thus directly violating the Versailles Treaty.

The Germans insist, however, that nothing was done in this connection except what the treaty expressly allows. In fact, they are saying here tonight that the Allies all along have known and sanctioned what was going on within the German Army, and, therefore, the sudden insistence on a change not only is a complete surprise here but a flagrant violation of the Versailles stipulations.

Wilhelmstrasse is nothing if not voluble regarding the allied note. It struck among the officials there like a bomb. Though the contents were pretty well discounted before the note arrived, nevertheless the effect of seeing the allied demands in cold black and white has been tremendous.

The view taken in high Wilhelmstrasse circles is that the allied demands are insincere. It is felt that the accusations against Germany are petty and will obscure the big issues at stake, condemning Europe to another long period of wearisome uncertainty.

The Allied note is so voluminous, it is pointed out here, and the instances of non-fulfillment of the treaty adduced against Germany are so numerous that no solution could be arrived at for years if the note were discussed point by point. Officials here believe that the effect of the note on German public opinion will be deplorable, tending to ruin the hope of international conciliation.

See Leniency in Police.

The only section of the note wherewith the Germans are at all pleased is that relating to the "Schupospolizei" (German National Police Force). It was assumed the allied accusations and demands regarding the police would be especially severe. But instead of insisting that the police live no longer in barracks, &c., the Allies have made concessions, thus giving the Germans an unexpected pleasant surprise.

Otherwise, however, the note arouses only disapproval and anger, and deep Teutonic gloom. As proof that Germany has fulfilled her obligations, Germans point especially to the list in the allied note of war material delivered to the Allies by Germany or destroyed by her in obedience to allied orders. These figures include the information that Germany, up to February, 1925, had delivered or destroyed more than 33,000 cannon and howitzers, 87,000 machine guns, 242,000 machine gun barrels, more than 4,500,000 rifles, more than 38,000,000 rounds of artillery ammunition, and nearly 500,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition. These are only a few items in the list, which the Germans contend shows such colossal destruction of war material as to prove conclusively that Germany has honorably carried out the treaty and to all intents and purposes is helplessly disarmed.

Regarding the allied prescriptions for reorganization of the German army, officials here angrily repudiate the suggestion that it is meant merely for defending the German frontiers. They could not even do that, they maintain, if the allied orders were obeyed—in fact, according to the German view, it would be merely a little body capable only of chasing poachers or smugglers.

...ial laws. The Courts of Special Sessions, composed of three Judges, try all misdemeanors under the State law without indictment or jury trial. Both grand and petit juries are dispensed with. Thousands and thousands of cases a year are disposed of by Police Magistrates and those Special Sessions Judges.

Delayed by Petty Cases.

"Take the Federal courts. Only last week I read of a case in the Federal Court at Kansas City. A mail clerk was indicted by a Grand Jury for stealing from a parcel of mail seven stalks of rhubarb. He was tried before a petit jury, with all the time required by that procedure, and was acquitted.

"In my own court during the first week of my term I notice a case of a mail clerk indicted for tampering with mail, where he had opened an envelope, taken out $5, resisted temptation, put it back and sealed it, and sent it on its way. The vigilant agents grabbed him. He was indicted, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to spend three hours sitting in the marshal's office.

"And yet we brought to trial the other day a counterfeiting case two and one-half years old. The defendants pleaded guilty. For poisoners of the nation's blood, its currency, to walk around two and a half years while the courts are clogged with petty cases is a public scandal. We brought to trial and secured a plea of guilty from a man who cheated the Government on taxes. The indictment was four years old. We have tried some business burglars, men who defrauded creditors, where the indictments were three years old.

"With big offenders undetected and preying on the community, with our Federal Judges in New York working to the breaking point, with our machinery almost smashed, we are bound and gagged with petty cases because the department agents, zealous for records, bring them in and most United States Attorneys feel compelled to take them all.

"The creation of Federal police courts and the creation of Federal courts for misdemeanors without grand or petit jurors and with power to sentence to jail for one year would work a revolution overnight. I am not discussing the constitutional difficulties, if any exist. Many lawyers assert that no constitutional amendment is required for this reform. But it is wholly immaterial, because if a constitutional amendment is required to enable us to adopt the machinery every large city has found necessary, let us have a constitutional amendment by all means. It has become easy, apparently, to amend the Constitution. Let us not fool ourselves and tacitly permit a moratorium for Federal crime merely because we may need a constitutional amendment.

"It is better to repeal laws than not to enforce them. The effect of lying down is corrosive upon society and upon the great body of public officials upon whose probity and upon whose loyal and enthusiastic public service our very government depends.

Would Deny Bail Pending Appeals.

Mr. Buckner's second remedy for simplifying enforcement of the Federal laws was to make it impossible for a convicted man to be released on bail while appealing to a higher court. He said that this suggestion might seem to be of minor importance, but he described it as "extremely important and far-reaching in its effects." He thought that if it were adopted it would "soak up congestion like a sponge." Discussing this suggestion he said:

"Before a convicted man should be released on bail on appeal, there should be a substantial doubt as to the propriety of his conviction and therefore a reasonable chance that he will secure a reversal of his case. New York State has for a generation had this reform and it is the law of that State that Congress should copy. In New York under the State law when a man is convicted he cannot be released on bail pending appeal unless the court which tried him or a co-ordinate court grants him what is called a certificate of reasonable doubt. He can appeal all he wants to, but he cannot go free pending that appeal unless such a certificate be granted.

"This law results in very few appeals when compared to the total number of convictions. In the Federal courts the practice varies in different districts, but bail is granted where it should not be and some judges feel that the defendant is entitled to bail as a matter of right under the present state of the law.

"The result is that defendants appeal on a forlorn hope just to keep out of jail a year or two longer. Lawyers too often fan this forlorn hope in order to earn a fee. If the defendants were kept in the local jail pending their appeal, the number of appeals would decrease by 80 per cent. and the burden upon our upper courts and District Attorneys would be lessened to an astounding degree. Those that did appeal would speed up because if the client remained in jail his lawyer would get quick action or be discharged.

"This reform would go deeper than decrease appeals. It would very greatly increase the number of pleas of guilty in the first instance because it is almost the universal rule that men receive lighter sentences if they plead guilty. If a man realized that he would not be likely to get bail for an appeal and therefore loiter around for two years or more, as they have sometimes done in New York, he would not go to trial at all. Thus a few minutes instead of a few years would be spent on a case. It is my belief that this reform alone would cut in half the present pressing need for additional Federal Judges so far as the criminal law is concerned."

For Grand Jury Stenographers.

In announcing his third suggestion Mr. Buckner said that it might appear a queer one coming from a United States District Attorney, but it "is more important than it seems." The suggestion was for the creation by Congress of official Grand Jury stenographers. Under the present method, he explained, a stenographer is appointed as Assistant United States District Attorney and the notes he takes are for the private use of the District Attorney's office. The minutes, he stated, are not official and the stenographer could be ordered out of the court room at will.

"Here again," he continued, "I would have the Federal law follow the New York State law. Under our State law there is an official grand jury stenographer. Defendants may move for an inspection of the Grand Jury minutes before trial. Nearly all applications of this kind are denied, but in an appropriate case the Court reads the minutes and if he thinks the motion ought to be granted he grants it and very often the later dismisses the indictment because improperly secured.

"This law acts as a wholesome curb upon the District Attorney. He makes sure of his record. He must not run the risk of an exposure of impropriety or carelessness. If he has evidence against some defendants, he does not dare throw in others merely because he suspects them, or thinks he may later get some evidence against them, or hopes to frighten them into turning State's evidence and turning against the real defendants. I feel—in fact, I know—that there is serious danger of a tyrannical abuse of power on the part of United States Attorneys in Grand Jury proceedings, and I think that we should all be curbed in the same manner as the New York State District Attorneys.

"This reform would reduce the number of indictments found and therefore reduce congestion. It would reduce the number of later voluntary dismissals of indictments, which is harmful to the administration of criminal law."

The fourth suggestion of Mr. Buckner was that the salaries of Federal Judges and of Assistant United States District Attorneys be made adequate. At present, he said, they were "grossly inadequate."

"I shall shortly have fifty legal assistants," he said. "Except for my four heads of departments, almost every lawyer in my office receives less than $5,000 and only one man receives as much as $5,600. First-class bookkeepers, stenographers, salesmen, plasterers, bricklayers and plumbers are far better paid. We do not have enough stenographers, clerks and messengers. We cannot indict crooks without some one to write the indictments. Inadequate appropriations by Congress is simply a means of licensing crimes against Federal laws.

"With the cost of living what it is, a District Judge at $7,500 a year is grossly underpaid in New York. He can hardly live. He cannot properly educate his children. Our New York City Police Magistrates receive more, our New York City Municipal Court Judges, trying only civil cases, receive more, and our State Judges of similar judicial power receive $17,500 per year."

'HYLAN' FIVE TIMES IN CONCERT PROGRAM

Name Appears in Large Type on Season's First List for Parks.

OPENS ON NEXT MONDAY

Band to Play at the City Hall—Miss Sinnott, Soloist, Not Related to the Mayor.

Programs with the title "The Mayor Hylan People's Concerts" were issued yesterday for the first of the regular series of city concerts which will be held at noon on Monday in City Hall Park.

The title "The Mayor Hylan People's Concerts" appears three times on the four page program, each time in large type. The name of John F. Hylan makes two appearances, aside from the title of the concerts, making a total of five printings of the Mayor's name in large type on the four pages.

Two concerts in Central Park, which are described by Commissioner Gallatin as "overtures" to the regular program, are not designated as Mayor Hylan's. This gave rise to the impression that the Mayor had decided not to name the concerts after himself because of the controversy which arose when Conductor Goldman and the Guggenheims resisted the attempt of Mayor Hylan last year to circulate programs calling these concerts "Mayor Hylan's Free People's Concerts." Following the rejection of this title Mayor Hylan ignored, according to Daniel Guggenheim, the offer to repeat the Goldman concerts in Central Park, and also ignored a petition with more than 350,000 signatures asking him not to deprive the people of the Goldman concerts in Central Park. The Guggenheims announced on Tuesday that the Goldman concerts would be given this year at New York University.

Mayor Hylan's concert of next Monday will be given by the Seventh Regiment Band. The soloist will be Dorothy Sinnott. Chamberlain Beroizheimer in a letter to Mayor Hylan described Miss Sinnott as "a wonderful artist, worthy of recognition by the Metropolitan or any other opera company," and added that her voice was "absolutely perfect." M. Henri Zay, her teacher, said that Miss Sinnott came to New York from the State of Washington and was not a member of the family of Sinnotts who are related to the Mayor.

The programs gave the June schedule of "The Mayor Hylan People's Concerts," which were described as being in addition to regular public park programs in the different boroughs. These are evening performances, except where an afternoon hour is given. The June schedule is as follows:

10th—Central Park, Seventh Regiment Band.
12th—Central Park, Orchestral.
15th—Central Park, Passeri's Band.

gas warfare, the meeting to be held as soon as the powers represented here feel the time for concluding such a convention is opportune.

"I wish to lay emphasis on the fact that a conference for consideration of the use of poison gas does not involve the complexity of a gathering like this and it might in fact be composed of representatives ordinarily at Washington."

Quotes Coolidge's "Faith."

Mr. Burton explained the prohibitory clause of the Washington Treaty and called attention to th Central American Treaty and the Santaigo resolution. In conclusion he read an extract from a speech by President Coolidge at the graduation exercise at Annapolis in which the Executive said: "Our chief reliance is our faith in the world. We cannot maintain the necessary relations without it. One of the greatest attributes of all people is the desire in spite of all things to do the right thing."

Mr. Burton was supported by Colombia and Great Britain.

Lord Onslow said the conference should express appreciation of President Coolidge for the proposal to hold a conference at Washington. He asked to refer the question to a subcommittee and said in view of the hope the conference would be called at Washington, the hands of such a conference should not be tied in advance.

Mr. Lange of Norway, in an address said the world could not time the "tiger" but must kill it and we could not tame war, but should abolish it. He asked why the legislative systems of the various countries never tried to regulate the practice of murder.

In an eloquent discourse, M. Boncour of France said he supported the United States proposal, but declared that nevertheless any country which singed the convention to suppress chemical warfare would have in the back of its mind the fear another country would break the agreement in the exigencies of war. He said that the conference must not think only of such cases but of all the barbarities and cruelties of war and must suppress war. This could only be done, he said, when any State which wanted to make war would know it would have against it the armed forces of all other nations.

In the end he turned to Mr. Burton and said he hoped the great idealistic country which had shown such interest in the humanitarian works of suppressing the barbarities of war would ally itself with other nations in suppressing war. He said France would associate herself in any effort to suppress chemical warfare.

It was finally proposed and voted without dissenting voices that a protocol based on Article V. of the Washington Treaty should be drafted. A Swedish proposal to control imports from non-contracting States was accepted in principle and sent to a drafting committee.

Will the relentless heat of summer strike them down?

DOWN in the sun-baked, stuffy tenements—where each day and night is a nightmare of torment for little children and tired mothers—there you will find death stalking its helpless victims. Many of them have already fallen.

We appeal to you to help us in our Fresh Air Work for these families. We ask you to give as generously as you can, for there are thousands who are now appealing to us for relief.

Will the Dream Come True?

A breeze slipped out of the sea-flung spray
For a night of frolic and sport,
And just for a moment stopped to play
In a shut-in tenement court;
It almost died as it felt the heat
That oozed from the sun-baked walls
And hurrying sought a way to the street
Through the narrow, stifling halls.

When out of a window came the cry
Of a child at its mother's breast,
The sound of a tired lullaby,
A prayer that the child might rest.
"I'll stop," said the breeze, "before I go
A-hurrying back to the deep.
By mother and child I'll softly blow
Till I soothe them gently to sleep."

The babe was hushed in its fretful cry
As the breeze blew softly and mild;
The mother ceased singing her lullaby
As she sank to sleep by her child;
She dreamed they sped from the shut-in court,
On the wings of the cooling breeze
And swift from the city journeyed forth

She smiled as her child reached out to play
With the foam that splashed to her side;
She bared her breast to the cooling spray
As it rose from the tumbling tide;
But morning came and her dream stopped short
And she looked at her child with dread,
As the heat poured down in the shut-in court
From a sun framed hot in red.

OFFER AMERICAN AID ON WORLD LAW CODE

Society of International Law Expresses Willingness to Co-operate With League.

ADVISED BY WICKERSHAM

League Officials Doubt Conference Talked of Here Will Achieve Success.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 5.—League of Nations officials announced today that the latest American collaboration with the League is that offered by the American Society of International Law, in response to an invitation tendered in April to assist in an advisory capacity the progressive codification of international law.

In a letter received by the head of the legal section of the League, the Corresponding Secretary of the American Society sends a copy of a report drafted by its standing committee on the extension of international law which was adopted by the society on April 25 at the annual convention at Washington, as well as copies of the proceedings of the society for the years 1920 to 1924.

The report of the standing committee says that, being desirous of extending hospitable consideration to the invitation of the committee of experts, in which George Wickersham, one of the society's most prominent members, is playing an important part, it recommends that the society should welcome the invitation and notes with satisfaction the progress which is being made by the committee toward the initiation of a process which it is hoped will lead to the development of international law in various fields.

It further recommends that the society accept the invitation to collaborate in the work and take the opportunity thus afforded for a realization of the purpose of the society as expressed in Article 2 of its constitution. It requests the President to appoint a committee of five or seven members from the society for the purpose of drafting a report to submit to counsel for consideration, with a view to later submission to the League committee of experts, and to direct that a special committee consider what are the subjects in international law the solution of which by an international agreement appears most desirable and possible of realization.

The League officials are not very sanguine of the success of the proposed international conference for the codification of law which is now being discussed in America. As pointed out often here during the recent meeting of prominent experts, the international codification of international law can be done only progressively, those subjects being chosen which are ripe. At present it is believed utterly impossible to compile all phases of international law or to secure an international agreement and changes of legislation to bring about an accord on a great many subjects which are differently viewed in various countries.

BIG FORGERY PLANT FOUND IN LONDON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—A forgers' den as mysterious as any ever discovered by Sherlock Holmes has been unearthed in a quiet residential part of London. Three men powerfully built, a hunchback, a soft-voiced slim youngster and a fashionably dressed man who could speak three languages formed the gang.

Three months ago the men took an apartment over a tailor's shop in Earl's Court Road, describing themselves as press photographers. Then they installed the most elaborate plan for forging bank notes and postal money orders the London police have ever seen.

The chief piece of apparatus, a large camera resting on sliding rails, was placed upon a heavy table, too bulky for the police to remove, and over it was a powerful arc lamp, while other lamps, carefully shaded, were suspended from the walls. Specially constructed wooden shutters were used to cover the windows, and in the fireplace were found peculiar iron instruments.

To operate the lights a special electric cable had been laid, and it took, according to the tailor-landlord, three weeks to outfit the workshop. Four etching machines, two clamp presses and a four-foot porcelain bathtub containing acids formed part of the four tons of equipment removed from the apartment. Also there was a large quantity of chemicals, ink and photographic plates.

The tailor said the gang explained to him that they were preparing pictures for a morning newspaper and would therefore work evenings.

Scotland Yard for some time had been aware that an expert gang of forgers was somewhere at work in London. A slight clue finally put them on the right track and last night detectives went to Earl's Court Road. A narrow passage beside a butcher's store led to a flight of stairs in the rear of the building. Ascending these stairs, the detectives searched two rooms on the third floor, breaking open the doors. They found the rooms filled with suspicious apparatus and a developing sink, such as photographers use, stained with chemicals.

No one was in the rooms. The police believe the men had an inkling that some trouble was impending and endeavored to make away with the most incriminating evidence against them.

8,000 Warriors Assemble at Eshowe for Native Dance Today.

ESHOWE, Union of South Africa, June 5 (AP).—The Prince of Wales's party arrived here today from Durban, to find 8,000 Zulu warriors already assembled for the spectacular display set for tomorrow.

All the warriors carry shields and knobkerries, but are not equipped with assagais, or native spears, because it is feared that the wild excitement of their native warlike gyrations may possibly lead to actual fighting.

REFORMED CHURCH CRITICIZES SENATE

ATTACKS NEW YORK AS WET

Says State Is Derelict in Duty to Enforce the Volstead Act and Blames Smith Principally.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 5.—Failure of the United States Senate to act on the World Court plan of President Coolidge was deplored by the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America this afternoon. A resolution expressing regret that America had not entered the permanent Court of International Justice was also adopted. The resolutions were presented by the Rev. T. H. MacKenzie of Flushing, N. Y., in submitting the report of the Committee on International Justice and Goodwill. The Synod recorded itself as believing that "only through submission to the rule of Jesus Christ and the acceptance of His program and plan of life can the curse of war be swept away and universal peace be established."

Loyalty to Christ calls for the unqualified repudiation of war as a method of settling international disputes, Bishop Paul Jones, Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, told Synod. He declared that the Church should refuse to indorse war at any time, and said that the attitude of the churches in America toward war had done much to belittle the efforts of missionaries in foreign lands.

Touching on the work of the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches, Dr. McKenzie said much had been done to "alleviate the harm done the cause of international peace by the unfortunate attitude of our Congress toward Japan."

The report of the Ministers' Fund, which provided for disabled ministers and widows, showed a 66 per cent. increase since its establishment in 1921. The fund is more than $300,000 and a campaign is seeking to make it $1,000,000 by 1928.

The Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, declared that the alliance had met success in sixty moves to obtain observance of the Sabbath and suppress other non-Christian activities.

Dr. David G. Latshaw of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., declared that there was never a time when the youth of the land needed religious education more than today. He said that very showers of 4,000,000 persons under twenty-five years old, 37,000,000 had no connection with churches.

Report on Public Morals.

The report of the Committee on Public Morals, which was accepted in full, declared that opposition of Governor Smith was largely responsible for failure of the last New York Legislature to enact a substitute for the annulled Mullan-Gage law. "We have to report that in spite of earnest and united effort on the part of the Protestant denomination no law was passed by the New York Legislature providing for State enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment," the report said. "The decided opposition of Governor Smith is largely responsible for this, although it is evident that all legislators who wear the Republican Party label were not loyal to the platform of their party, which pronounced the enactment of such a law. This makes evident the necessity of greater diligence in coming years."

The report also said: "The experience in the past warns us against the two-faced candidate. We can have some respect for the man who works openly for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but none for the man or society that speaks loudly of Americanism and secretly violates law by patronizing traffickers in liquor, and by so doing encouraging them in destructive business."

Six resolutions presented by the Committee on Public Morals were passed, as follows:

"That we deplore that aggressive disregard of law and decency that manifests itself in open and violent criminality. Banditry, often accompanied by attempts at murder, seems to be on the increase, and lesser crimes are commensurately as to be dismitted with such frequency as to disturb seven citizens without deep religious convictions. Rum-running and bootlegging are symptoms of this lawless spirit and must be as strongly condemned by all law-abiding citizens.

"That the attention of all our churches be called to the necessity of carefully teaching the principles of right and justice, and that they be invited to join in earnest prayer for a more fully enlightened conscience among all our citizens.

To Work in Elections.

"That we renew our efforts to see that only those candidates are elected who can be relied on to put our States squarely behind the Eighteenth Amendment, especially in New York, where the State is in this regard wilfully neglecting its duty.

"That we commend the National Government for its aggressive efforts to prevent rum-running and also to padlock those properties where disregard of the Volstead act is permitted.

"That the officers of the Synod be instructed to send an appeal to the highest judicatories of the Protestant Churches of England and Scotland, requesting that they openly condemn the action of some of their citizens in the export of liquors to this country.

"That the Synod go on record as opposed to gambling in all forms, and as approving in principle appropriate action by Congress designed to lessen the gambling evil, including the bill drafted by the Postoffice Department prohibiting interstate transmission of race-track gambling odds."

The Rev. A. C. Leonard of Lexington, N. C., President of the General Synod, urged a merger of the Reformed Church branches. He declared that "racial lines alone have stood in the way of this great movement."

The report of the Committee on the State of the Church showed that there had been a loss in the number of churches but an increase in membership.

BREWIS WINS SCHOLARSHIP.

Oxford Student Gets Davison Award From Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 5.—Announcement was made here today through the office of Secretary Varnum Lansing Collins, of the appointment of John Salusbury Brewis of Herford College, Oxford, to the division scholarship at Princeton University during the coming academic year. He will succeed James Archie MacIntosh of Edinburgh, Scotland. Since his attendance at Princeton MacIntosh has entered into several activities and is now golf champion of Princeton University and Borough. He also played a character part in this year's triangle production, "The Scarlet Coat."

Brewis, who will also be at Princeton for a year, is the son of the senior tutor of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. While at Hertford, Brewis won a scholarship in modern history and distinguished himself in athletic activities by winning his half-blue for the long jump, and playing on the cricket eleven. He is President of the junior common room and leading man in his college.

While at Princeton Brewis plans to study economic history in order to become acquainted with American social and economic problems.

The appointment of a Cambridge student will be announced later, according to Secretary Collins.

SCOPES AND LAWYERS TO PLAN DEFENSE HERE

Teacher in Evolution Trial Will Meet Counsel of Civil Liberties Union Monday.

A conference of lawyers and scientists who will help the defense in the trial of J. T. Scopes, the Dayton (Tenn.) high school teacher, charged with violating the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of evolution, will be held here on Monday and Tuesday at the office of Samuel Rosenschn, an attorney for the Civil Liberties Union, at 37 William Street.

Mr. Scopes, his counsel, John L. Godsey and R. Neal of Tennessee, and Dr. George W. Rappleyes of Dayton, who persuaded Mr. Scopes to stand the test case, will be present. Others in the meeting will be Arthur Garfield Hayes, Walter Nelles, counsel for the Union, and possibly Professor Felix Frankfurter of Harvard Law School, and Clarence Darrow, the Chicago lawyer.

"Let us be thankful for evolution, for without it we would not have a William Jennings Bryan; he would still be a gorilla," decried the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, rabbi-emeritus of Temple Emanu El, last evening in a lecture at Temple Israel of Washington Heights, 185th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. "And so would the rest of us," he added.

"Evolution makes us, whatever we are, always better and wiser until we reach the perfect day a million years hence," he said.

Dr. Silverman strongly advocated teaching the theory of evolution in the public schools. His topic was "A Revolution Against Evolution."

"Evolution, I believe, is as much a law of God as air, gravitation, the law of heat, light, electricity and Einstein's law of relativity," he said. "It seems preposterous to us Jews that any American should attempt to throttle scientific study and investigation. If religion cannot stand the truth then religion must fall."

HARVARD MEN OF '24 TELL OF HER FAULTS

Questionnaire Brings Out Criticism of Many Phases of Her University Life.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 5.—Disappointed members of the class of '24 at Harvard, one year out of college, criticize every phase of college life, in answer to the request for suggestions for college improvement sent out in a questionnaire. They want revision of the club system, abolition of lectures and readjustment between studies and outside activities. In some cases they call Harvard a "closed corporation" for preparatory school men. They urge new buildings and denounce the social life of the college.

The question which aroused this storm of comment was: "What have you found at Harvard which, in your opinion, should be changed or removed, and how?"

A graduate of Exeter wrote:

"Harvard's social life is unfortunate. 'Harvard spirit' is pitifully weak, if not a minus quantity. The extremes of the social scale are represented by men attending the college, and, in fact, seem to have more representatives than do the so-called middle and upper-middle classes. Throughout my three years in college I witnessed almost every day, in classrooms and out, the undemocratic yet somewhat amusing struggle between vulgar, aggressive familiarity and frigid, superior aloofness. There seems to be no common ground upon which all Harvard men can meet. The situation is unfortunate.

"Harvard has refused to be democratized. At least half the college must find its entertainment and surroundings which are anything but cultured. Another portion of the college, not so large but certainly more prominent in college activities, comes from homes of the socially 'elect.' These two classes, separated by different family and social background, do not, and probably never will, amalgamate. In its educational life only is Harvard a unit; it certainly is not in its social life. Does this not explain the much-regretted lack of Harvard spirit?"

A graduate of one of the Massachusetts private schools declared the chief trouble at Harvard was that the traditional "Harvard" was too much of a "closed corporation." Men from certain preparatory schools were on the inside; while everyone else was on the outside.

"It is narrowing and undemocratic, unwholesome both for those on the inside and those on the outside," he concluded. "Even a man coming from a school which sends few men to Harvard is almost hopelessly handicapped. If he gets to the inside at all it is only after a long time."

Of write rather restrainedly about the social aspect," another alumnus wrote. "I have met only true gentlemen and perfect honesty at Harvard, but have, unfortunately, not met a warm, social spirit. Even at the clubs and especially at the Union, one seems to be restricted to the few intimate friends that one has perhaps come to college with. It seemed hard, perhaps peculiarly so to me, to break down and through a certain spirit of cliquishness that seemed to prevail."

"Let me add my voice to the cry for a whole new set of dormitories, administration buildings, lecture halls, and laboratories," said another graduate. "And I may add that ere Harvard find herself far behind even the small colleges, she had better erect, immediately, a large gymnasium and swimming pool and a large hall or theatre suitable for plays, recitals, &c."

EXERCISES AT SEMINARY.

One Brooklyn Heights Graduate Never Was Late in 14 Years.

The seventy-fourth commencement of Brooklyn Heights Seminary was held yesterday afternoon at the Brooklyn Heights Casino in Montague Street. The platform was filled with floral offerings sent by friends of the girl graduates, among whom was Miss Constance Boody, a granddaughter of a former Mayor of the old city of Brooklyn. The other graduates were the Misses Charlotte Calhoun Dunston Deyer, Elsie Grobs Heymann, Sarah James Graham, Helen Marie Jurgens, Roselle Mercier Montgomery, Sara-Jane Paxton, Gladys Prellinghuysen Talmage, Lois Thayer and Ruth Estelle Whitman.

The Rev. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge, Mass., delivered an address to the graduates. The graduates were presented to the trustees by Miss Florence Greene, Principal. Tunis G. Bergen, President of the Board of Trustees, awarded the diplomas.

Miss Talmage has the unusual record of never having been late in the fourteen years she has attended the seminary. Miss Boody and Miss Deyer have a record of ten years each of punctuality. Miss Paxton was the student of highest standing in the graduating class.

LINCOLN CLASS GRADUATED.

Dean Russell of Teacher's College Speaks at Branch's Exercises.

Graduation exercises of the Lincoln School, 425 West 123d Street, an experimental branch of Teachers College of Columbia University, were held yesterday afternoon in the school auditorium before a large crowd.

Otis W. Caldwell, head of the institution, presided. Addresses were made by Katherine L. Kosmak, Edmund W. Overstreet, Raymond Fosdick and Dean James E. Russell of Teachers College.

The graduates were:

MANNING TO ORDAIN MUTE AS A DEACON

The Sermon Will Be Transmitted to 100 Others by the Sign Language.

30 WILL BECOME PRIESTS

Among Those, to Be Ordained by Cardinal Hayes, Is Man Who Leaped Into River to Save Boy.

One of four young men whom Bishop William T. Manning will ordain as deacons tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will be a deaf mute. He is Guilbert C. Braddock, who will become assistant at St. Ann's Church for Deaf Mutes, 511 West 148th Street, of which the Rev. John H. Kent is the vicar. About one hundred deaf mutes will attend the Cathedral service, and Mr. Kent will interpret to them the sermon in the sign language. The preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Judge, rector of the Church of St. Matthew and St. Timothy, of which St. Ann's Chapel is a branch. At the same service Bishop Manning will advance five deacons to the priesthood. After the service the Bishop will take the new priests and deacons to Welfare Island where he will confirm a class in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd. At this service many inmates from the almshouse will be confirmed. At the 4 o'clock service in the cathedral the preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Pascal Harrower of the Church of the Ascension, West New Brighton, Staten Island, an honorary canon of the cathedral.

Cardinal Hayes will ordain thirty young men in the priesthood in St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning beginning at 8 o'clock. Twenty are from St. Joseph's Seminary, Yonkers. One of the latter is Dennis Blake, 28 years old, who on April 14 last rescued Abraham Lesser, 7, of 511 West 169th Street, from the Harlem River. The child, who had been playing with companions on the river bank at 167th Street, in High Bridge Park, had slipped into the water. Mr. Blake, walking in the park with some friends, heard the cry of the boy. He threw off his coat and vest and jumped in after the child. Abraham was taken to the Jewish Hospital and Mr. Blake, refusing dry clothes, rejoined his friends.

Cardinal Hayes tomorrow afternoon will lay the cornerstone of the twelve-story building of the Knights of Columbus to go on at Eighth Avenue and Fifty-first Street. The K. of C. of Manhattan and the Bronx will hold a parade in connection with the ceremony. It will start at 2 o'clock from Seventy-sixth Street and Central Park West, proceeding via Eighth Avenue to 51st Street. Twenty-thousand members of the order are expected to be in the line of march, and they will pass in review before the Cardinal. His Eminence will deliver an address. The music will consist of selections by the K. of C. Glee Club. The building is scheduled to be completed by September, 1926. It will contain 280 bedrooms for knights who wish to make this their home, an auditorium seating 2,000, a swimming pool for knights and another swimming pool for women and children, a modern gymnasium, billiard rooms, bowling alleys and several large meeting rooms.

The cornerstone of the new edifice of the Wadsworth Avenue Baptist Church, 184th Street and Wadsworth Avenue, will be laid this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The program will start with a trumpet call to attention. After the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," the Scripture will be read and prayer will be offered by the Rev. William Newton Hubbell, pastor of the First Mariners' Baptist Church. Among the speakers will be Edward L. Ballard, President of the New York Baptist City Mission Society and President of the Board of Trustees of the Park Avenue Baptist Church; the Rev. Dr. A. Lincoln Moore, General Secretary of the New York Port Society, and the Rev. Dr. Gustav A. Carstensen, rector of Holy Rood Episcopal Church. The cornerstone will be laid by Walter C. Little, a trustee, and Hugh Parker, a deacon. The benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Leonard F. Requa Jr., pastor of the church. It is expected that the church will be ready for occupancy Oct. 1, next.

When the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New England opens next Tuesday evening in Ithaca, N. Y., to continue through Wednesday and Thursday, its meeting place will be the new Lutheran Chapel which is just being completed at the entrance to the grounds of Cornell University. The chapel will be dedicated Wednesday at 3:30 P. M. by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler of this city, President of the Synod. Dr. Livingston Farrand, President of Cornell, and Professor Henry B. Jacobs, President of the Philadelphia Lutheran Theological Seminary, will speak. The chapel cost $145,000 and the last $45,000 of this has still to be raised. The chapel is built of stone, which was quarried out of the native hills. It has a seating capacity of 550. This is the first denomination to erect a church at Cornell.

The Rev. Dr. Elbert Floyd-Jones tomorrow will observe the thirtieth anniversary of his rectorship of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in the Highlands, Cold Spring, N. Y. A special service and a reunion of past and present members of the church will mark the occasion. Dr. Floyd-Jones was born in the Episcopal Diocese of New York and has spent his life within its bounds. He is one of the oldest rectors in the diocese in point of service to one parish.

A new edifice of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church at Mamaroneck and Cochart Avenues, White Plains, N. Y., will be dedicated at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Those who will take part will be the Rev. Frederick Melville, the pastor; the Rev. John A. Weyl, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, 123 West Seventy-first Street; the Rev. Henry A. Kropp, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 302 West Twenty-second Street, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler.

The diamond jubilee of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Washington Avenue, near 170th Street, the Bronx, will be celebrated tomorrow. The occasion will also be the twentieth anniversary of the rectorship of the Rev. Dr. Homer F. Taylor. Aside from special services the rector, church warden and vestrymen have issued invitations for a jubilee dinner at the Commodore next Tuesday evening. Dr. Taylor was born in this city July 28, 1866, being the son of Dr. James Ridley Taylor, a physician. The son received his education for the ministry in the General Episcopal Theological Seminary. He was ordained by the late Bishop Henry C. Potter. The first parish of Dr. Taylor was at the Church of the Holy Communion, where he was curate five years. He went from there to his present rectorship.

It is expected that the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rectory of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, will announce tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service whether he will accept or decline his election as Bishop-Coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island, to which he was elected eleven days ago. The general belief is that he will accept. The service will be broadcast by Station WIZ. For two years Dr. Stires's services have been broadcast on alternate Sunday mornings. He has received scores of letteres from his "invisible congregation," saying they will miss his messages if he feels it is his duty to accept the Episcopal.

57 Boys Get Polytechnic Diplomas.

Fifty-seven boys received diplomas yesterday at the sixty-eighth commencement of the Polytechnic Preparatory Country Day School at Ninety-second Street and Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn. The Rev. William H. Boocock of Buffalo, N. Y., offered prayer and benediction. The address to the graduating class was made by Professor John Duncan Spaeth of Princeton University. Headmaster Joseph Lana Allen gave a review of the year, and the diplomas were awarded by Walter Hammitt of the Board of Trustees.

CHORUS OF 10,000 IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

NOTED MUSICIANS AIDING

Plan to Send American Chorus of 500 to Europe in August to Sing in Festivals.

A music festival involving a chorus and instrumental forces of extraordinary proportions and designed to promote international understanding and good-will will be given by the International Music Festival League in the Yankee Stadium on July 9. In this performance a chorus of 10,000, a band of 1,000 and a quartet of opera soloists will take part.

It is the belief of the International Music Festival League, of which the President is Dr. Archer Hood, that nations can be made to understand each other much more quickly through the instrumentality of music than by means of treaties political, economic or otherwise. With this end in view it is planned to raise from the Stadium performance next month a sum of money sufficient to send an American chorus of 500 voices to Europe in August, to sing at music festivals in England, Scotland, Wales and on the Continent.

Following overtures made to festival organizations abroad there have been enthusiastic responses from Sheffield, England; from Inverness and Glasgow; from Geneva, headquarters of the League of Nations, and from other districts as far separated as Amsterdam in Holland and Helsingfors in Finland.

This trip to Europe is expected to bring about reciprocal visits to America next year of choruses from the various countries visited to take part in a grand International Peace Music Festival to be held in connection with the sesquicentennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia, and the 300th anniversary of the purchase of Manhattan Island in New York.

The unprecedented chorus of 10,000 which will sing in the Yankee Stadium on the evening of July 9 will be the combined forces of a hundred singing societies throughout the Eastern States. Large groups will come from Boston, Worcester, Providence, Springfield, Hartford, New Haven, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Binghamton, Albany, Newark and similar cities in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, while practically every choral organization and school in Greater New York will be represented. The various units have been in rehearsal for several weeks.

On the Advisory Board of the League are Willem Mengelberg, conductor of the Philharmonic Society; Arthur Bodansky, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Arthur Friedheim and E. Robert Schmitz, the pianists; Oscar Saenger and Dudley Buck, singing teachers; Hugo Riesenfeld, director of the Rivoli and Rialto Theatres; Mrs. John F. Lyons, President of the National Federation of Music Clubs; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise; the Rev. Randolph Ray, pastor of the Little Church Around the Corner; Dr. Henry T. Flock, Alberto Bimboni, Mrs. James Lee Laidlaw, George Foster Peabody, L. F. Bowman, Vivian Burnett, Paul Harvey, Robert Lawrence, Mrs. Henrietta Baker Low, Mrs. Wilson Fitch Smith, Mrs. George H. Strawbridge of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Vladimir G. Simkhovitch.

The American chorus expects to sail for England about Aug. 15.

CANTOR NIGHT AT FOLLIES.

Rogers Presents "Kid Boots" Star With a Watch, Gift From Ziegfeld.

"Eddie Cantor Night" was observed at the Ziegfeld Follies last night, when the performance at the New Amsterdam was given over in large part to a celebration in honor of the star of "Kid Boots," who sails for France today on the Paris.

On behalf of Florenz Ziegfeld, Will Rogers made a speech presenting a platinum watch from Mr. Ziegfeld to Mr. Cantor, with an inscription commemorating the thousandth performance of "Kid Boots." Mr. Cantor replied in characteristic phrases.

There were special numbers in honor of the occasion by George Olsen's Band, which Mr. Cantor brought to New York. Mr. Cantor was dragged from his seat in the audience and led to the stage, where he responded with several numbers.

The guests in the audience included Billie Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Horton Spurr of the "Kid Boots" company, who were married Wednesday with Mr. Cantor as best man, and Edna Leedom, who will enter the cast of the Summer edition of the Follies next week.

There was a buffet supper on the stage after the performance, with an informal "Eddie Cantor" program.

FILM CO. IN $500,000 SUIT.

Author Declares "The Iron Horse" Was Taken From Her Book.

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, the author, sued William Fox and the Fox Film Company in the Federal Court yesterday for $500,000 on the ground that the motion picture "The Iron Horse" was taken from her novel "Building the Union." The bill names as codefendants Charles Kenyon, John Russell and John Ford.

Both the book and the picture, it is said in the complaint, centre around the building of the first transcontinental railroad. Moses L. Malevinsky, counsel for Mrs. Woodrow, said that there appears to be no doubt but that the play was taken bodily from the book.

"We allege," he said, "that the basis of both picture and book is patriotism, which is personified in the book by Jacob Morey, a fourteen-year-old boy, while in the picture the hero is David Brandon Jr., 11 years old. Both boys lose their fathers under substantially the same circumstances, and we were careful to note that in neither the book nor the picture was there any reference to the mothers of the boys."

MUSIC NOTES.

The third public audition for parts in the operas which the City of New York is to present free in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, this Summer, will be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday morning, June 10, according to an announcement by Philip Berolzheimer, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee of Music, under whose auspices the performances will be given. This audition is in response to many requests from those who could not try out at previous hearings.

Bernardo De Muro sings tonight in "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" at the Manhattan Opera House. Pasquale La Rotella will conduct. The original intention of the management was to present "Andrea Chenier" tonight, but later it was decided to give Giordano's opera on June 13.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

The Composer's Nightmare.

BEGGAR ON HORSEBACK, with Edward Everett Horton, Esther Ralston, Erwin Connelly, Ethel Wales, Gertrude Short, James Mason, Theodore Kosloff and Frederick Sullivan; adapted from the play by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly; directed by James Cruze; prefaced by "Business Is Business," a playlet by George S. Kaufman and Dorothy Parker, with Orlando Daly, Hugh Chilvers, Catharine Haya, Wilton Lackaye, Mary Walsh, Austin Coghlan, Worthington Romaine and M. Fuller Golden; special music score by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld.

There came to the Criterion Theatre last night a delightful novelty in the film version of "Beggar on Horseback," the eminently successful stage satire by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly. The photoplay was directed by James Cruze, who produced "The Covered Wagon," and once again this versatile genius has rung the bell. This picture is one of great distinction, and in making it Mr. Cruze has shrewdly availed himself of the opportunities afforded by the camera. There are marvelous sets, bizarre costumes, glorious lighting effects, and a most deft handling of the dream scene, both in the approach and in the awakening of Neil McRae, the worthy music composer who has a dizzy nightmare through having been accepted in marriage by the daughter of a pompous plutocrat.

The film was prefaced by a clever playlet, in four scenes, "Business Is Business," written by George S. Kaufman and Dorothy Parker. It is filled with scintillating ideas, and contains some amusing lines. Wilton Lackaye portrayed the smug, self-satisfied multimillionaire shoe manufacturer, who has a penchant for casting his dollars upon the advertising waters, so that his pseudo charity will be appreciated by the millions, but in the end bring him vast financial returns. If "greatest in the world" were excluded from his vocabulary, this John W. Berryman would probably find his vocabulary as abbreviated as the profane person who endeavored to express himself without resorting to expletives. Wilton Lackaye did quite well with this role, in which he gave a satiric portrait of a dollar-loving parvenu.

But to return to the picture, which followed this playlet, and which was exhibited without an intermission, let us emphasize the excellence of Edward Everett Horton's performance as McRae. Mr. Horton will be remembered by many for his splendid work in the screen conception of "To the Ladies," and no better choice could have been made among film players for the part in "Beggar on Horseback." He is sympathetic, whimsical, alert and always restrained. There is never a moment when his acting offers a jarring note. The production is one of the best adaptations of a play we have seen, and those who saw the stage effort will perhaps appreciate the picture all the more.

There are flocks of shouting butlers and noisy waiters, and everything seen before the dream is cleverly parodied during McRae's doze in his old leather armchair. He is impressed by the loud golf stockings worn by Frederick Cady, the great and self-satisfied manufacturer of "widgets." Hence in the nightmare chapters Mr. Cady bursts forth in a blinding golf outfit, checkered from cap to ankles.

Our old friend Homer of the footlights version is played by James Mason, who depicts this individual as a lazy, greedy and mannerless snob. There is Mrs. Frederick Cady, who is so fond of her rocking chair and chewing gum, in the dream she has a rocking chair attached to her clothes. The incident of the wabbly chair is beautifully pictured, with chairs that appear to have rubber legs; yet when a plump woman sits on one of them it suppose her, much to the amazement of McRae.

There are telephones as big as the players who use them, and a golfing judge who taps golf balls while officiating at the weird murder trial of McRae. This judge also smokes a cigar about eighteen inches long, and at the request of McRae immediately raises his bench as a "higher court." The jury is one of mourners who have pillows with them.

The captions have their share in making for the success of this joyful entertainment, and it caused considerable mirth last night, hot as it was, when Mr. Cady remarks that it is a pretty fine state of affairs when a man murders a fellow's wife and daughter, right at his elbow.

The weird frocks worn by Gladys Cady show McRae's train of thought before he went to sleep, as in the dream there is the wriggling but decided black and white pattern, and in one instance half the young lady's dress is black and half white, keeping always to the same influence of the few lines she showed him one dull day.

The board of directors of Cady's company holds a meeting in midair, and the stenographer shoots up through an airshaft, just to confirm an oft-reiterated but gratifying statement.

One of the most amusing sequences in this photoplay comes just after McRae has dozed off. It is in the church, where the bridal procession is led by the obnoxious frogs, who were featured in a jazz song written for mere money by the young composer. Scores of other men and women fling themselves into line in this march and the men are seen wearing silk hats over bridal veils.

McRae is apprehended for the murder of the Cady family—which is carried out with a magnified knife, such as he used to open his tobacco tin—not by one or two policemen, but by scores of them, all running energetically to arrest the murderer.

The love story of the young composer, who wanted to devote his time to more sincere works, is sympathetically told, and yet it dovetails in nicely with the satiric nightmare chapters. The pantomime is entrancing, if brief, and the scenes of the place where McRae would really like to live are most appealing.

Erwin Connelly is sanguine and impressive as Frederick Cady. Ethel Wales is effective as Mrs. Cady, and Gertrude Short is efficient in the part of Gladys. Esther Ralston is charming as Cynthia Mason, the heroine.

Here is a picture which is another feather in the cap of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and one, we feel certain, which will keep persons in a jolly mood during the whole of its screening. It is an unusual effort, one in which bizarre and artistic touches run hand in hand, which fact has been appreciated by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld in his arrangement of the interesting music score.

Princeton Restores Landmark.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 5.—In an effort to preserve one of Princeton's most picturesque landmarks, reconstruction work was put under way here today on the pre-Revolutionary Washington Arms House, destroyed by fire this week. The original façade of the inn in which the surrender of Cornwallis was celebrated remained undamaged by the blaze. The house will be ready for occupancy with the opening of the academic year in September.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Macfarlane Beats Jones at the 36th Hole for National Open Golf Championship

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

nine holes with a four-stroke deficit. In addition, Jones played par golf the rest of the way, another feat that called for superlative golf, and Macfarlane answered that call. In spite of his par golf over the last nine, Jones lost five strokes to his rival and that is how Macfarlane won the title.

Both Play Marvelous Golf.

When consideration is made for the stake involved, the golf that the two played throughout the round was little short of marvelous. Tieing with 75s in the morning, Macfarlane and Jones finished with 72 and 73 respectively in the afternoon, one and two shots over par. There were mistakes here and there, to be sure, but far fewer than one had any right to expect in view of the heat and the physical and mental strain. Macfarlane's main weaknesses during the two rounds were his inability to lay his chips up close when he needed to, to get down putts of four and five feet in a crisis, and his inability to keep on equal terms with Jones off the tee. But his iron work was irreproachable, and it was this that won the title for him just as it was Jones's iron work that cost him the title.

When it was all over one could not help wishing that there could not be two champions, for both golfers deserved to win and neither deserved to lose, taking the two rounds as a whole. But when the truth is told and justice is done to Macfarlane, it must be said that nothing except luck—pure unadulterated luck—gave him the right to play the afternoon round.

He got breaks on the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth holes, particularly the fourteenth, that he did not deserve. They were breaks that would have taken the heart right out of a golfer of less courage than Macfarlane.

Jones Employs Acrobatics.

Going to the short thirteenth hole with a two-stroke deficit and apparently a beaten man, Bobby got his par after being trapped off the tee by dropping a putt of thirty feet or more. That wasn't so bad, for in the first nine his opponent had dropped a few long ones himself, but on the next hole Jones committed robbery. He just missed a trap on his drive, his ball dropping only a foot over the sand. Forced to stand with one foot in the bunker to play the ball, he brought off as respectable a shot as he could make under the conditions. It was to the right of the green and lying in grass nearly a foot high.

Macfarlane, after two beautiful shots, was on the green, in possession of a sure 4 and a possible 3. Bobby then proceeded to hole out from at least sixty yards, the ball dropping on the green, running straight toward the hole and nestling between the flag-stick and the rim. There was a birdie 3 on a hole at which he had played one absolutely bad shot and another that was neither good nor bad, but in between. Macfarlane's deserved two-stroke lead vanished right there.

Then at the next hole Bobby sliced wickedly toward the eleventh tee, found his ball sitting in a perfect spot for a long-iron shot toward the green and got the same as Macfarlane, whose only error was his failure to drop a four-footer.

They alternated strokes at the next two holes, and then the standard bearer of professional golfdom missed what would have been a winning putt on the home green, and the round finished all even.

Starts at a Fast Pace.

Having scraped through that, Jones started the afternoon round as if he intended to eat up his rival. He went out in 35, exact par. One by one his margin increased. He picked up a stroke on the fourth, another on the fifth, still another on the eighth and another on the ninth. On all these holes it was Macfarlane's approaching and putting that was at slipping strokes here and there. Ordinarily these errors would not have amounted to anything. Against such a perfect machine as Jones was on those first nine holes, each error counted heavily.

It began to look as though Macfarlane was out of it. Spotting Jones four shots in nine holes and then winning is something that could only be accomplished once in a century. Today happened to be that once. Starting at the ninth, Mac picked up a shot by holing a twelve-foot putt. Three holes after that he picked up two strokes by dropping a twenty-five-footer when Bobby was taking a 4 through a hook to the bank of the green, a fine chip to a little more than a yard and a missed putt.

Two holes later, Bobby was trapped after a great drive and a long second that, had it been a yard or two more, would have been on the green and probably given him the title right there. He failed to get out cleanly and his ball stuck in a fringe of grass on the edge of another bunker five yards ahead. That cost him a six to Macfarlane's five and the score was squared again. Six holes before it was almost a dead certainty that the title would again go to Jones. Now MacFarlane was on level terms after one of the greatest uphill fights ever made.

The knowledge that the Scot had made up a deficit that no one believed possible may have had its effect on Bobby's playing of the last hole. Whether it did or not, no mistakin gthe fact that it bolstered up his opponent's nerves, if they needed bolstering. Willie had to play two great chip approaches to get halves on the sixteenth and seventeenth holes, but he played them manfully and the approach putt he made on the home green was a manful shot. It brought him home in 33 strokes, three under par, a champion after the hardest fight that any man ever had to make to win the title.

MORNING ROUND.

On the first hole after perfect drives, Macfarlane, from an unlucky lie on the fairway, pitched into a bunker on the right of the green, but made a great recovery and holed a fifteen-foot putt for a par 4, halving the hole with Jones, who was beyond the pin on his second and down in two putts.

Jones became 1 up in strokes on his opponent at the second hole when Macfarlane, after a beautifully placed drive, had another bad lie and hooked the ball into a trap short of the green and then went into the rough beyond the green on his recovery. Bobby hit a gorgeous brassie second just into the rough at the right-hand corner of the green, chipped out eight feet past the hole and then missed his 4 by a hair. Mac was too strong on his recovery from the rough and a foot short on his putt for a 5.

Bobby's advantage was short-lived, for Macfarlane squared the match on the third hole by dropping a 75-foot putt for a birdie 3. Jones's second went over the green into the fringe of rough, and after a weak chip he almost duplicated Macfarlane's feat, his ball stopping on the lip of the cup.

The short fourth hole was halved in par 3s, Macfarlane's tee shot covering the pin all the way, but going several feet beyond the hole, while Bobby was left with a mean putt to lay dead. Willie made a great bid for a 2, his ball hitting the back of the cup and stopping a foot beyond. It was a rather lucky break for him, for had the ball not been checked it would have overrun the hole several feet. Bobby was up close on his putt and the hole was halved in par 3s.

Macfarlane Takes the Lead.

Mac went into the lead at the next. His drive was off to the right, onto a side hill and in heavy rough, from where he pitched out short. With the green in sight and in reach, Bobby hooked an iron into a trap and just got on the green with an explosion shot. After Macfarlane played a beautiful approach to within fifteen feet of the cup, the Oak Ridge professional sank his putt for a birdie 4. Bobby's ball stopped on the lip of the cup, and he got a 4.

Although Bobby was not on the sixth green, his ball trickling over into the rough on the left, he chipped back and holed a six-foot putt for a par 3, giving him a half when Macfarlane, after a fine tee shot, took two putts.

The match was brought back to even terms at the next hole, when Mac, after a fine drive, hit his second shot off the nose of his club and was lucky in escaping a bunker on the corner of the green. He was six feet short on his long approach, and then grazed the side of the hole. Jones's drive was in the rough, but he played a beautiful second shot that put the green thirty feet short of the hole. He was a yard short on his putt, but dropped it for a par 4 and the hole.

They each took 4s on the short eighth, Jones was lucky when his yard putt for a 4 hit the side of the hole, rolled around the back edge and remained in. Macfarlane's bid for a birdie was on the line all the way, only to swerve off at the finish.

Then came the eventful thirteenth, where Macfarlane was on the green off the tee while Jones hooked his iron into the short rough at the left of the green. Bobby played a great chip back to four feet, but after Macfarlane holed his twenty-five footer for a birdie 2, the youngster missed his easy putt. They then were within one shot of one another—quite a different situation from that which had prevailed a few holes back. Jones still led, but only by a stroke, and Macfarlane was pressing him hard.

Lead Leaves at the Next.

The one-stroke lead went at the next hole when Jones, after a gorgeous drive, attempted to get home and was trapped. Before the second shots it appeared as if Jones would get back a stroke, rather than lose one, for Macfarlane was several yards behind on the drive and without any possible chance to get home on his second. He didn't, but he chipped his third up to five feet, and with a few more rolls would have had a birdie 4 had he hit his putt a little firmer. By the time that Bobby got through he had used up five strokes, which was good at that after his trapped second and his failure to get out onto the green on his third. They were again all even in strokes with three holes left to play.

After good drives to the sixteenth, Macfarlane played a poor approach to the sixteenth and was off the edge of the green in the short rough, while Bobby was on. It was a crisis for the professional, for at the same hole yesterday he made a weak chip that forced the play-off and today he was faced with the same sort of a shot to make. He played it right this time and his ball stopped a foot from the hole. Bobby's putt was a yard short, but he got it down for a half.

When Macfarlane partially missed his tee shot going to the seventeenth his was a dismal outlook, for Jones was fully fifty yards in front. Mac's second stopped three yards short of the green, but he chipped up stone dead—a wonderfully gauged shot—and got his 4, which was as good as Bobby got, although he was inside on the green. Macfarlane got away a good drive to the home hole and then followed Jones's hooked tee shot that brought to an end a championship that everyone thought might go on forever.

Bobby being trapped on the left and Mac's ball running almost into a bunker behind the green. He had a difficult shot to make, and did the same thing that he did at the crucial sixteenth yesterday, chipping out short and being two feet out of line on his putt. Bobby had another good recovery, four feet past the hole and missed his 3.

Jones One Down at Tenth.

After playing the ninth, Bobby was one down to Macfarlane, who was out in 37. Here Willie took three from the edge of the green, failing to lay dead a long, uphill putt, going beyond the hole and missing on the way back. It looked as if Bobby were going to massacre the hole, when he again hooked a second into a bunker on the left, failed to get out on his first try and barely got his ball on the green with his fourth. He already had played four when Macfarlane was playing three, but got a 6, one over par, and so was one stroke behind at the turn, Mac having a 37.

Macfarlane completely outplayed Jones on the last nine holes. He was on the tenth green, not more than twenty-five feet from the hole, while Bobby was trapped short and then on the edge of the rough on his recovery, yet he got his 4 and lost only one stroke, Willie's ball turning out of the way when it seemed to be headed for the hole and giving him a par 3.

Both came near getting 3s at the eleventh, although one of them, Jones, was lying in heavy rough to the left of the fairway in after his drive. He then halved the hole with a 4.

They also halved the twelfth. Both drives were sliced into the rough on the right. Macfarlane, with two strokes to spare, played out safe, while Jones went for the green and lacked only a few yards of being home after a stupendously long carry. Mac's ball was in some long grass, but he made a great niblick pitch to within five feet, only to miss the putt. Bobby had a great chance to get back a stroke when he chipped up within a yard of the hole, but his putt slipped by the side of the tin and he got only a 5.

The next three holes saved Bobby from defeat, for, although he played each and every one of them right badly, while Macfarlane played them perfectly, he picked up two strokes to square the match. On the thirteenth he was trapped on his drive, barely out on his second and holed a twenty-five foot putt for his par 3, while Macfarlane, whose tee shot was a trifle strong, failed to get close to the hole on his chip from a clump of grass.

The next was the spectacular hole of the match. Macfarlane played it as it was meant to be played, his drive being just in the right spot, his second twelve feet short. Jones missed his drive, hooking it perilously close to a trap and escaped the sand by not more than a foot. He had to play his next standing one foot in the trap, and did well to get his ball as near the green as it was. It ended up in the long grass, fully sixty yards from the hole, but he chipped in for a birdie 3. No wonder Macfarlane missed his putt for a half.

Luck Aids Jones at Fourteenth.

The gods smiled on Bobby again at the next hole, for after a weird slice to the bottom of a hill near the eleventh tee he found his ball perched up in a tuft of grass so that he could almost get home with an iron. It was a tremendous shot, almost carrying to the green 250 yards distant. He played a poor chip from where he was, his ball stopping twenty-five feet short of the hole, but he got down in two putts for a 5 and fared just as well as Macfarlane, who missed a five-footer after playing a fine chip.

The sixteenth, which wis MacFarlane's jonah yesterday, gave him a stroke's lead today. Bobby took a 5, playing his second too strong and into the rough on a downhill slope. He again was too strong on his recovery, going five yards past the hole, and took two putts from there. Mac was hole high to the right, and had to drop a yard putt for his 4 after a weak approach.

One stroke up and two holes to play, MacFarlane hooked into the rough on the left going to the seventeenth, found himself almost stymied by a tree, and then played a questionable shot—a straight-faced iron that went over the green and down the hill beyond. He came back short and just missed his 4, thereby surrendering a stroke to Jones, who was on in two and down in two putts.

That put the issue up to the last hole, and after MacFarlane's second—a wonderful mashie niblick pitch to within two yards of the hole—it looked like his championship. It looked even more like his championship when Bobby's second was on the green but wide and he missed the putt. With the goal in sight MacFarlane failed to hole out, got a 4, and so sent the match on for another eighteen holes.

AFTERNOON ROUND.

The two drives were down the middle, starting the afternoon round, and neither ball was close to the pin after the second, Macfarlane being short and Bobby on the far edge of the green, Mac chipped seven feet short and holed and Bobby 4 got his after putting a yard short.

Jones again was trapped on his second shot to the second hole, but got a half in 5 after Macfarlane's chip was too strong. They also halved the third in par, Willie almost holing a twenty-foot putt for a 3. Macfarlane had a good break playing to the one-shot fourth hole. His tee shot just carried over the near trap, but he lost the hole anyway by taking three strokes from the edge of the green while Bobby, who was on at the back of the green, got down in two putts.

Macfarlane dropped another stroke at the fifth when, after playing a magnificent iron second to twenty-five feet of the pin, took three to hole out, failing on a yard putt that would have given him a half in 4. Neither one's ball landed on the hog's back six green, both slicing to the rough on the left. Macfarlane played first and his ball caught the downhill slope of the green, and rolled into the rough from where he took two to get down. Bobby might have picked up a stroke, but he pitched on short and then missed a four-yard putt. After being nearly even on the drives and on the green, they took two to hole out, Jones coming close to a birdie 3.

He picked up a stroke on the eighth and came near gaining two strokes instead of one. He put a beauty on the green, five feet away from the hole, while Willie's iron was strong and his ball ran over into the rough beyond. He made a fine recovery from there, coming out to a yard but after Jones's putt took a look at the hole, hovering half way in and half way out, Macfarlane stabbed his own and came nowhere near holing.

Amateur Three Strokes Up.

That made the amateur champion three strokes up on the professional and he added another one to that at the ninth. After beautiful drives, neither ball was lying near the hole on the seconds. Macfarlane was short of the green, made a weak approach, and then missed a six-foot putt for a 4. Jones was thirty feet away and left himself with a missable putt on his own weak approach, but he sank it and they started off to the tenth with the stage all set for a runaway which Macfarlane curbed by phenomenal golf on the second nine.

Jones's mashie covered the flag, but he put a trifle too much into it and it dropped forty feet beyond the flag. Macfarlane got away a beauty to within twelve feet and after Jones had narrowly missed getting his putt down for a 4, Macfarlane holed out amid great applause from a gallery that was applauding a beaten man.

Willie had to hole a ten-footer for a half on the eleventh, where his drive was in the rough and his iron second failed to carry the traps in front of the green. He played a magnificent recovery and holed the putt for a 4—another great saving, for Jones was on the edge of the green and down in two putts for an easy par.

The twelfth was uneventful, although

MACFARLANE PLAYS GOLF VERY SELDOM

Thirteen Rounds His Quota Since Last October—Has Avoided Tournaments.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5.—In many respects the two principals in the dramatic play-off for the national open golf crown at the Worcester Country Club today are alike; in many others they are as far apart as the Poles. In disposition and in the art of shot-making Willie Macfarlane and Bobby Jones have much in common. In build and in the matter of past records they are opposites.

Macfarlane, born in Aberdeen, Scotland, thirty-six years ago, learned his golf on the public courses of that city. As a boy he worked in the shipyards and his employer used to accompany him out to the links almost every afternoon for a round of golf. Fifteen years ago he came to America, going out to Glenview at Chicago with Jimmy Donaldson, who is now at Fenimore. Previous to that engagement he had been an amateur golfer.

From Glenview he got an engagement at Bar Harbor, Mich., for a time and then came to what is now the Hudson River Club in Yonkers. It was then known as the Saegkill Club. While it was being remodeled Macfarlane accepted a position in Baltimore and subsequently came back to the metropolitan district as professional at Otto Kahn's private course in Port Washington, L. I. After that he went to his present berth at Oak Ridge.

Competitive Record Slight.

Peculiarly enough, in spite of the fact that even his fellow-professionals have insisted that he is one of the greatest shot-makers in golf—a true compliment, indeed, to his game—he has never accomplished much in a competitive way. Outside of the Westchester open championship, which he has won twice in the last three years, and the Shawnee open championship, which he lost last year in a play-off with Leo Diegel, he has never figured in any notable golf tourney. He has played only a few national open championships, not even contesting for the last three years.

His is a disposition not often found among his kind. He shuns publicity. He says little. He craves no honors. He is one of the few men in the world who is perfectly contented with his lot. He plays only a little golf. Previous to the present tourney, he had played only thirteen rounds of golf since last October—a thing that makes his showing in the present tourney all the more remarkable.

Brilliant, capable of playing courses in figures that few other professionals or amateurs can equal, he simply avoided tournaments. In those where he did play his attitude was "Let the others win the laurels." So it transpired that he got a reputation for being a poor finisher. Often in metropolitan events and others he would reel off stupendous rounds only to fade out of the picture at the end.

He Shows His Stamina.

He freed himself of that reputation in this tourney and particularly yesterday. The Worcester course is a course unsuited to a golfer of Macfarlane's frail build. It is an up-and-down course, a trying test of stamina as well as golf. Others, stronger than he, wilted under yesterday's stress and strain.

For a time in the third round it appeared as if he was on the verge of a physical collapse. He was out in 39—terrifying figures under the circumstances. Yet he came home in 33. In the final round, after things went so badly for him at the start of the incoming nine, he came to the last three holes needing three 4s to win. He knew that he had to get them, for Bobby Jones was in with his 291, and the information was relayed out to the sombre Macfarlane.

After losing the necessary 4 at the sixteenth, due to a poor chip shot, he was in even more straitened circumstances. "He'll blow," they said, "just as Farrell and Diegel did." Did he? He didn't. He got his 4 at the seventeenth. Coming up to the last hole, he purposely played his second strong in order to make certain of keeping out of traps that would have killed his chances.

Fortunately for him, his ball was outside of Gallett's, so that the Blue Mound professional, who was his partner, had to play first. Macfarlane saw Gallett's putt, hit perfectly, run several feet past the hole. When it came his turn to play, he borrowed from Francis's experience and hit his ball half as hard as he would otherwise have done. It stopped a foot from the hole, but in a hole made by the ball of some other player landing on the green.

He Makes a Crucial Shot.

It was then that Macfarlane made the stroke that was as fine a testimonial to nerve as any made in the tourney. He could not play the ball with his putter. The hole in which it stopped was too deep for that. So, after looking over the situation, he took out his midiron and practically chipped the ball into the hole for a 4 and a tie. It was easily one of the greatest shots of the entire tourney.

Macfarlane has considerable of the school-master's appearance on the links. He is a studious-looking individual, long, lean and lank. Standing close to six feet, he weighs less than 140 pounds. He has a frail frame, thin legs and a woman's wrists. Yet he drives a long ball and, best of all, a straight one. If he has any weakness, it is on the greens, due in no small part to his infrequent play.

He is married and has a ten-year-old daughter, Elna, who is a prime favorite with the members of the golf clan.

FAVORITES ADVANCE ON JERSEY LINKS

MEDALIST MEETS DEFEAT

Special to The New York Times.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., June 5.—Everything ran true to form today in the two match play rounds of the Jersey amateur golf championship over the lower course of the Baltusrol Golf Club. When the field of 150 starters began play yesterday the three outstanding favorites were William M. Reekie of Upper Montclair, holder of the metropolitan title; August F. Kammer and Eddie Wild of Baltusrol, who were finalists in the Jersey event last year. All three came through today, and Wild and Kammer will meet tomorrow morning in one of the semi-finals. In the other Reekie will oppose Ed Curtin, former city champion of Newark.

Jack Sharkey, who caused a sensation by winning the medal yesterday in his debut as a tournament golfer, was eliminated in the second round this afternoon by Kammer. Sharkey was 1 up at the sixteenth, and when he played his tee shot on the short hole not more than ten feet from the cup the gallery believed that Kammer's reign as champion was about to end. Kammer, however, dropped his tee shot dead for a 2, which squared the match, and he then got two more birdies on the seventeenth and eighteenth, snatching a sensational victory. Their medal scores were the best of the day, Kammer having 72 and Sharkey 74.

Sharkey	4	4	3	5	5	4	3	5	5—38—74

Wild Defeats Pryor.

Wild's two victories were scored over Bobby Pryor of Forest Hill and H. C. Buchanan of Shackamaxon. The latter was 1 up after playing fourteen holes, but Wild squared the match on the fifteenth and then won the seventeenth and eighteenth.

Reekie won this afternoon from Drake Delanoy of Baltusrol after being 2 down at the eleventh. Delanoy lost his ball and conceded the thirteenth hole, thereby squaring his match. A second after he had conceded the hole Delanoy found his ball, but it was then too late. The fourteenth was halved and Reekie became 1 up for the first time by winning the fifteenth with a birdie. The sixteenth was halved in 3s and Reekie ended the fight by scoring another birdie on the seventeenth. Reekie was four under 4s for the eight holes played coming in.

Reekie had to go up to the home green, where he sank a long putt for a birdie 4, to win his first round match from George A. Bomann Jr. of Plainfield. Bomann, who is an older brother of Donald Bomann, the Eastern interscholastic champion, laid Reekie a dead stymie on the seventeenth green, thereby squaring the match when the metropolitan champion attempted a jump shot with a niblick and failed. On the home hole Bomann smothered his tee shot into the rough and played his third into a trap.

Curtin Wins on Twentieth.

Curtin had to go twenty holes to beat Burris M. Johnson of Asbury Park, who lost when he took three putts on the second extra hole. In the second round Curtin defeated Joseph M. Byrne of Forest Hill by 5 and 4.

The summaries:

Championship Sixteen.

First Round—Edward Curtin, Municipal, defeated, Burris M. Johnson, Asbury Park, 1 up (twenty holes); Joseph F. Byrne, Forest Hill, defeated Warren Ackerman, Plainfield, 3 and 2; William M. FORMER CHAMPIONS SCORE AT WYKAGYL

Anderson and Sturgis Survive Opponents and Heat in Westchester Golf.

RICHARD JONES IS VICTOR

Benton Also Gains Semi-Final in Amateur Tourney — Carr and Lawyer Lose in First Round.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, June 5.—Two former champions and another who has persistently pressed for the title were left in the running for the Westchester County amateur golf crown after a heat-harrassed army finished two rounds of match play over the links of the Wykagyl Club here today. John G. Anderson, present holder of the French amateur championship, and E. E. Sturges of Scarsdale, who has been seated on the Westchester County throne before, were the two former titleholders to survive, while young Richard A. Jones of Westchester Hills, twice Metropolitan junior champion, and C. V. Benton of Hudson River were the others to come through successfully.

Along the wayside, under the withering heat and the stress of the opposition, dropped George I. Lawyer of Briarcliff Lodge, who won last year, and Donald Carr, who was runner up. Both passed out in the first round. There were other surprising results, but the defeats of these two were the most astonishing. Carr just managed to get into the championship fight, winning the play-off from eight other golfers for the sixteenth place this morning, but he only lasted sixteen holes of the title play, for he was eliminated by Benton, 3 and 2.

Lawyer fell before the steady assault of C. V. Rich Jr., the promising Westchester Hills youngster, who later lost to his clubmate, Jones. Lawyer held his opponent even over the first nine holes, but the Westchester Hills golfer had the stamina and weathered the heat better. The champion hung on tenaciously, but going to the home hole he was one down and the best he could get there was a half, which lost him the match.

The summaries:

Championship Flight, First Round—John G. Anderson, Winged Foot, defeated Louis Goldman, Fenimore, 1 up; Charles H. Paul, Westchester Hills, defeated A. B. Johnson, Hudson River, 3 and 2; E. E. Sturges, Scarsdale, defeated Major H. W. Lockett, Wykagyl, 4 and 3; Carl Bryant, Wykagyl, defeated A. C. Haight, Westchester Hills, 3 and 2; C. V. Rich Jr., Westchester Hills, defeated George I. Lawyer, Briarcliff Lodge, 1 up; Richard A. Jones, Westchester Hills, defeated Victor Carlson, Siwanoy, 2 and 1; H. W. Howe, Mount Kisco, defeated L. S. Greenbaum, Quaker Ridge, 3 and 2; C. V. Benton, Hudson River, defeated Donald Carr, 3 and 2.

Second Round—Anderson defeated Paul, 6 and 5; Sturges defeated Bryant, 5 and 4; Jones defeated Rich, 6 and 4; Benton defeated Howe, 3 and 2.

YALE AND HARVARD CREWS HOLD TRIALS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 5.—Yale's varsity crew boarded the coaching launch Roola at Gales Ferry at 5:40 o'clock this evening and with sweeps aboard and accompanied by Coach Leader proceeded down to the bridge. The launch Bingo with the new Pocock shell in tow preceded them. There was little time lost after the crew's arrival until they entered their shell and went on a four-mile speed spin up stream.

The men rowed at a thirty-two gait for the first two miles, according to Harvard's scouts, and the time of the Eli crew for that distance was clocked at 10 minutes and 34 seconds. The last two miles were not caught, and the Blue varsity ceased rowing, when about three and three-quarters miles, due to a double crab.

While the Yale varsity crew was down the course Coaches Murphy and Moore sent the combinations and freshman eights paddling down to the two-mile mark. Here the crews lined up and were sent on time up the course. The junior varsity crew awaited the return of Leader, who gave them a short paddle on the upper course.

Harvard's varsity and junior crews were taken down from Red Top to the starting point near the railroad bridge in coaching launches, while the boats were towed astern. The varsity eight was paced by the junior for the first two miles. When the latter crew dropped out of the race the freshman eight picked up the big crew and paced it the last two miles.

The varsity crew was leading the freshman crew by over a length at the finish, but at the two-mile mark was behind the juniors by the same distance. The time was 21:45 for the varsity, the pacemakers' time not being taken.

GHIGLIOTTI'S 77 IS BEST.

Takes First Prize in Municipal Employes' Golf Tournament.

The fourth annual municipal employes' golf tournament was held yesterday at Van Cortlandt Park with 120 members of city departments participating, an increase of more than 100 per cent. over last year.

John Ghigliotti of the Tenement House Department won the first low gross prize with a 77. J. J. Stoddard of the Department of Plant and Structures took first low net with an 82—20—62. The first seniors' prize went to A. S. Meyer of the Board of Education with 83—12—71. The Police Department won the beginners' prize when A. P. Hunt finished with 91—26—65. Miss Helen Busse of the Department of Plant and Structures won the women's prize with a 100.

MRS. MACGOWAN VICTOR.

Home Club Golfer's 87 Wins in Montclair Golf Club Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., June 5.—Mrs. Walter Macgowan of the home club carried off the low gross prize in the one-day tournament held over the course of the Montclair Golf Club by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association today. Mrs. Macgowan covered the eighteen holes in 87 but that was not enough to give her the prize, as Mrs. C. Smith of Glen Ridge came in at the same figure shortly after. Mrs. Macgowan, however, won the toss for the trophy.

TUNNEY KNOCKS OUT GIBBONS IN TWELFTH

RIGHT TO JAW ENDS FIGHT

LOSER IS FLOORED TWICE

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Like the pitcher of proverb which went to the well, Tom Gibbons last night came to the boxing ring once too often and was broken. The veteran St. Paul fighter was battered into defeat in the twelfth round of his scheduled fifteen-round bout against Gene Tunney before a crowd of 40,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds.

A right to the jaw sent Gibbons down and out in 1 minute and 23 seconds of the twelfth round, after Tunney, fighting the battle of his life and justifying the odds of 7 to 5 at which he was quoted a favorite on entering the ring, had pounded his rival mercilessly through all of the eleven rounds which preceded the finish.

It was a dramatic finish to a dazzling boxing exhibition, and something of a tragic end, for it closed the championship hopes of Gibbons with the first knockout of his career. It was a triumph of youth again. Tunney, with a boxing ability which surpassed that of Gibbons, simply overwhelmed the St. Paul boxer from the outset. Younger by nine years than his rival of 36, Tunney battered and punished, cut and slashed Gibbons from the tap of the first gong, and reduced the St. Paul veteran to a state where he could no longer resist the rain of blows.

Tunney May Meet Dempsey.

Tunney's victory is expected to pave the way for a heavyweight championship bout between the Greenwich Village boxer and Jack Dempsey.

There was doubt in the minds of many as to whether Tunney's final punch actually knocked out Gibbons. The St. Paul veteran went down with startling suddenness from a right to the jaw, half clinch, and half hook, as the men were engaged in an exchange in midring.

Gibbons remained down until seven was tolled over him and then arose, to be met with a succession of blows to the head and face, which ended with another right to the jaw. Again Gibbons went down, this time near his own corner, where he groveled in the dust, twisting and squirming, as the count progressed.

He grabbed the middle strand of the ring and was arising as Referee Dick Nugent neared the fatal ten, then came erect as the count was finished. He had been counted out.

The St. Paul veteran seemed clear-eyed as he stood with Nugent holding his left arm, while the crowd cheered itself hoarse for the victor. The power of the punches under which Gibbons collapsed, however, will be debated for some time. It did not seem that they carried sufficient steam to crumple a heavyweight. This is not saying that Gibbons quit. Rather, Gibbons appeared to have been reduced to that state of exhaustion where any punch would have toppled him, just so long as it landed on a vulnerable spot.

Tunney dropped his rival for the first time with a right, which was only one of many the Greenwich Village lad drove home during the bout. There were harder blows driven to Gibbons's jaw earlier in the fray and he withstood these shocks. But when the first right landed in the twelfth, with the men almost head to head, Gibbons lacked the necessary resistance and he went down. His finish was not far, and Tunney lost no time.

Victor Thrills Crowd.

Gibbons has passed the crest. He has no hope now for another crack at Dempsey. Retirement and the comfort of his home and fireside seem his destiny, but he will always be remembered as a credit to the ring.

Tunney thrilled the large crowd from the start with the manner in which he handled Gibbons. The Greenwich Village lad had no fear, no respect for the St. Paul veteran. He sailed into Gibbons as if Tom were a novice and he swept his rival before him in a tireless, merciless fire to the head, face and body, under whoch Tom became bruised and sore.

In the very first round Gibbons's face was red from the dye of the gloves which were jabbed, hooked and crossed to his features. When the finish came Gibbons's nose was bleeding, his left eye was puffed up, crimson flowed from a cut above the optic, and his body was red.

Tunney took every round of the fight because he fought a systematic, well-planned battle for which Gibbons had no counter-attack or defense. Gibbons was on the defensive almost exclusively throughout, covering and retreating before the assault. But the wonderful defense of Gibbons was conspicuous by its absence last night. Try as he would, the St. Paul veteran could not evade Tunney's pitiless fire.

Only in the eighth and ninth rounds did Gibbons fight back at all. He clipped Tunney with a choppy right to the jaw in the last fifteen seconds of the eighth round and Gene was stung. Gibbons followed with a left hook to the jaw and another right and Gene went back on his heels. Again Gibbons threw that right to the chin and drove Tunney to the ropes. With the crowd yelling madly in encouragement, Tom ripped a left hook to the jaw as the bell ended the round. Before that Tunney had battered his rival all over the ring, so that this spurt by Tom did not really gain Gibbons the round.

Again in the ninth round Gibbons fought in a fitful outburst when, with a right to the jaw, he stung Tunney so that Gene became erratic in his fire and hit low with a right. Warned for the offense, Gene apologized and then set about the task of continuing the hammering of Gibbons. He did this so well that Gibbons was again in full retreat and blood was coming from a cut over his puffed left eye before the bell ended the round. Through the tenth and eleventh rounds Tunney pounded away mercilessly.

Gibbons Overwhelmed.

Up to the eighth session Tunney simply overwhelmed his rival. From the first bell to the finish Tunney fought along in a systematic attack. He had Tom's head bobbing on the end of a snappy left jab which landed repeatedly and without a counter from Gibbons. It was a new experience for Gibbons.

Through every round Tunney harried his rival with that left jab and blinded Gibbons with rapid-fire rights and lefts to the head when Tom sought to come to close quarters. Occasionally Gene would rip his wicked left hook to the stomach and drive his right viciously to the heart. Gibbons, on the other hand, was eternally reaching out with left hooks and jabs which were short or wide.

Tunney had his rival in full retreat from the third round on. He outfought Gibbons in the first exchanges of the bout. In the third and fourth rounds Gene stung his opponent with right crosses to the jaw at the bell. It was the first real indication of a knockout for Gibbons. Through the fifth round Tunney rained rights and lefts on Gibbon's face until he had Tom staggering backward on uncertain, shaky legs.

In the sixth round Gibbons tried to stop his rival with a left hook to the jaw, but Gene kept coming in. Gibbons was in full retreat through the greater part of the sixth round and through all of the seventh, before the brief rally he staged late in the eighth and for a short time in the ninth.

The preliminaries failed to provide any thrills. King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, won the decision over Quintin Romero Rojas in the eighth round semi-final. Bob Lawson, Alabama negro heavyweight, won the award over Ray Neuman of Jersey City in their six-round bout. In the first six-round encounter Bud Gorman, Kenosha heavyweight, won the verdict over Jack Dymave of Washington Heights, and in the first preliminary, scheduled for four rounds, Johnny Grosse, Mount Vernon heavyweight, knocked out Jack McDonald in the third round.

'Now I Want Dempsey,' Tunney Declares; Gibbons Has Only Praise for Conqueror

The following statements were made by Gene Tunney and Tom Gibbons to a NEW YORK TIMES reporter after the fight at the Polo Grounds last night:

TUNNEY—I think I established my right to the championship match with Jack Dempsey tonight. I did something that Dempsey failed to do when I stopped Gibbons. I never entertained any doubt of the result, for somehow I felt after the first few rounds that I would end the bout before fifteen rounds had been covered. Gibbons never hurt me, although he stung me once or twice in the eighth and ninth rounds. I don't think the spectators question my superiority at any stage of the bout. Certainly through knocking Gibbons out I accomplished something which showed that I am improved. Now I want Dempsey.

GIBBONS—I don't remember what round the bout ended in. I fought the best I could, but the best I had was not good enough tonight; that's all. Tunney fought a wonderful battle and has improved immensely. I know, for I was in there taking his blows in a manner I have never experienced at the hands of any boxer before. He is a great fellow, a good boxer and fighter, and I wish Gene the best of luck.

STORY OF THE BATTLE TOLD ROUND BY ROUND

Detailed Description Shows How Tunney and Gibbons Exchanged Blows at Polo Grounds.

Gibbons and Tunney entered the ring at the same moment and advanced to the centre to greet each other. Gibbons appeared nervous and stepped about the ring, leaning against the ropes as if testing them. Tunney remained standing in his corner. Harry Wills and Jack Sharkey were introduced from the ring. Tunney received a great ovation when introduced. Gibbons got a similar reception.

It was announced that Gibbons weighed 179 and Tunney's weight was 181½. The judges were Tom Gilfoyle of Albany and George T. Kelly of Yonkers, and the referee was Dick Nugent of Buffalo. Reports at the ringside as the bout started had Tunney a favorite at odds of 7 to 5.

First Round.

Gibbons was short with a left hook and went close with a left to the body. Gibbons missed a left hook and they clinched again. Gibbons hooked a left to the jaw and Tunney hooked a left to the body. At close quarters Tunney drove a right and left to the jaw. Tunney jabbed two lefts to the face without a return. They exchanged left jabs to the face and clinched. Each missed a left hook and clinched. Tunney jabbed a light left to the face. Tunney drove a hard right to the heart and they clinched. Tunney accidentally hooked a left hook low and then jabbed a left to the face. Tunney drove a right to the body. They clinched. Tunney drove another right to the body and jabbed and hooked with a left to the face. Tunney drove a left and right to the body at the bell.

Second Round.

They sparred cautiously and went into a clinch. Gibbons jabbed a light left to the face and Tunney drove a left to the body and a right to the head. Tunney stepped inside of a left hook and drove a right to the head. Gibbons hooked a left to the jaw and Tunney drove a left and right to the body. Tunney was short with a right to the body and they clinched. Tunney kept jabbing his left to the face. At close quarters Gibbons hooked a left and right to the jaw and Tunney drove a left and right to the body. Each missed rights for the jaw and they came together, landing lefts and rights to the head. Tunney drove a left and right to the head, and in a clinch sent Gibbons's head back with right and left uppercuts. Tunney jabbed a left to the face at the bell.

Third Round.

They came into a clinch and Gibbons landed two short rights to the body. Tunney drove a left and right to head and they clinched. At close quarters Tunney drove several short rights and lefts to the head. Tunney dug his right hook, but Tunney leaped in and smothered his rival with lefts and rights to the head. Tunney hooked a left to the body, and after an exchange of left jabs Tunney stepped in with a right to the head and drove another right to the heart. Gibbons's left eye was closing under the battering. Tunney sent Gibbons's head back with a snappy left jab and drove a hard right to the heart at close quarters. Gibbons was weary and sought only to cover up. Gibbons was covering from a right to the face at the bell.

Twelfth Round.

They went into a clinch. Gibbons drove a left to the head. Tunney countered with a left to the body. Tunney jabbed a left to the face and missed with a right cross. Gibbons leaped in with a left to the body and a right to the head. Tunney drove him off with lefts and rights to the head. Tunney drove a right to the head and a left to the body. Tunney hooked a left to the head and Gibbons drove a right and left to the body. Tunney drove a right to the heart and they clinched. Tunney leaped in with a left and right to the face. Gibbons missed a left hook for the body and they clinched. Tunney hooked a right to the head and a left to the body. Gibbons jabbed a left to the face. Tunney drove his right to the body and crossed a right to the head. After hooking a left to the face, Tunney shook Gibbons with a right cross to the jaw at the bell.

They sparred cautiously. Gibbons hooked a left to the head and Tunney drove a right and left to the body. Tunney drove a right to the jaw and when Gibbons drove a left and right to the face, Tunney staggered Gibbons with another right to the jaw. Gibbons retreated across the ring and as Tunney followed him Tom was almost forced out between the ropes. Tunney drove several rights and lefts to the head. They exchanged left jabs to the face. They exchanged left hooks to the body and then Tunney drove a left and right to the head. Tunney jabbed his left to the face repeatedly. Gibbons jabbed a left to the face and Tunney drove several rights and lefts to the face at close quarters. They exchanged left jabs to the face. Tunney hooked a left to the head at the bell.

They exchanged left jabs to the face. Tunney three times jabbed his left to the face without a return. Gibbons jabbed a left to the face and Tunney hooked a left to the body. Tunney drove his right and left to the face and then hooked a left to the body. Gibbons hooked a left to the jaw, but Tunney came right back with a right and left to the head. They exchanged left jabs and then Tunney drove a right and left to the head. Gibbons, was wild with an overhand right. Tunney peppered his rival's face with rights and lefts. Gibbons grazed the chin with a left hook. Tunney kept coming in all the time and drew the blood from Gibbon's nose with rights and lefts to the face. At close quarters Tunney sent Gibbons's head back with a right uppercut. Tunney jabbed several lefts to the face and crossed a right to the head at the bell.

After Gibbons blocked a right and left to the body they exchanged left jabs to the face. Gibbons missed a left hook for the head and Tunney stepped in with a left to the body and a right to the head. Tunney kept jabbing his left to the face, driving Gibbons before him and landing short lefts and rights to the face at close quarters. Gibbons sought refuge behind his folded arms. Tunney leaped in with a left and right to the face, driving Gibbons into the latter's own corner. Gibbons hooked a left to the head and Tunney drove a right to the body. They exchanged left hooks to the face and then Tunney leaped in with a left and right to the jaw, which shook Gibbons. Tunney hooked a left to the body and Gibbons hooked a left to the head at the bell.

Gibbons rushed out with a left to the body and in a clinch drove his left and right to the body. They exchanged left hooks to the head and then Gibbons missed a right hook for the jaw. After sparring for a while Tunney leaped in with a left and right to the face. Tunney stepped inside Gibbons's right hook and drove a left to the body and then hooked a right to the head, ducking under Gibbons's right hook. After jabbing several lefts to the face, Tunney drove a left and right to the body. Gibbons grazed the chin with a short left hook. Tunney hooked a left uppercut to the face and repeatedly crossed his right to the face. Gibbons drove a right to the jaw and leaped in with a left and right to the jaw and then drove another right to the jaw shaking Tunney to his toes. Tunney retreated to the ropes and Gibbons hooked a left to the head at the bell.

Tunney jabbed his left to the face. Gibbons hooked a left to the jaw and then drove a right to the body. They exchanged left jabs to the face. Gibbons hooked a left to the body. Tunney jabbed a left to the body and then Gibbons hooked a right to the jaw which made Tunney clinch. Tunney hooked a solid left to the body and then drove a right and left to the head. They exchanged lefts to the head and then Gibbons drove a right to the face. Tunney was low with a right for the body and Gibbons's face took on a look of pain. Tunney was warned. Tunney drove a left and right to the head. Tunney crossed a right to the head which drew blood from a cut over Gibbons's left eye.

After jabbing a left to the face Tunney stepped close with a right and left to the face. Tunney drove a right to the body and Gibbons came back with a left and right to the body. Tunney jabbed several lefts to the face and then drove a right to the ody. After jabbing a left to the face Tunney drove a right to the jaw. Tunney hooked a left to the jaw and Gibbons was in full retreat. Tunney peppered Gibbons with lefts and rights to the face, forcing Tom to the ropes. Tunney hooked a right to the head. Gibbons was on the defensive, retreating and covering before the blows of Tunney. Tunney drove a left and right to the head and then hooked a left to the face. Tunney drove a right and left to the face at the bell.

Eleventh Round.

SHIRT-WAIST PARTY DECLARED BY CROWD

Great Good-Natured Throng Sheds Collars, Too, in Vain Attempt to Keep Cool.

The crowd that flocked into the Polo Grounds last night will probably go down in fistic history as the great shirt-waist party. Never in the annals of the ring has such a big aggregation of coatless and collarless fans been seen together. It was the only way to keep half way cool on the fifth night of the June heat and if it had been put to a vote, many of the customers would have voted for pajamas as the proper attire for the occasion.

But to return to the silk shirts—there were some wonderful specimens present, grading off from those worn by prominent bankers and bootleggers near the ringside to the less sheer grades far away in the bleachers. It was a great and good-natured crowd, ready, like old Bob Evans's fleet, "for a fight or a frolic."

The fight was provided by Gibbons and Tunney, while the preliminaries provided the frolics.

They strewed and steamed into the gates from all directions—east side, west side, all around the town—and in fact from out-of-town, including many Middle Westerners who believe Mike Gibbons to be the logical contender, "and always will." Wall Street, the stage, all sorts of sport, a dash of Meadow Brook and a medley of other New Yorkers were included in the shirtwaist party, and the lady fans were there sleeveless, but not so cool—plentifully sprinkled through the crowd.

In fact everybody seemed to be there except the Gibbons twins. The Gibbonses were unavoidably detained in St. Paul.

King Solomon wore wonderful red silk trunks. But his fighting was not so gaudy in the sad semi-final with Romero.

It was rumored about the ringside that Solomon's real name was McCluskey. Romero Rojas fights like a man trying to keep the mosquitos away.

A faint breeze was stirred at times about the ringside by Romero's wild swings. This was greatly appreciated by the steaming fans.

The semi-final was ended on the minute of ten o'clock, which was keeping pretty close to schedule.

Joe Humphries has been announcing so vociferously during the heat wave that he is down to the welterweight limit.

A fine broth of a boy—is this Tunney. He was born in Greenwich Village just around the corner from Luke O'Connor's.

They say the old-time sports are coming back. At any rate many a hard-boiled fan was swinging a palm leaf fan during last night's pastime.

Tex Rickard was said to be camped in the offing, still looking for that logical contender.

The demand for tickets was very big. In fact, one of the boxing writers had fifty-seven calls on the phone before 10 o'clock yesterday morning from those paging the pasteboards. This was said to be a new high record.

Mayor Hague steamed over from Jersey City to see if the place looked anything like Boyle's Thirty Acres.

James Joy Johnston, who was released as Johnny Dundee's manager some time ago, was there, wearing a violent hatband.

Dundee and Johnston regarded each other with only lukewarm interest. Dundee thinks the manager's cut is the unkindest cut of all.

Family Not Near Gibbons For First Time at Fight

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 5 (AP).—Tommy Gibbons's strongest supporters were a long way from the ringside tonight when the St. Paul boxer met Gene Tunney. They were Mrs. Gibbons and the five little Gibbonses, namely, Tom, 7; Jack, 5; Dick, 3, and Mark and Jerome, twins, 1 year old. It will be one of the few times that Tommy has engaged in a big fight without his family near by, though they never have attended any of his contests.

KNOCKOUT SHOCKS ST. PAUL.

None of His Admirers Believed He Would Lose Even on Points.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 5 (AP).—"Tommy Gibbons knocked out"—the word spread through sporting circles here tonight as only bad news can travel. Defeat on points would have been a surprise, but a knockout stunned his followers.

Those supporters of the St. Paul fighter who have seen him keep his feet through all his long climb up the pugilistic ladder had not included the probability of a knockout in their speculations, and only a few admitted the probability of defeat on points.

His downfall at the hands of Tunney may mean Gibbons's retirement from the ring. Only the lure of larger purses, after years of meager returns, has kept him in the ring in late years, his close friends say.

COBURN AND VERRAES WIN BIKE TEAM RACE

Take 100-Kilometer Event, Although Thomas and Schneider Also Lap the Field.

Willie Coburn and Alfons Verraes, along with Ricard Schneider and Lloyd Thomas, lapped the field in the last mile of the 100-kilometer team race at the New York Velodrome last night before 14,000 fans. Coburn and Verraes won the race, while Schneider and Thomas finished in second place.

The race was run on a point basis, with a sprint every two miles, but when Coburn and Verraes and Schneider and Thomas lapped the field, the points did not count much, as the gained laps won the event. Anthony Beckman and Harris Horder finished third, with 67 points. Bobby Walthour and Freddie Spencer were fourth, with 65 points, and Cecil Walker and Alf Grenda finished fifth, with 59 points. Willie Spencer and Tom Bello took sixth money, with 45 points, Bill Hanley and Freddie Hill were seventh, with 37, while Eddie Madden and Reggie McNamara were eighth, with 34.

It was a hot night for a team race, and all the riders were very tired after pedalling the sixty-two and a half miles, which they covered in 2:17:48 2-5.

The summaries:

100-Kilometer Team Race, (professional)—Won by Willie Coburn, Kearny, and Alfons Verraes, Belgium, (one lap ahead, 26 points); Lloyd Thomas, San Francisco, and Richard Schneider, Newark, (one lap ahead, 11 points), second; Anthony Beckman, Secaucus, and Harris Horder, Australia, (67 points, one lap behind), third; Bobby Walthour, Arlington, Fred Spencer, Plainfield, (65 points), fourth; Cecil Walker, Australia, and Alfred Grenda, Tasmania, (59 points), fifth; Willie Spencer, Newark, and Tom Bello, Brooklyn, (45 points), sixth; Fred Hill, Boston, and Willie Hanley, Newark, (37 points), seventh. Time 2:17:48 4-5.

MARIENBAD, Czechoslovakia, June 5.—By drawing their games in the thirteenth round of the International Chess Masters' Tournament here today the three leaders maintained their respective positions. Niemzowitsch of Denmark is still half a point ahead. Playing the white side of a Zukerfort against Dr. Tartakower of Austria, Niemzowitsch drew a hard battle after sixty moves.

Marshall, the United States champion, drew a queen's gambit declined with Michell of England in fifty-four moves and remains tied for second place on even terms with Rubinstein of Poland and Reti of Czechoslovakia. Rubinstein, after declining a queen's gambit, drew with Gruenfeld of Austria in thirty-three moves. Reti, adopting Alekhine's defense, defeated Opocensky of Hungary by winning a piece and scoring in thirty-two moves, thereby making up for the game he lost to Torre of New York yesterday.

Torre, on the other hand, had his first taste of defeat in this tournament at the hands of Spielmann of Austria, who scored in a grueling contest which went to sixty-three moves. Torre, who selected the queen's pawn opening, found his defenses weakening when Spielmann sacrificed the exchange and broke through. This put back the New York State champion to sixth place, below Dr. Tartakower.

Janowski of France was in brilliant mood, and, playing the white side of a queen's pawn opening, vanquished Saemisch of Germany in twenty moves. Halda of Hungary won his game from Przeplorka of Poland in thirty-four moves, thanks to brilliant tactics in the middle game following a queen's gambit, which was declined by the Pole.

A battle royal took place between Sir George Thomas of England and Yates, predecessor as British champion. The Baronet played the queen's pawn opening, and a most stubborn fight ensued. This was the only game which was adjourned, fifty-eight moves having been recorded.

MALONEY LOSES ON FOUL.

Sharkey Wins After Being Down 5 Times in 8th, 2 in 9th.

BOSTON, June 5 (AP).—Jack Sharkey of Brighton won on a foul from Jimmy Maloney of South Boston in the ninth round of their ten-round bout here tonight. Maloney weighed 194 pounds and Sharkey 183.

After taking a severe beating for six rounds, Maloney cut loose in the seventh. In the eighth he knocked Sharkey to the canvas five times. The fifth time Sharkey stayed down for the count of nine.

Referee Johnny Brassill warned Maloney early in the fight against hitting low, and after the second of two knockdowns in the ninth he stopped the bout and declared Sharkey the winner.

MRS. FERRIE KEEPS TITLE.

TORONTO, Ontario, June 5 (AP).—For the second consecutive year Mrs. Gordon Ferrie of Hamilton won the Ontario ladies' golf championship by defeating Miss Ada MacKenzie here today, a stymie on the seventeenth giving the winner her margin of victory, which she retained by halving the eighteenth hole.

YANK ATTACK ROUTS THE BROWNS, 10-7

WANNINGER LEADS ASSAULT

Gets Double, Triple and Homer, and Gehrig Also Hits for Circuit—Two Singles for Ruth.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

It may have been the heat, or perhaps merely the humidity, but at any rate the St. Louis Browns curled up crisply before the Yankees at the Stadium yesterday. The final reckoning was 10 to 7.

A great deal of local water has flowed beneath the local bridges since the Yanks last won as easy a game as this. In fact, the ease with which they won was equaled only by the ease with which the Brownies lost. The boys from the Mound City will have to step along faster than this to make any considerable impression on the metropolitans.

Several thousand folks turned out under the erroneous impression that George Sisler, Ken Williams, Bill Jacobson and Leslie Joseph Bush would make it hot for the Yanks. Williams obliged with a couple of homers into the right field bleachers and a triple, but all the rest of the big slugging was turned in by the Gotham entry.

"Pee Wee" Wanninger, suddenly crazed by the heat, ran amuck and hit a double, a triple and a homer. Lou Gehrig, the handsome first baseman, also helped himself to a home run and a single. Ruth slapped forth two singles in a row, and Meusel, after singling, unveiled a three-bagger which caused wide comment. Earl Combs, with a two-bagger and two singles, also had nothing to be ashamed of.

Williams Displays Wisdom.

These deeds are mentioned merely to show how foolish ball players will sometimes act. Here it was the hottest day of the current Summer, yet the lads galloped their heads off around the bases just for the sake of raising a fine perspiration. Williams was smart enough to sink his swats into the bleachers, but Wanninger and Gehrig ran themselves ragged on drives inside the enclosure.

The case of Wanninger is puzzling even to his closest friends. Heretofore Paul's idea of a long hit has been a single which reached the outfielder on the first bounce. But in the second inning, without any suitable warning, he whipped a lengthy triple over Rice's head in right centre. In the next round he poked a speedy homer down the same thoroughfare and in the fifth he slashed a two-bagger down the first base foul line. His collection lacked only a single, but, coming up again in the sixth, he popped a foul to the catcher.

Urban Shocker faced Milton Gaston at the start. These two gentlemen figured prominently in a certain trade last Winter. They are not exactly blood enemies, but each one was trying to show what a terrible mistake was made when he was traded. Gaston is still trying, for he was kind of unceremoniously from his moorings in the third when the Yanks piled up six runs.

Milton's successor was Joe Giard, another of the chattels in the Shocker-Bush-Gaston swap. Joseph was rapped ruggedly in the same third and at intervals thereafter.

Shocker, too, had to vacate in something of a hurry. A bounding shot from Robertson's bat clipped his pitching digits in the eighth and bumped up a valuable knuckle. Combined with the excessive warmth this forced Urban to decamp with two out in the same frame. Waite Hoyt was the official rescuer.

Yanks Score Early.

Singles by Combs, Ruth and Meusel, with two out, accounted for a run in the first, and a walk to Shocker and Wanninger's triple did similar service in the second.

Bedlam broke loose all over the place in the third. Following a pass to Combs, Ruth singled to right, and both bounced home on Meusel's triple to centre. Gehrig rammed a single to right, sending Meusel in and Gaston out.

Bernie Schochon greeted Giard with a sacrifice and Bengough popped out. Shocker was again walked, and Slugger Wanninger brought the parboiled fans to their feet with his circuit drive to the fence, pushing Gehrig and Shocker in ahead of him.

Doubles by Wanninger and Combs made it 9 for the Yanks in the fifth. Gehrig lambasted a homer to left centre in the sixth for an even 10.

The first Williams homer was the first St. Louis tally—in the fourth. Sisler singled in the sixth, Williams tripled an McManus doubled for two more.

With Robertson on first in the eighth, Williams up and soaked another one into the sun seats. When McManus singled and Jacobson strolled, Shocker took the air. Off Hoyt the Browns made a pair of markers in the ninth that were interesting, but not vitally important.

ATHLETICS DEFEAT THE TIGERS, 8 TO 6

Simmons Fails to Get Hit After Making One or More in 23 Straight.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—The Philadelphia Athletics won a free-hitting game from Detroit on the Tigers' first local appearance of the season here today by a score of 8 to 6. Groves hurled excellent relief ball until he grew wild in the ninth and was yanked.

Woodall was put out of the game by Umpire Ormsby for arguing decisions on balls and strikes.

Al Simmons, the Athletics' centre-fielder, failed to get a hit in the game. Up to today he had one or more hits in twenty-three consecutive games.

RED SOX WIN IN NINTH, 5-4.

Flagstead's Single With the Bases Full Defeats Indians.

BOSTON, June 5 (AP).—Pinch Hitter Ira Flagstead's single in the ninth with the bases full scored two runs and enabled the Boston Red Sox to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 4, today in the first game of the Western invasion. Pitcher Benny Karr's home run into the right-field bleachers put the Indians ahead in the first half of the inning.

SNYDER'S 2 HOMERS MAKE 6 GIANT RUNS

Drives in Groh and Jackson Twice as the Cardinals Are Laid Low by 11 to 5.

SCOTT FIRM AS RUNS LOOM

Pitcher Rhem the Fifth Casualty of Series When Ball Hits Him on Shin.

By HARRY CROSS.
Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 5.—Frank Snyder's bat proded the Giants to an 11 to 5 victory over the Cardinals here today. Pancho, with two home runs into the right field bleachers, produced half a dozen of the runs which the Giants hung on the scoreboard.

His first circuit tap came in the fifth and shoved Groh and Jackson home ahead of him. The second belt into the sun seats in the eighth shoved the same Groh and Jackson over the pan again.

The violence and productiveness of the New York attack offset a handicap of loose fielding by the upset Giant infield. Groh, still limping a bit with his injured knee, played at third, starting a game for the first time since the opening of the season in Boston. In the last inning, a new candidate made his appearance in Mickey Devine, the catcher who is being groomed for infield duty.

Jack Scott was nicked for numerous hits, but he was boss of the Cardinal attacks when threatening. In the eighth and ninth Hornsby's players tried hard to put over rallies, but the best they could do was a run in each of the last two chapters.

Rhem Hit on Right Shin.

There was another casualty in today's tray. In the sixth inning, a hard drive from Bill Terry's bat hit pitcher Flint Rhem on the right shin bone and he had to be carried from the field. It was believed tonight that the bone was broken and that Rhem, one of the most promising of the Card recruits, will be out of the game for some time.

Rhem was as wild as a Zulu in the second. Groh singled to right and Jackson walked. After Snyder skied to Black, Groh scooted to third. Rhem had no idea whether the locality of the plate and Scott ambled crowding the corners. Hornsby went over to the box and went to all the pains of showing Rhem where the plate was. You'd think Flint would profit from that advice, but it didn't seem to him a bit of good. He walked Southworth and forced Groh home with a philanthropic run. Young hoisted a sacrifice fly to Jack Smith in deep centre, Jackson scoring after Smithy had made a wonderful one-handed catch. Rhem seemed to be on the skids but he buckled down and fanned the dangerous Bill Terry.

Cardinals Even the Count.

The cards came up on even terms with the Giants in the third. Rhem got an infield single to Jackson and the pitcher went to third on Blade's safe tap to left. Smith forced Blades at second and Kelly made a wild throw to first to make a double play, Rhem scoring, while Smith went to second.

Manager Hornsby sliced to right, a high fly falling unmolested between Young and Kelly. Young threw to third to cut off Smith. It was a low throw and Smith kept right on home. Jackson made a wild toss to the plate, Smith arriving while a run, Hornsby nodded right along to third. Bottomley fanned and O'Farrel hoisted to Young to end the session.

Pancho Snyder broke the tie in the fifth, with two out of the way. Groh got his third single of the matinee. Heinie went to third on Jackson's double to left and Synder gave them both a free ride home when he soaked a homer into the right field steerage, bringing New York's harvest of the units up to five.

Engrave one more for the Cards in the same spasm. Blades was safe on Groh's juggle and Smith lifted to South. Hornsby's single to centre shoved Blades to third and he scored on Bottomley's sacrifice fly to Meusel.

Fifth Casualty of Series

After Young walked in sixth and Terry hit a terrific bouncer at Rhem. The ball hit the pitcher on the right shin bone so hard that Rhem collapsed and had to be carried from the field. This is the fifth player who has been hurt in this series. Duster Mails, who has been a cripple for a month took Rhem's place on the mound.

Bottomley made a great one-handed grab of Kelly's foul fly, Young going to third after the grab. Meusel's single to right sent Young home and Terry to third. As Groh fanned, Meusel stole second. Jackson streaked a two-bagger to left which had the immediate effect of influencing Terry and Meusel over the platter. Mails tossed Snyder out to terminate the New York jollification.

The ire of St. Looey fans was ignited against Umpire Pete McLaughlin in the seventh on a ball thrown to Terry. It was a passed ball advancing two Giant runners. Duster Mails maintained it was a foul tip. Mac said it wasn't. The crowd was with Mails and among the things McLaughlin was addressed as were robber, thief, rogue, bandit and highwayman.

One fan remarked cheerfully "we're a tough bunch here in St. Louis," as if he was proud of the sentiment expressed.

The grand stands here are thickly populated with folks who consider themselves good umpires. It would be easy to recruit a whole staff from any row of seats.

Groh has a torn fingernail already and he hasn't played two full games yet.

Pickups and Putouts

Bill Dinneen covered a lot of ground umpiring at third base. He stood first on one foot and then on the other.

Ruth went eight full innings, his longest stretch thus far. His hitting was sharply clean, but he is still a feeble citizen on the base lines. The hot spell has taken much from his slim supply of strength.

Twelve Yankees went to bat in the third and six hit safely. When Girard finally extinguished the blaze the bases were full and Meusel was at the plate.

Meusel is in a bad slump. He hasn't hit a homer in two days.

First appearances may be deceitful, but it looks as if George Sisler will have his troubles keeping out of the second division this year.

It did Shocker no good at all to run twice from first to home in high. Urban hired out as a pitcher and not as a middle-distance runner.

The Browns will amuse again today.

SENATORS' 4 IN 7TH BEAT WHITE SOX, 5-3

Cvengros's Wildness Paves Way for Champions' Victory—Marberry in Rescue Role.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox today, 5 to 3, when Cvengros, after pitching on even terms with Coveleskie for six innings, developed a wild streak in the seventh that paved the way to four runs for the champions. Marberry came to Coveleskie's rescue in the eighth to shut off a Chicago rally that netted two runs.

Quatrain Loses First Race in the East

QUATRAIN IS BEATEN AT BELMONT PARK

Disappoints in Eastern Debut by Running Third in Ben Brush Handicap.

SANDE'S RIDE IS FUTILE

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Frederick Johnson's Omar Khayyam colt Quatrain failed to impress followers of racing hereabouts when he made his Eastern début at Belmont Park yesterday afternoon in the Ben Brush Handicap for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and a sixteenth. He ran third to the Belair Stud's Marconi and Gifford A. Cochran's Dangerous, who finished in that order.

Quatrain carried top weight of 122 pounds, giving fifteen to Marconi and seven to Dangerous. The race was run in the fast time of 1:43 flat. Sande had the mount on the winner of the New Orleans Handicap and the Louisiana Derby and gave his best efforts, but Quatrain lacked speed and was more than ten lengths back of the winner at the finish.

A large crowd braved the intense heat to catch a glimpse of the crack colt which went to the post the favorite for the Kentucky Derby and made him the 3-to-2 favorite in a field of five. Fortunately there was a light breeze which made the afternoon at least bearable, but followers of favorites had an unpleasant time, only one finishing in front.

Racing men who saw Quatrain perform last Winter at New Orleans were of the opinion that he is not up to the form he displayed in his winning performances there, while others are strongly inclined to believe that the Johnson colt has been decidedly overrated. While he broke well in third position and Sande gave him a hard ride to move up to second place on the turn the colt could not match Marconi's well-sustained speed and easily succumbed to the closing rush of Dangerous.

Marconi, also a son of Omar Khayyam—both colts having been bred at William Woodward's Belair Stud—was an outsider in the Ben Brush. He opened at 6 to 1 and was neglected by the talent, going to 10 to 1 and remaining at that figure until the horses went to the post. Dangerous and F. M. Kelly's Feysun were equal second choices at 3 to 1.

Sweeping Away had the post position on the rail, with Dangerous next, Quatrain in the middle, Feysun fourth and Marconi on the outside. The field was away well together, with Feysun first to break. Marconi showed great improvement over his last performance and soon raced into the lead, followed by Feysun, Quatrain, Dangerous and Sweeping Away.

Down the backstretch Marconi opened a lead of three lengths. Feysun hung on well for a time and then dropped back gradually to finish next to last. Sande made his move with Quatrain half way round the turn and moved into second place as Feysun weakened. Marconi meantime had increased his lead to five lengths.

Dangerous was the last to get away when the barrier rose and trailed the field to the top of the stretch. There Clarence Kummer got him going and he came with a great rush, easily disposing of Quatrain and going after Marconi. Stevens did not have to ride his mount out, however, and won easily by half a length, Dangerous being ten lengths in front of Quatrain.

The fractional times of the race were: 0:24, 0:48, 1:12, 1:38, 1:43. Stevens showed keen judgment of pace in rating Marconi in front. The first, second and third quarters were all run in 0:24 flat. The fourth quarter was run two seconds slower, but Stevens had such a commanding lead that he was able to ease his mount and still have a safe margin.

The biggest field that has run in a handicap during the meeting went to the post in the Garden City, fourteen accepting the levée. It proved an easy victory for the Lilane Stable's Sun Altos, which closed fast in the stretch and drew away to beat Mrs. A. Davis's Washington by four lengths. Pep to Peep, the 4-to-1 favorite, was third.

Edith Cavell may be a first-class filly. The bay daughter of Man o' War and The Nurse beat eight other smart two-year-old fillies in the race for the Amaryllis Purse over the five-furlong course.

It was the second straight victory for Edith Cavell. McDermott again showed his class as a rider by breaking the filly fast away from the barrier. He took her to the front and she stayed there to the end, finishing a length in front of Mrs. K. E. Hitt's What'll I Do.

Suzuki Forfeits Cue Match.

Two matches were played yesterday afternoon and evening at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy in the round robin three-cushion billiard tourney in progress there. In the afternoon James Maturo defeated Albert Cutler, 50 to 28, in fifty-eight innings and in the evening K. Suzuki forfeited to Eric Hagenlacher in the sixty-first inning of their match after a dispute over a shot.

TWO COSTLY INNINGS LOSE FOR COLUMBIA

Holy Cross Piles Up 5 Runs in First and 3 in Eighth to Win, 8 to 1.

WARM RECEPTION FOR FITCH

Blue and White Hurler Lasts Only One Frame—Horton and Walsh Star in the Field.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5.—Coach Andy Coakley's Columbia ball team had two bad innings here today, which were enough to give Holy Cross an 8 to 1 victory. Fitch, who started on the mound for Columbia, lasted just one inning, the Purple sluggers registering five runs on five hits and one error. A nice double play saved more trouble for Fitch.

In the eighth inning the Purple attack opened up again and three more runs were sent over on two singles, a triple and an error.

Columbia scored its lone tally in the opening frame. Kennedy flied out. Horton singled over second and went to second on Trentacosti's clean hit. Horton took a big lead, stole third and scored a moment later when Walsh threw out Zegri at first.

Horton, in centre field for the Blue and White, put up a stellar game, while Walsh, at third, also turned in some fast fielding, cutting off several Columbia hits.

Post and Paddock

The coolest spot at Belmont Park these days is in President Widener's pet lobby under the enclosure stand, where the breezes blow, the Hawaiian orchestra beguiles and the ladies' soda fountain is a compelling magnet.

Quatrain is not likely to have many friends for the Belmont Stakes a week from today. Neither Marconi nor Dangerous, which finished far in front of the Johnson colt, has been considered in the first flight of the three-year-olds hereabouts.

Man o' War's sons and daughters continue to score. American Flag and Florence Nightingale are candidates for the three-year-old honors for the colts and fillies. Edith Cavell should make another fine mare for Mr. Jeffords's stud when her racing days are over.

More than a quarter of the card was scratched out, there being twenty-one scratches out of seventy-nine entries.

The boys on the lawn had a hot but profitable day.

There were two claims in the opener. A. Segnet taking Westover for $2,000 and A. J. Both getting Skirmish for $3,000.

The protest flag was run up over the finish board after the running of the first race. Seguin, rider of Joella J., which finished second, filed a claim of foul against Lady Audrey, the winner, but it was not allowed.

The Westchester management has prepared for a tremendous crowd for Suburban Handicap day, which has the Corinthian Steeplechase Handicap and the Freeport Handicap as added attractions.

PLAY CLOSE TENNIS IN FINAL AT RYE

Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Bailey Beat Misses Sherwood and Martin at 6-4, 6-4.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., June 5.—Mrs. William H. Pritchard and Mrs. John E. Bailey of New York, winner and runner-up, respectively, in the singles of the lawn tennis tournament at the Apawamis Club, won the doubles here today. In the final round they defeated Miss Agnes Sherwood and Miss Marie Martin after two close sets at 6—4, 6—4. Earlier in the day the losing pair had defeated Miss Margaret Wainwright and Miss Maud Pool at 6—4, 6—1.

The final round was splendidly played on both sides of the net. The greater steadiness of Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Bailey brought them through the winner in each set. Miss Sherwood and Miss Martin were the more aggressive and took the net frequently. Miss Sherwood, in particular, excelled within the service court, volleying with steadiness and finality. Miss Martin did not go forward as much as did her partner. Perhaps had she taken a position at the net when her partner did, instead of playing back, the outcome might have been different.

Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Bailey managed to pass Miss Sherwood frequently, driving across court at sharp angles or sticking the ball down the side lines. Miss Martin made a determined effort to back her partner up, but could not get to the ball quick enough.

FEDERAL POLICE COURTS.

In his address before the State Bar Association of Georgia yesterday United States District Attorney BUCKNER of this city again drew a picture of the break-down of the administration of Federal criminal law. It is the old story of a machine incapable of doing the work set for it. The calendars are crowded and desperately in arrears. The Judges are overworked as well as underpaid. The prosecuting officials are at their wits' end to know how to single out cases that ought to be tried first and to secure the conviction of criminals before all witnesses have disappeared or died. District Attorney BUCKNER at once makes an effective disclosure of the evil and utters a plea for its remedy.

The chief source of the confusion and delay in the administration of justice by the Federal courts is not concealed. The criminal jurisdiction of the Federal Government has been enormously extended. It is customary to speak of the enforcement of prohibition as the main cause of congestion in the Federal courts. It is, indeed, responsible for a good deal of it; but it does not tell the whole story. There are now Federal offenses under the Immigration law, the Pure Food law, the Narcotic law, besides the whole list of prosecutions that have to be brought for violations of the statutes relating to the customs, navigation, banking and the postal service, together with all the varied forms of lawbreaking that can be given an interstate complexion. It is hardly strange that under the weight of all these burdens the existing machinery has ceased to function well.

One trouble is that the Federal District Courts are called upon to deal with a vast range of misdemeanors that do not really rise above the competence of a police court. Upon this admitted fact Mr. BUCKNER seizes in order to present an argument for the establishment of inferior Federal courts for the trial of minor offenses. He would have additional tribunals erected with something like the powers of the Magistrates' Courts in this city or the Courts of Special Sessions. They can try misdemeanors under the State law without the formality of an indictment or the empaneling of a jury. Mr. BUCKNER's contention is that if we had Federal courts of such limited jurisdiction the crowded calendars could be swiftly cleared up, while the Judges of the District Courts would be left free to deal with the more important cases, instead of being overwhelmed, as they now are, by the multiplicity of petty trials. Another reform which District Attorney BUCKNER urges is a further assimilation by the Federal practice to that of this State by abolishing the right of being out on bail after conviction and while an appeal is pending, unless the accused can get from a competent Judge a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Whether these changes in the administration of the Federal criminal law can be got without a constitutional amendment Mr. BUCKNER admits may be doubtful. But what is still more doubtful is the willingness of Congress to act on these or other projects for making the administration of justice in this country more speedy and certain. We know that it has been appealed to time and again in vain. Bar associations, law reformers, the Judges of the highest courts, have repeatedly laid before Congress the need of action and have drawn and recommended appropriate bills, but little or nothing has been done. It is true that the last session of Congress agreed to one proposal for improving judicial procedure in cases of appeal in the Federal courts, but to other measures, even those endorsed by the Supreme Court and earnestly advocated by Chief Justice TAFT, it turned a deaf ear.

How long these unhappy conditions will continue no man can say, unless he can also say when sufficient public interest will be aroused in this vital matter to bring effective pressure upon the State Legislatures and upon the National Congress. It is not necessary to labor the importance of such reforms. Every thinking man whose attention has been called to them is convinced of their urgency. The evils which they would end are already having serious political consequences and disturbing social effects. To make American justice swift and certain is an object to which the thought and energy of much greater numbers of our citizens ought to be steadily devoted.

HOT SPELLS.

Two of Health Commissioner MONAGHAN'S "don'ts" in the torrid spell prove he has a sense of humor: "Don't fail to sleep with the windows open" and "Don't fail to get eight hours' sleep every night." No one sleeps eight hours and there are not enough windows to open in any house. In every household the least useful instrument is the thermometer, the indispensable one is the electric fan. Dr. MONAGHAN says: "Don't wear heavy clothing." He doesn't go far enough. Also, he urges everybody not to overwork. He omits to tell the overheated to move up to the Maine coast. There it is never full-orbed Summer. From Seguin Island to Jim's Head every shady nook can be used as a refrigerator.

The best corrective for complaining about the present heat-and-humidity visitation is to realize that it is not so bad, after all, when comparisons are made with other years. In 1894 there were nearly eight weeks, beginning with June 9 and ending July 31, when the maximum temperature was very high except on five or six days. There were nearly fifty days when the weather was mercilessly hot, just such weather as New York has had this week. A break never lasted more than two days. In the week ending Aug. 15 of 1896 no fewer than 651 persons died of heat prostration. On Thursday and Friday the totals were 168 and 160. That was twenty-nine years ago. In the year of the Spanish War, 1898, there was excessively and long-lasting hot weather in July and August. In recent years New York has known Summer days of high temperatures, but usually a thunderstorm has soon brought relief. The climate is not changing. That is shown by records running back for a century.

There will be other Summers like that of 1894, but it doesn't follow that 1925 is to be one of them. After a hot June a fairly cool July may be expected. Within a comparatively few years there has been a Fourth of July night when people wore sweaters and slept under blankets. All of us are our own dietitians now and we know what to wear and what not to do in a hot spell. The Summer death rate among children is a great deal lower than was the case thirty years ago. A hot wave may hang on for a month, but familiarity with it would breed confidence in our powers of resistance.

MYTH OF THE GENERAL STRIKE.

British labor, speaking through the representatives of the eight largest trade unions, has put a quietus on the proposal to revive the Triple Alliance of a few years ago in improved and magnified form for the purpose of overawing capital and the Government. The general strike fiasco of 1921 is still remembered. It is supplemented by the vivid object-lesson in Russia. In that country capital has been so thoroughly "overawed" that unemployment amounts to 20 per cent. of the total membership of the trade unions, as against 11 per cent. in hard-beset Great Britain. Once more British labor has shown that when it comes to matters at home it can be much more sober than when playing with the ideas of labor revolution in another country. It seems to be the policy of the responsible leaders in Great Britain to allow ultra-radical sentiment to expend itself in various forms of sympathy for the Soviet Government and its various agencies. When the Red method is suggested for domestic consumption the saner men put their foot down.

The new One Big Union movement in Great Britain was the reply of the militants to STANLEY BALDWIN'S recent plea for a policy of understanding and cooperation between capital and labor. The majority of British workingmen have now shown their willingness to give the Baldwin idea a fair trial, as against the war-to-the-knife labor strategy. The engineering workers, who have been ardently wooed by the promoters of the new grand alliance, prefer to continue their direct negotiations with the Prime Minister. They proceed on the theory laid down by RAMSAY MACDONALD when he came into power last year that the surest way to improve the condition of labor is to encourage the revival of business and industry. The engineers' demands take the form of urging public works to be undertaken immediately for the purpose of reducing unemployment—a policy to which Mr. BALDWIN committed himself during his first term in office and with which he has recently expressed his continued sympathy.

It is only the fanatical doctrinaires of labor who continue to cling to the myth of the general strike. Even before the World War experience had shown that every such attempt is doomed to failure. A general labor strike is a strike, not against an employer or an employing class, but against a nation; and invariably it calls forth a nation-wide mobilization of protest which dooms the strike to defeat. There is only one country in which the general strike has been practiced with success and that is Czarist Russia. The Russian Constitution of 1905 was extorted from NICHOLAS II by a general strike. When merchants refuse to trade, doctors refuse to practice, judges descend from the bench, and the entire life of a nation is paralyzed, you have indeed a general strike. But that is not the class war which the labor extremists have in mind.

GERMAN DISARMAMENT.

The allied note to Germany setting forth the specific charges of failure to comply with the disarmament clauses of the Versailles Treaty confirms the impression that the delay in evacuating Cologne was due to political reasons. The report of the allied representatives has been held back for many months. When, last January, the decision was announced that the British troops would not withdraw from the Cologne area on the date provided for in the treaty, it was obvious that the real reason for this was not so much the failure of the Germans to disarm completely as the difficulties which might arise if the British left Cologne while the French were still in the Ruhr.

By the new note the intention of the Allies to evacuate the occupied territories is reaffirmed, but withdrawal is conditioned upon Germany's rectifying numerous violations of the disarmament clauses of the treaty. The last soldiers are not expected to leave the Ruhr until September, so that there is little reason to expect that Cologne will be evacuated much before that time. This gives the Germans three months in which to carry out the demands of the present note. These include reducing the police force from 180,000 to 150,000 men and cutting the army to 100,000 fighting men. That there have been numerous violations of the disarmament clauses has, of course, long been known. The German Minister of Defense GESSLER admitted this publicly only ten days ago. In the Reichstag recently bitter attacks have been made by Socialists and Communists charging that the budgetary items for defense are far in excess of authorized needs.

Control of German disarmament is necessarily difficult. Mere adherence to conditions laid down six years ago does not necessarily imply that Germany is effectively disarmed. It is easy enough to maintain more trained men than paper records show. Yet it does not follow that a few thousand men in excess, or a few hundred thousand rounds of ammunition more than allowed, make Germany a real menace to her neighbors. In so far as the letter of the treaty is concerned, these constitute, of course, a violation. But there may be much more danger in the development of gas warfare or in aviation.

The mere fact that Germany is not a present danger is no reason, however, for not demanding full compliance with the treaty terms. But neither in Germany nor outside should there be surprise or dismay because failure to disarm is now formally linked with the evacuation of Cologne. Doubtless by the time Germany has complied with the request of the Allies, they will be ready to withdraw from the areas which would normally have been evacuated last Winter.

SHARING ONE'S GARDEN.

Those who come daily from suburban homes with gardens into the floweriess and all but treeless streets of this city have an opportunity to make tenement homes and hospitals brighter. The way to do this has been made easy. If one had one's self to seek out the tenement or the hospital ward that most needed a handful of flowers, he might have to spend a considerable part of the day in locating it; but there is a distributing agency—a rather prosaic name for an organization of a personal and highly poetic service known as the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild—which sees to it that the flower, whose beauty would perhaps be wasted in the morning's profusion of blossoms in a private garden in Westchester or Connecticut or Long Island or New Jersey, is before noon giving of its beauty and fragrance to some tenement "shut-in," or some child in a hospital, or some old man or woman in an institution. To them not only are marigolds, but all flowers as well, of "a cheerful hue."

All that is asked of the commuter is to leave the flowers at the booth in the terminal station. The Guild will do the rest. Booths for the reception of flowers have already been placed in the Grand Central Station, the Long Island-Pennsylvania Station and the Erie Station, and it is expected that they will soon be placed in the Lackawanna Station at Hoboken and the Long Island Station in Brooklyn. Flowers carried from suburban gardens to the city should come to be a mark of distinction for the bearer, a decoration during transit and a dividend at the end of the journey. It may be said of what is expressed in the flower, as has been said of the wisdom "obtained by labor and for mankind employed," that it is

When most you share it, best enjoyed.

FATHER'S DAY.

It appears that Father has not lost his Day, after all. Yet he has passed through one of those crises that, as the French say, give one to think furiously. Certain women's clubs, aided by trade organizations interested in necktles, set out to honor him on June 21. But other organizations, interested in tobacco, jumped in and set the great day for June 14. The Federal Trade Commission being at odds with itself on questions of corrupt business practice, no authoritative decision could be had in time. The women's clubs were apprehensive lest the whole Father's Day movement be jeopardized. But we were left in doubt whether they apprehend that Father will have to be loved, honored and possibly obeyed three hundred and sixty-five days or not at all.

Father remained calm. He knew that no one would or could buy him the new midiron or spoon he coveted, and his neck was already sufficiently encircled with the ties of love, thanks to Christmas and birthdays. If he had any emotion, it was relief at the thought of what the tobacconists might have done to him. On either June 14 or June 21, or both, he was prepared to pull a long face and gravely smile as one accustomed to the badge of sufferance, confident his great secret was safe. It is this—though very few will believe it of him: Having no talent for the fribbles and frabbles and furbelows with which Mother signalizes well-being, he slips snugly into the attitude of downtrodden male and goes along having his own best way. There is no hope of exposing him. Mother can never understand. The pious and elevated affection with which he regards his drab and bedraggled golf breeches she reads as a dreary personal economy and so loses sight of the sums he spends on club and caddies. Even so, a local millionaire used to declare that the greatest luxury his money had brought was the ability to have suspenders for both pairs of trousers, and thus he managed to maintain a reputation for Jeffersonian simplicity amid all his yachts and racing stables.

Every day is Father's Day, even in this present season of trial. Mother has fled to alien surroundings. Forsaken and forlorn as Father is, he yet knows where the choicest cuts are to be had and the latest delicacies of the season. He knows where there are swimming tanks. Or if he prefers his own shower, the water spouts cool from the Catskills and has not been sun-baked for days in a lofty hotel tank. Especially Father knows all about his own icebox. Perhaps it wasn't corrupt business practice, what the cigar men tried to do to the necktie men, being rather a conspiracy in restraint of trade, conceived in the interest of the masculine monopoly of happiness. Anyway, they have repented and come to an amicable agreement with necktie men and women's clubs. Father's Day is set for June 21.

Father, as an incident to the delights of Summer in the city, is schooling himself to thoughts of gratitude for those neckties and cigars.

GOLF TRIUMPHANT.

Even in losing his long and grueling struggle in the Open Championship, "BOBBY" JONES has made his reputation secure as the greatest golfer that ever appeared in the United States. No one else has so long and so consistently stood so near the head of all the best players in the country. The professional who beats him one year is far down the list the next, but JONES is always either first or second. Full credit must be given MACFARLANE, who held on with Scotch dourness and wonderful skill against the fire and brilliance of his youthful opponent. But it is not too much to say that popular opinion will, under the circumstances, award the greater glory to Mr. JONES. Getting off to a bad start on Wednesday, he held himself in hand, exhibited his mastery of his temper as well as of the game, and climbed steadily back to the top, only to lose after 108 holes by a single stroke. Incidentally, the absorbed attention with which the public has followed this historic contest is a striking witness to the immense hold which golf now has upon the American public.

A USEFUL DEAN.

Princeton is losing from her Faculty one of its most capable teachers and vigorous administrators by the resignation of Dean HOWARD MCCLENAHAN. A son of Princeton, he has given twenty-seven years of his life to her service. As a student, he was one of the group that was responsible for setting up the honor system at Princeton over thirty years ago. Still in vogue there, it has also laid the foundation for a successful plan of student self-government. As a teacher of physics, Professor MCCLENAHAN illustrated in his own requirements the exactions of that science. The kindliest and most sympathetic of men, he was yet unflinching and uncompromising in dealing with shortcomings or evasions. It was under his leadership that Princeton took a foremost and what to some seemed an extreme position in promotion of clean sport in intercollegiate contests. What was done was wholly voluntary on Princeton's part, but had a wholesome effect on other institutions.

It is a satisfaction that he is receiving high recognition in his own field of science. His choice as executive head of the Franklin Institute, which last year celebrated its centenary and has recently received a bequest of $2,000,000 for carrying on research in the sciences, not only gives him such recognition but opens up to him an unusual scientific opportunity. Yet it is regrettable that such a man must be lost to American college life, which needs more men of his type, especially in dealing with the problems of athletics as related to intellectual training.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Regrets Will Be Many and Sincere.

With this week's issue of The Villager, that estimable publication does what the radio announcers call "signing off," but does it forever, not for the day. The determination of the editors—for Mr. STRAUSS allows Miss PARSONS, who, with himself, has formed The Villager's whole writing staff, to join her name to his as signature under the farewell article—to cease the journalistic activities which they have carried on together in peaceful Katonah will be regretted sincerely by readers. They have been but a small group, as "circulations" go in these days, but they have liked to consider themselves rather notably fit, claiming no superiorities to their neighbors, of course, and yet feeling worthy to be addressed as intelligent human beings, interested in the larger subjects and issues of the day and appreciative when they were discussed, as The Villager always has discussed them, fairly, reasonably, with due regard for facts, and with the ability to see deeper than most commentators below the surface of things.

Never a one, probably, of The Villager's readers agreed with all it has had to say, but many a time and oft they were able to do it with gratitude and enthusiasm; and on the fewer occasions when they could not, they yet had to admit that the "other side" had been put honestly and as effectively as it could be by anybody.

One admirer of The Villager described its articles as sounding as if written by one of the Minor Prophets. But prophets, minor or major, rarely have spoken with such good temper, with as little assumption of infallibility, and with as much regard for the opinions and feelings of other people, including the sinners, as invariably has been The Villager's wont.

What it has accomplished in the eight years of its existence nobody could tell, and its editor probably least of all. It must have tended, so far as it accomplished anything, to make the world at least a little wiser, and therefore a little better, but The Villager never has expressed warm sympathy for reformers and in many of them has seen only impudence and conceit, so it would not like to get praise along that line.

The world has changed in several ways since The Villager started, but the changes had other causes than this small paper.

But He Did Promote One "Cause."

Why The Villager stops publication is not very clearly explained in its valedictory. Its editor says that he had come to find himself not writing with 100 per cent. efficiency and that present-day subjects need for the making up of minds on them more than a week. The second of these reasons would prompt turning the paper into a biweekly or a monthly, and the first one must have referred to what seemed to the editor failure to attain his own ideal; certainly his readers have noticed no deterioration in his shrewdness, his wit or his learning.

He seems proud of never having promoted a cause—of never having had a cause to promote. Nonsense! He never writes an article without having at heart the promotion of sweet reasonableness, the substitution of accurate for mistaken observation, of logic for its opposite. They were short-sighted and dim-sighted who wrote to him asking what other "object" he was trying to attain. His English subscribers understood his motives better than have the Americans, he says, but in that he probably is mistaken.

He asks no credit for having kept The Villager free from advertisements, declaring that not to be a virtue, and hinting that the abstention was at least partly enforced by the inability of such a paper to get enough advertising to be worth consideration. Incidentally, he denies that the advertisements control any newspapers or magazines. "It is not the writing of editorials which advertising vitally affects. It is the reading of them." In other words, the readers of advertisements often think they see their influence on the editorial page when it really is not there and the suspicion then is self-revelation rather than accusation.

And so Mr. STRAUSS puts a big "30" on the last page of his copy. That is because in other days he knew compositors and telegraphers, and for the enlightening of other people he says that "30" means "no more to come." In this instance it is a symbol producing regret in all who see it. For The Villager has been good from start to finish—it has helped, not hindered, all into whose hands it came.

They Heard and Then Did Nothing.

One of THE TIMES's readers writes in to say that he has been impatient to see in its columns comments on the fact that, though several persons heard a woman's scream the night the Kane girl was killed, not one of them made any attempt to find out what was causing her cries. They all "just looked out of the window and let it go at that."

This correspondent then adds:

I know the city dweller's impulse to "get away from it" when there is trouble in public places. No one wants to "see" anything which may implicate him as a witness or as a possible suspect in police eyes, but, after all, it is hard indeed to understand how any one can hear a woman scream for help and not at least discover for himself what it is all about before deciding that it is none of his affair.

How much of this attitude is directly traceable to the Sullivan law and just to what extent, under present conditions of civilization, is the "safety first" attitude toward other people's troubles justified?

Most of the people who ought to know, and the police everywhere, think it desirable to keep pistols in the fewest possible number of hands, partly because they are almost always useless in an emergency to the good citizen, and partly because any licensing system is hard to administer and sure to be abused.

As for the doctrine of "safety first," that certainly has been preached too much of recent years. It often is made the excuse for cowardice and a brutal indifference to the rights and safeties of others. The police, nowadays, are expected to do all the fighting for us and to run all the risks that possibly can be transferred to them. They do their best in both directions, but it really is a dreadful thing when "the instinct of self-preservation" prevents those who hear a woman screaming in mortal agony and fear from going to her assistance.

His Story Soon Disproved.

As was expected by almost everybody familiar with the Coughlin kidnapping case, it took only a little investigation to reveal that the poor baby died five years ago, just as the abductor, after a hundred lies, at last revealed, and that the living child thought or suspected to be he was of wholly different parentage.

Of the many stories of his crime told by PASQUALE—Miss MAYO, after her careful investigation of the affair, decided that his name, or one of his names, was "PASCAL"—all broke down except one. That one—that he accidentally and unintentionally smothered the child under his coat while escaping from the house and across the fields, and that on finding it dead he tied the body to a piece of iron and threw it into the Schuylkill River—could not be proved in all its details, but the strongest kind of circumstantial evidence supported it. Plausible and in every way "in character," it was accepted then, and it has stood firmly ever since until PASCAL, in a desperate exercise of ingenuity to secure release from his life sentence, devised the new yarn of an ex-sweetheart whom he had "saved."

This tale seems to have won temporary credence from members of the Pennsylvania State Police who had not worked on the case five years ago, but the men who caught PASCAL and were present at his trial rejected it from the beginning.

REVOLT OF THE "UNFIT."

Some Comments on Dr. Butler's Commencement Address.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in his very able commencement address at Columbia, is reported in THE TIMES to have said the following:

"The condition in which we now find ourselves is due to what I once ventured to describe as the revolt of the unfit—if in these persecuting days one may venture to use even the language of the proscribed doctrine of evolution. In more modern terms, it is due to the inferiority complex. The revolt of the unfit primarily takes the form of an attempt to lessen and to limit competition, which is instinctively felt, and with reason, to be part of the struggle for existence and for success. The inferiority complex leads its victims to strive by brute force to establish conformity to type and to establish some quite irrational doctrine of thought or conduct."

Dr. Butler seems to have forgotten that there is no reason for worry over the "revolt of the unfit," for if those designated as "unfit" are really so they will not survive. The power of survival is the criterion by which we decide which are "fit" and which are "unfit."

If certain persons who would not survive in an individual contest succeed in winning by banding themselves together, they have thereby proved that they are "fit."

Mankind cannot win in individual battles with many of the stronger lower animals. Yet mankind to a pre-eminent degree possesses the power of cooperation, and is able to rule over other forms of life. One can imagine a meeting of lions, tigers and bears to protest against the revolt of the weak, "unfit" animal, man. "He," they would say, "is able to survive simply because he bands himself together, builds walled cities and eliminates our competition."

Let the so-called "unfit" revolt in the ways Dr. Butler has mentioned. If they succeed thereby in surviving, they have proved their "fitness." If they succeed in surviving, Dr. Butler will have to admit that those whom he thought were "unfit" are really "fit." They may not be exactly of the type that Dr. Butler would like, but he must admit that they are "fit." Man is not of the type that the tiger would like.

The President of a great university has many things about which to worry, but he should not fear concerning the survival of the unfit. The struggle for existence will take care of that, as it has for countless ages in the past.

Central Park Transverse.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Central Park transverse tunnels at Sixty-sixth Street, Seventy-ninth Street, Eighty-sixth Street and Ninety-seventh Street from Central Park West to Fifth Avenue are dangerous spots, not only for automobile riders but for pedestrians as well.

With street cars, buses, automobiles and trucks trying to go two ways through the narrow tunnels, there is always congestion and danger of accidents.

This is particularly true on rainy days and nights. Many times in riding through the tunnel in a taxicab my driver has run up on the narrow sidewalk in order to pass the car ahead. In some spots in the tunnels the sidewalks are so narrow that one person has difficulty in walking thereon.

It would be a very simple matter for the city to widen these tunnels by ten or twenty feet. Certainly the public using the vast territory of Central Park would not miss those few feet and it would be a boon to many thousands who use the transverse Central Park tunnels daily.

BRAVADO.

I scorn the women who, when lovers go,
Bemoan them, weeping—
I shall not do so!

I look upon them all in deep disdain
Who try to kiss dead love
To life again.

I—I will burn my body on a pyre
Before I stoop to blow
Love's blackened fire.

No, love for me shall be no drooping flower—
So, I would scorn to wear it
For an hour.

Always I watch you—watch that I may see
A sign that you are restless
To be free. . . .

It may be you will wonder why I send
You from my side—
You will not comprehend.

The fox of pain may gnaw my vitals while
I see you go—
Still I shall only smile.

I scorn the women who, when lovers go,
Bemoan them, weeping—
I shall not do so!

I may be like the rest,
My dear, my dear!

THE LOGAN LAW.

Actual Origin and Intent of the Old Statute.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I express dissent from the view of Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., who is reported to advocate criminal prosecution of American citizens who while abroad indulge in criticism of the foreign policy of their Government?

He and others appear to be filled with special indignation that a "prominent New York international banker" should have presumed to remark at a private luncheon in Paris and in the presence of the French Prime Minister that the views of American politicians are not always those of the nation, and that as regards the cancellation of allied debts they are not such in fact. Mr. Fish is reported to have expressed the opinion that such offenders are liable to criminal prosecution under the so-called Logan act approved Jan. 30, 1799.

As to the New York banker's reflection upon the politicians, it may not be improper to observe that such remarks as those attributed to him have never before been regarded as acts which constitute a sufficient ground for criminal prosecution. The late Lord Bryce stated not long before his death that he had never visited a country in which he was not warned shortly after his arrival that he must not judge the national sentiment by the opinions of the politicians. The important question is whether the citizen who publicly expresses an opinion on a controverted question of political policy, even though it is done in a foreign country, is within his constitutional rights or whether he may and should be criminally punished for it.

The Logan act was certainly never intended to forbid American citizens while abroad from privately or publicly discussing domestic political questions or from expressing their own opinions upon the merits or demerits of foreign policies upon which their countrymen were divided.

The circumstances which led to the passing of this act were briefly these: In 1798, following the breaking off of diplomatic relations between the United States and France, one Dr. George Logan, a wealthy Philadelphia Quaker, a Republican in politics and afterward United States Senator from Pennsylvania, supplied with letters from Jefferson and the Governor of Pennsylvania, went to France for the purpose of endeavoring to improve the relations between the two countries and if possible to prevent the outbreak of war.

To this end, he held interviews with Talleyrand and other members of the Directory and proposed the bases of a mutual understanding between the two countries. He was hailed by the French press as a messenger of peace and he brought back to America verbal assurances that France was ready to negotiate with the United States on a proper basis.

While his motives were recognized in this country to have been the most benevolent, his assumption of the rôle of unofficial negotiator greatly offended the Federalist Administration, at whose instance the act of Congress referred to was passed for the avowed purpose of rendering self-constituted diplomatic missions such as his illegal in the future.

The terms of the act merely forbid the carrying on of verbal or written correspondence with a foreign Government or agent thereof with a view to influencing the measures or conduct of such Government. Considering the character of the special situation which it was designed to meet, to say nothing of the plain language of the statute itself, it is hard to see how it could be interpreted to apply to public addresses of American citizens who in no way assume the rôle of negotiators or who enter into no correspondence or intercourse with the foreign Government or its representatives with the intention of influencing their conduct. It is still harder to see how such pronouncements could be regarded as "unlawful interference with negotiations being conducted by the United States with foreign powers."

Apropos of Mr. Fish's proposal to bring the matter of the enforcement of the Logan act before Congress, it may not be out of place to call his attention to a resolution passed by the House of Representatives on June 15, 1888, requesting the President to take such measures as should seem proper to secure the release from imprisonment of two Americans named Braeg and Costello, "convicted and sentenced in Great Britain for words spoken and acts done in this country."

This resolution was based upon the long-recognized American theory of territorial jurisdiction, under which acts done and words spoken in a foreign country fall within the jurisdiction of that country only. American theory and practice have always repudiated the Continental principle that the criminal jurisdiction is personal; that a criminal statute is tied, as it were, around the neck of the citizen who journeys abroad, and that in consequence he may be punished by his own Government for acts done in contravention of it while in a foreign country.

If Congress has power to extend the criminal jurisdiction of the Federal courts to public addresses pronounced by American citizens in foreign countries and to provide for the punishment of the authors thereof, it has, for a stronger reason, the power to forbid such addresses when made at home, and the achievement of the object sought to be accomplished by Mr. Fish and those who adopt his view may require less drastic procedure, since public addresses pronounced in this country by men of international prominence upon questions of foreign policy are likely to be published in the newspapers abroad.

The whole idea is fundamentally wrong; it is repugnant to the letter and spirit of popular government and of that liberty of speech which is the birthright of the American citizen. It is indefensible upon grounds both of good policy and of law. The attempt to suppress that freedom would provoke the same popular opposition which was aroused by the Alien and Sedition acts.

It may or may not be good policy at this time to put the screws on our late associates in arms and serve notice on them that we expect them to pay their debts in full and that they must enter into arrangements now for discharging the obligation; it is sufficient to say that there is a large body of respectable public opinion in this country which does not approve the course proposed, and the right of those who hold this view to express privately or publicly their dissent, at home or abroad, should not be suppressed by criminal legislation.

Any additional legislation intended to prevent public discussion by Americans residing abroad of questions of foreign policy which their fellow-citizens at home are still happily free to discuss would be a serious blow against the American conception of popular government and freedom of speech.

An Earlier Protest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note that THE NEW YORK TIMES of June 4 complains that Governor Miller and I are late in making known our opposition to the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue constitutional amendment and asks why we did not find out about it when the proposal was before the Legislature. The truth is that as Chairman of the Research Committee of the Republican County Committee I submitted to the Legislature last Winter a brief in which my views were very completely set forth. That report was made public and my recollection is that a summary of it was published in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MITCHELL IS NAMED SOLICITOR GENERAL

POLITICIANS ARE IGNORED

White House Says Selection Was Made in May and No Other Candidate Was Considered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—William D. Mitchell of St. Paul, who was associated in the practice of law with Associate Justice Pierce Butler of the Supreme Court and is regarded as an independent Republican with former Democratic tendencies, was appointed by President Coolidge today to be Solicitor General of the United States, to succeed James M. Beck, recently resigned.

The selection was made without regard to politics, it was announced at the White House, and without any suggestion from political leaders. President Coolidge disregarded the political leaders in the matter and requested Mr. Mitchell to take the office early in May. No other candidates were seriously considered, it was said.

Mr. Mitchell has spent his entire life in law without any incursions into politics. He has been looked upon as a Democrat by his friends, but last year he supported Coolidge and Dawes. His appointment as Solicitor General is his first public office.

Mr. Mitchell's father was William Mitchell, Chief Justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court. Like his father, he devoted himself without interruption to the law after being admitted to the bar and was only diverted from this by his service in the Spanish and World Wars.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Winona, Minn., Sept. 8, 1874. He is of Scotch ancestry on the paternal side and Dutch and English on the maternal. He has practiced law in St. Paul for twenty-nine years, having been a member of the firm of Butler, Mitchell & Doherty most of that time. He has always been active in military affairs and at one time commanded the State Militia. In 1917 he was in charge of the State troops during a street car strike in St. Paul and restored order without firing a shot.

Mr. Mitchell was a Second Lieutenant in the Fifteenth Minnesota Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War. In 1900 and 1901 he was Captain and Adjutant of the Fourth Regiment of the Minnesota National Guard. When the United States went into the World War he helped to organize and became Colonel of the Sixth Infantry, Minnesota National Guard. He resigned from command of the regiment to enlist as a private in the Federal Artillery and served as such to the end of the war.

Mr. Mitchell was married June 27, 1901, to Miss Gertrude Bancroft. They have two sons, both attending Princeton University.

ERROR STIRS TWIN CITIES.

Coolidge's Speech Will Be Delivered at Neither, but Between.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The rivalry between St. Paul and Minneapolis has been brought to the attention of the White House since the occurrence of a slip in the printing of the caption on the President's speech which will be delivered at the State fair grounds, midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, next Monday.

The caption in the early speeches given out in advance for use of the press reads "Address of President Coolidge Before the Norwegian Centennial Celebration at Minneapolis, Minn., June 8, 1925."

A few days after the speeches were sent out Minnesota newspaper men called the attention of the White House to the error and pointed out the trouble it might occasion between the two cities. Later speeches were corrected to read "At State Fair Grounds, Minnesota."

The rivalry is so great between the two cities that no Presidential candidate has ever visited one city without going into the other. When this cannot be accomplished they compromise by appearing at the State fair grounds, which is regarded by the Twin Cities as neutral territory.

DANTZIC POLES CONTENTED.

German Insurance Man Says Friction in Free City Is Past.

Among the 163 cabin passengers who arrived on the Sierra Ventana from Bremen yesterday was Herr Generaldirektor Doktor Heinrich Niehus of the Lebensversicherungsanstalt Westpreussen, a life insurance company of Dantzig.

Herr Niehus said that trouble between Poles and Germans in the Free City of Dantzig was a thing of the past. The Poles constituted only 3 per cent. of the city's 120,000 population, he said, and felt they were better off than they had any right to be in a Free City the majority of whose inhabitants desired unification with the German Reich.

He is here for a month's business and pleasure trip with Herr Oberamtmann George Moeller, also of Dantzig, and will visit Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago.

The vessel brought sixty-four passengers in the third class.

Navy Chooses Three Officers for San Diego-Honolulu Trip.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—Three officers have been selected by the Navy Department on recommendation of the battle fleet in the Pacific to make the flight late this Summer from San Diego to Honolulu in the Boeing patrol plane, which will accompany two planes of the PN-9 type in the non-stop effort.

The officers are Lieutenant Commander James H. Strong of Westfield, Mass.; Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison of St. Louis and Lieutenant Ricco Botta of Boston.

The PN-9 planes are being shipped from the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia to San Diego, and the Boeing plane is nearing completion at Seattle. Tests are expected to be completed in ample time for the aviators to take off early in September.

MISS KERR WEDS RUSSEL W. MURPHY

MISS RANDOLPH A BRIDE

Wed to Courtlandt Von Wahl Luck by the Rev. Dr. McDowell at the Brevoort.

Miss Marion Louise Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Thomas H. Kerr of 118 East Fifty-fourth Street and the late Mr. Kerr, was married to Russell William Murphy, son of the late William G. Murphy of St. Louis, in the Italian Garden of the Ambassador yesterday afternoon. The reception took place in the Louis XV ballroom of the hotel.

The bride, whose brother, Hamilton K. Kerr, gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with rose point lace and a long court train with a panel of lace. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Cyrus Clark of Great Neck, L. I., was matron of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Andre F. Gross, Mrs. Edward P. Warner, Mrs. Donald Weston, the Misses Lila Lancashire, Mary Ermine Case and Janette Young.

Newell G. Neidlinger of East Orange, N. J., was best man. The ushers were Frederick Sheffield, Charles D. Hilles Jr., Kenneth Ives, Otis L. Hubbard, J. Hurting Bonnell and James C. Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will spend their honeymoon in Canada, and will make their home in St. Louis, where he is with the Bankers Trust Company.

Luck—Randolph.

The marriage of Miss Yvonne de la Forest Randolph, daughter of Mrs. Yvonne Randolph of 115 West Sixteenth Street, to Courtlandt von Wahl Luck of this city took place yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Brevoort. Owing to the recent death of the bride's grandfather, Horace R. Kelly, the wedding was quiet. The Rev. Dr. McDowell officiated.

The bride, who is a great-granddaughter of Count Alphonse Lacathon de la Forest, French Consul General to this port, was given in marriage by her aunt, Mrs. Evelyn Hughes. Peter Lawson was best man for Mr. Luck, who is a direct descendant on his father's side of Israel Putnam and Baron Courtlandt von Wahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Luck will motor through New England in their wedding trip, and upon their return will make their home in Flushing.

MISS FERGUSON ENGAGED.

Her Troth to Homer R. Phelps Told at Dinner to Bridal Party.

N. B. WOOLWORTH TO WED IN LONDON

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—The marriage of Norman Bailey Woolworth, son of the late F. M. Woolworth of the famous chain stores and Mrs. Woolworth of New York, to Pauline Elizabeth Stanbury, a London girl, will take place at Margaret's Church, Westminster, on July 7. Miss Stanbury, who is the daughter of Clarence Stanbury of Hampstead, was presented at the first court last year.

Rooms have been taken at the Savoy Hotel for Woolworth, his mother and wedding party, which includes nine of his fellow-graduates of Yale University.

Mr. Woolworth, who lives with his mother at 515 Park Avenue, said last night that he planned to sail with her for England on the Berengaria on June 17. His best man and ushers, all classmates at Yale, will sail on the Paris on June 27.

The engagement of the couple was announced by Miss Stanbury's parents in London early last Autumn. Accompanied by her mother, Miss Stanbury arrived from England early in October to visit friends in New York before going to Canada for a more extended stay. His father, the late Fred M. Woolworth, a cousin of the late F. W. Woolworth, founder of the chain stores, was in charge of the Woolworth interests in England, where his son received his early education. Later he attended Hotchkiss and Yale.

Edward Maher of this city will be best man. The ushers will include Allan Shaw, Arthur McClement and Frederick Sheffield of this city, Kenneth Berry of Pelham, Jack Garland of Los Angeles, Richard Harwood of Boston, Maxwell Bardeen of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Frederick Bates of Canton, Ohio. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Woolworth will make their home here.

GRAND DUKE BORIS OFF, DENIES POLITICAL ROLE

Disclaims Aspirations to Throne —Sees Russia Monarchial, but Doesn't Know When.

The Grand Duke Boris of Russia, brother of the Grand Duke Cyril, the claimant to the throne of the Romanoffs, sailed yesterday from Brooklyn on the Fabre liner Providence. The Grand Duchess accompanied him.

The couple was in the first cabin and had come from the Hotel Ritz to the ship on Thursday night to avoid the discomfort of traveling during the heat of the day.

Madame Rachevsky, the mother-in-law of the Grand Duke Boris, and the Grand Duke's Secretary, Baron Nicholas Cronin, traveled in the second-class, as when they arrived in this country last Fall. The Grand Duke said the whole party had been on deck all night.

"It was one of the most uncomfortable nights I have ever spent," he added. "We made a big mistake in leaving the hotel to come here."

When asked about the various reports which had been cabled from Europe recently concerning his activities, the Grand Duke replied:

"The story that I have been called back is absolutely untrue. Who can order me back? I have no aspirations to any throne. I am out of politics. I have nothing to do with the Grand Duke Cyril or the army he is reported to be raising, or with the Grand Duke Nicholas's aspirations to the imperial throne of Russia.

"I believe," he continued, "that Russia will eventually go back to the monarchical form of government, but nobody can say when that will be or who will be the next emperor."

Luncheon for Miss Emily Wright.

Mrs. Frederic P. Bronson gave a luncheon at the Embassy Club yesterday for Miss Emily Wright, who is to be married to Robert Cunningham Myles Jr., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson de Forest Wright, 525 Park Avenue, on June 11. The guests included Mrs. Horace Ingersoll, Mrs. Charles Young, Mrs. Andre Mertzanoff, Mrs. Grey Ferry and the Misses Frances McCoon, Margaret Stokes and Virginia Quackenbush.

BOSTON, Mass., June 5 (AP).—"Much improvement" in the condition of Secretary of War John W. Weeks, who was operated upon at the Massachusetts General Hospital last week for gall stones, was reported tonight by his physician.

3 TRAPPED IN FIRE SWUNG TO SAFETY

BOYS WARN OTHER TENANTS

See Smoke and Race Through the Burning Building Giving the Alarm.

Three persons were rescued by a fireman off duty and other tenants fled to safety when two boys shouted an alarm last night as fire swept the top floor of 416 East Eighty-fifth Street and cut off escape of two families. Five ambulances and the reserves from three precincts were called to the scene.

The fire, of unknown origin, was discovered at 8 o'clock by Fireman Patrick Buschkamper of Engine Company 8, who was leaning from the window of his home near by after a day tour of duty. Buschkamper ran into the building next to the fire and gaining the top floor crawled along a ledge until he was within striking distance of the windows. Bracing himself he reached out and caught the hands of Caspar Lorsch, 59 years old, who was standing at the window, with the flames creeping toward him from the rear.

With a heave the fireman swung Lorsch like a pendulum to safety on the ledge. Other firemen responding to two alarms were at the window of the house next door and they pulled Lorsch in. Dr. Schwartow of Reception Hospital found the man suffering from severe burns on the face and hurried him to the hospital. His condition there last night was serious.

Buschkamper in the meantime reached over and swung Lillian Lorsch, 29 years old, daughter of the rescued man, to the security of the ledge. She was only slightly burned and the fireman shouted to Mrs. Emily Volz, nervously crying at a window in the apartment next to the Lorsch's, to stand fast. When he had calmed the woman sufficiently to make her understand him the fireman told her to make her way along the ledge connecting one of her windows with the eastern window of the Lorsch apartment.

Mrs. Volz managed to do this and entered the Lorsch apartment. She then stepped to the window from which the Lorsch's had been rescued and Buschkamper brought her to safety in the same way he had the others. Ladders from Hook and Ladder Company 13 were run up against the building, but the firemen managed to hold the blaze to the top floor.

While Buschkamper was making his rescues two boys, Harry Klein, 16 years old, of 343 East Eighty-fifth Street and Benjamin Bergo, 15 years old, of 319 East Eighty-fourth Street, also were proving themselves heroes. The boys had been at play in the yard of the four-story dwelling when the fire was discovered. They saw smoke drifting over the rear edge of the roof and ran to the ladder against the back. They crawled into a window on the first floor and ran through the house spreading warning. Many of the tenants got their first inkling of the fire from the boys. The families ran down the stairs and out into the street.

A large crowd gave the reserves in command of Deputy Inspector George Liebers plenty to do. Klein and Bergo were treated by ambulance surgeons for slight burns and the Klein boy for a wrenched right wrist.

PRIZE PLAY CALLED PLAGIARISM IN SUIT

'They Knew What They Wanted' Taken From 'The Full of the Moon,' Complaint Says.

An injunction and accounting suit was filed in the Federal Court yesterday against the Theatre Guild, Inc., and Sidney Howard, playwright, on the ground that the play, "They Knew What They Wanted," winner of the Pulitzer prize, was a plagiarism of a play, "The Full of the Moon," owned and copyrighted by the plaintiffs, Joseph Grubb Alexander, Ernest Richard Schayer and Wilfred North, all of whom live in California.

The complaint, prepared by Siegel & Corn, attorneys for the plaintiffs, alleges that their play, which has never been produced, was copyrighted in 1923 and that the play which Mr. Howard claims to have written was not copyrighted until a year later.

It is further alleged that Mr. Howard "falsely represents and advertises himself as the author" of "They Knew What They Wanted," with full knowledge that "he pirated the play" from "The Full of the Moon." The complaint contains a description of the plaintiffs' play which is the story of a Swiss guide who leaves his bride on their wedding night to go to the assistance of an Englishman lost in mountains. He loses the use of his legs in an accident and is brought home. Another character is a vagabond, cultured and attractive and who seeks to carry on a flirtation with the bride.

In the defendants' play is a strong, good man, injured on his wedding night by a fall in which his legs are broken. There is also a handsome vagabond.

The complaint says that the defendants, "endeavory to conceal their plagiarism and act of pirating, have cast their play in the form of a combined comedy and dream, have changed the locale, the names of the characters, their nationalities and their vocations in life without, however, in the slightest degree changing their essential basic relations toward one another, and they have also utilized plaintiffs' unique and original dramatic situations and stage settings.

"In both plays the special interest of the wife in the vagabond is disclosed immediately after the accident. In both plays the stage settings are practically the same."

Former Representative Isaac Siegel of counsel for the plaintiffs said that damages of $150,000 and other equity relief would be asked.

Those named as defendants, besides the Theatre Guild, Inc., and Mr. Howard are Richard Bennett, the star in the play, Pauline Lord, Glenn Anders and Philip Moeller, who are in the cast.

JERITZA STIRS STORM IN TOWN OF HER BIRTH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

VIENNA, June 5.—Mme. Jeritza is again in the limelight, this time in her own birthplace, Brunn, in Czechoslovakia, where a violent press campaign opened against her the day before she sang at the opera.

The feeling ran so high that Jeritza was unable to appear a second time in her native town. Although no really serious incident occurred, a strong cordon of police was placed around the theatre.

GORDON DENIES PLAGIARISM

Did Not Admit Taking "White Cargo" From Novel, Lawyers Say.

W. Herbert Adams, attorney for Leon Gordon, playwright, yesterday issued a statement denying an assertion by Miss Ida Vera Simonton, through her attorneys, printed yesterday, that Mr. Gordon had "admitted and acknowledged" that he had taken his play "White Cargo" from "Hell's Playground," her novel.

"After the decision in this case," said Mr. Adams's statement, "and while an appeal was being considered by the defendants, Mr. Gordon, for the purpose of protecting Mr. Carroll and his other associates from further litigation, entered into an agreement with the plaintiff on March 10, 1925, ending the controversy. Nowhere in this agreement, nor at any other time, has Mr. Gordon admitted that in writing 'White Cargo' he had taken the play from Miss Simonton's novel, and he vehemently resents any such admission being attributed to him."

BACKS THE HAGUE COURT.

Dr. Walter Simons Says Germans Want a Stronger Tribunal.

STUTTGART, Germany, June 5 (AP).—Dr. Walter Simons, President of the German Supreme Court and former Acting President of the Republic, favors strengthening the authority of the Arbitration Court at The Hague.

Speaking before the sixth annual meeting of the German Society for Promotion of International Law last evening, he said:

"An international tribunal is an imperative need of the civilized world. We Germans therefore are keenly interested in having the authority of The Hague Arbitration Court strengthened."

Dr. Simons gave it as his conviction that the principle of international jurisdiction would be victorious, and that the authorities of all countries should engage in serious research in behalf of its further development and amplification.

C. W. HALSEY DIES AFTER BREAKDOWN

LEGION OF HONOR MEMBER

Received the D. S. M. for Service in the War—Funeral This Afternoon.

Charles Woodruff Halsey, President of the Rogers-Peet Company, died yesterday morning at his home in Bronxville. He had been ill for a month with a recurrence of a physical breakdown suffered soon after the war.

Mr. Halsey was born in Newark, N. J., forty-eight years ago. He was graduated from Princeton University in 1898 and soon after entered the Weather Bureau in New York as an observer. In 1899 he obtained a clerical position with Rogers, Peet & Co. and within a short time rose to be advertising manager.

When Rogers-Peet Incorporated, in 1912, Mr. Halsey was elected Secretary-Treasurer and in the following year was made Vice President. In 1913 he married Miss Margaret Chambers of Bronxville. They had no children.

In 1917 Mr. Halsey resigned as Vice President of Rogers-Peet and joined the colors with the rank of Captain in the Quartermaster Corps. He was assigned to the fourth section of the General Staff at G. H. Q., Chaumont, and was soon promoted to a Majority.

The strain of the work at headquarters made itself felt and in 1918 Major Halsey suffered a nervous breakdown. When he recovered sufficiently to resume work he returned to Rogers-Peet and was again made Vice President. In 1923 he was elected President of the company.

About a month ago Mr. Halsey left for his farm near Ithaca for a vacation, but soon after arriving there was taken ill. He returned to his home in Bronxville. On Thursday night his condition became worse and he died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He is survived by his widow, one brother, Dr. William M. Halsey of Oswego, N. Y., and a sister, Miss Katherine T. Halsey.

Mr. Halsey received the Distinguished Service Medal and the French Government made him a member of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services.

The funeral will be held from his late home this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery.

WESLEYAN INSTALS DR. M'CONAUGHY

NOTED EDUCATORS PRESENT

Gifts Exceeding $1,200,000 Insure New Library, Laboratory and Perhaps College Union.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 5.—The presence of noted educators, of Governor John H. Trumbull and his staff, and the announcement of gifts totaling $1,200,000 marked the inauguration of Dr. James Lukens McConaughy, the tenth President of Wesleyan University, on the steps of North College just before noon today.

James McConaughy of Philadelphia, aged father of the new President, offered prayer after the charter of the university had been handed to President McConaughy by Dr. David Downey of New York, President of the Board of Trustees.

Nearly 100 institutions were represented at the inauguration, many of them by President or Dean. These included Benjamin Tinkham Marshall of the Connecticut College for Women, William Allan Neilson of Smith College, Ira Nelson Hollis of Worcester Polytechnic Institute? Ralph Earle, President-elect of Worcester Polytechnic Institute; William Douglas Mackenzie of Hartford Seminary, Remsen Brinckerhoff Ogilby of Trinity College, George Daniel Olds of Amherst College, Charles Albert Plumley of Norwich University, Paul Dwight Moody of Middlebury College, Kenneth Charles Morton Sills of Bowdoin College, Harry Augustus Garfield of Williams College, James Rowland Angell of Yale University and Abbott Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University.

The speakers were the Rev. Henry Hitt Crane of Malden, Mass., for the alumni; Professor Andrew C. Armstrong, senior member of the Faculty, for that body; Bishop Luther B. Wilson of New York for the Methodist Episcopal Church; President Angell of Yale for sister colleges; Dr. Downey for the Board of Trustees and President McConaughy.

In his inaugural the new executive said the New England liberal arts college, opposing the tendency toward mass production in great universities, must stress individuality. It should be a pioneer in the extending of greater scholastic liberty to the abler students, thereby stimulating them to the breaking of mental records.

Wesleyan, as the forerunner of the type of higher education in America, holding its enrolment at about 500 students, content with teaching relatively few subjects in a day when its larger sister institutions were teaching nearly everything, had the opportunity designedly to strive for exactly the opposite objectives, to decry uniformity and to stress individuality, to insist on the unit rather than the group, to be concerned with the scholarly and character attainments of the individual student today, instead of the professional accomplishments of the group tomorrow.

"If college men wish to hear the other side of controversial topics presented, why oppose," he continued. "After all, intellectual sterility, supine thoughtlessness is the great college vice. The official college should know its own mind and should present its facts and conclusions fairly.

"But it should not, I hold, deny entirely a voice to those who honestly differ from us. If a Wesleyan graduate believes on social, industrial, political and religious questions as Wesleyan would like to have him, I hope his convictions will be those of an individual who has heard both sides, not one cudied in the academic monastery of childish protectionism.

"But our concern with the individual student must go further. It must permeate the curriculum itself. Unquestionably, our greatest academic progress in America in the past half century has been in professional education, applied science, vocational study, all leading definitely to the world of action. But in pure science and such cultural subjects as classics, literature and art vastly less progress has been made. In teaching the practical utilitarian subjects we lead the world. In cultural studies our English friends, in their ten-century-old colleges, still surpass us.

"It behooves us, then, to give our students in these colleges of liberal arts as great freedom of choice as we can. In the early years choice must be limited to make sure that the student acquires the tools for later development, notably the clear and correct use of his own language and the understanding of one or two foreign languages. To accomplish the cultural development of our men, little needs to be added to our curriculum except two fields of supremely individual appeal, the appreciation of music and of art.

The announced gifts will make possible the speedy erection of a new library, a chemistry laboratory and probably a college union.

The library, which will be erected at a cost of $702,000, will be called the Olin memorial in honor of Wesleyan's second President, Stephen Olin, and his son, Stephen H. Olin, '66, of New York City, a member of the Board of Trustees and Acting President of the university in 1922-23.

The chemistry laboratory will be a memorial to William Henry Hall of Willington, Conn., a prominent Wesleyan alumnus, class of 1892, his father, Gardiner Hall Jr., and his son, Holman H. Hall, who died while a sophomore at Wesleyan.

The college union will be the Shanklin memorial, in honor of William Arnold Shanklin, ninth President of Wesleyan, who died last Fall.

The announcement concerning the union carried the information that friends of Wesleyan and of Dr. Shanklin had given $165,000 and the hope is that the additional $100,000 needed will be raised speedily.

VASSAR ALUMNAE RETURN.

More Than 800 to Attend Class Reunions Today.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 5.—Vassar alumnae are arriving every hour to attend the class reunions, of which thirteen will be held tomorrow. Seven hundred and fifty already have reported and fully 100 more are expected.

Local hotels are crowded with the families of seniors who will conclude their college career Tuesday.

President and Mrs. MacCracken will hold a reception for seniors and their families tomorrow afternoon, and a play will be presented in the evening. Sunday morning there will be special chapel services in addition to the baccalaureate sermon, and in the evening the choir will give a concert.

The annual baseball game between fathers and seniors will occur Monday morning, class day luncheon will be given at 1 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the class day exercises will be held in the outdoor theatre. The seniors will wear Czechoslovakian costumes and twenty-four of the most beautiful sophomores will carry the historic daisy chain. The annual bonfires and step singing are on the program for the evening.

At the commencement exercises Tuesday President MacCracken will speak and present the degrees. In the evening the class of '25 will meet for the last time at dinner, when the engaged seniors will plead "guilty."

Dramatize Adelphi Graduation.

Graduation exercises of the elementary department of Adelphi Academy, Clifton and St. James Places, Brooklyn, were held in the academy building yesterday afternoon. E. C. Alder, Principal, delivered an address to the graduates and awarded the diplomas. The graduating class consisted of fifty-six boys and girls. The exercises were interwoven in a play written by the pupils and called "Memories." After the awards of honors and prizes the exercises were concluded with the sinking of "The Star Banner" and a salute to the flag.

Y. M. C. A. COLLEGE DIPLOMAS

International Institution Graduates 77—Endowment Collections Large.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 5 (AP).—A class of 77 was graduated from the International Y. M. C. A. College here today, the closing day of commencement week. P. Whitwell Wilson, former member of the British Parliament, was the commencement speaker.

Chief interest centred in reports on the efforts to complete the $2,500,000 endowment fund, which must be done by July 1 in order that $500,000 pledged conditionally may be received. In his report Dr. L. L. Doggett, President of the college, pronounced the situation in this respect as serious.

Ford Stores Bar Public.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 5.—Hereafter only employes or members of their families will be permitted to purchase groceries, meats, &c., in the Ford stores, according to an announcement made today by the Ford Motor Company. These stores were established by the automobile company in 1919. They comprise a meat market, grocery, drug department and shoe shop. Their purpose is to protect employes from exorbitant prices.

N. Y. U. ALUMNI HERE FOR ANNUAL FROLIC

Acceptance of Shamrock IV's Mast and Two Cannon Features Program.

COMMENCEMENT SEASON ON

Tennis Tournament, Graduates' Parade and Baseball Game Among Other Activities Planned.

Presentation of the mast of the Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, and the gift of memorial guns will mark Alumni Day and begin the commencement period today at New York University. Several thousand graduates are expected to gather on the University Heights campus for their annual frolic.

Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Commander of the Third Naval District, will present two guns to the university in the name of the Secretary of the Navy. One of the guns is a 12-inch mortar, used by Farragut's fleet in the capture of Fort Jackson, La. The other is a 12,000-pound weapon from the cruiser U. S. S. Albany, which convoyed transports during the World War. The guns will be placed on Battery Hill, a wooded knoll which was the site of British Fort 8 during the Revolution. They will serve as memorials to the New York University men who died during the war.

The mast of the cup challenger will be presented by Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul General, representing Sir Thomas. Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown will make the acceptance. After the ceremony the flags of Britian and America will be flown with a New York University pennant from the mast. The howitzer company of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will fire a national salute of twenty-one guns, and then taps will be sounded by a bugler in the New York Navy Yard Band, which will participate in the service.

Famous stars of Violet tennis teams of other years will play in a tournament, featuring the day's program. Various business meetings of graduate societies will take place in the morning, and at noon the Colleges of Arts and Engineering will hold an outdoor luncheon on the campus.

The historic alumni parade will start at 2 o'clock, and the line of march will include the memorial gateway which will be presented to the university on commencement day next Wednesday by the class of 1905. The graduates will also be taken past Ohio Field, to see the improvements made there.

A baseball game between New York University and the University of Pennsylvania will start at 3:30 P. M., and patriotic organizations taking part in the memorial ceremony will be the guests of the alumni at the game. They will include representatives from the Daughters of the American Revolution, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Colonial Dames of America, Grand Army of the Republic, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Military Order of the World War, British Great War Veterans, the Old Guard, and units from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

The thirty-fifth annual dinner of the class of 1890 of the College of Arts and the College of Engineering will be held tonight in the Faculty Club. The class of 1905 of the same colleges will hold their reunion dinner at the club at 7 o'clock, and will wind up the day's program with a treasure hunt for Diana, the famous Madison Square Garden statue, which is soon to be placed on the campus.

Christmans Hiking to Yellowstone.

WOUNDED ON NIGHT BOAT.

Man and Assailant Said to Have Argued Over Woman.

Following an argument, said by the police to have started over a Jersey City woman, one man was wounded in the throat by another while both were passengers on the Citizens Line steamer Lancaster, bound for Albany last night.

Charles Marshall of 293 First Street, Jersey City, N. J., was locked up on a charge of felonious assault, and the wounded man, James Ashlor, 32 years old, of 542 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, was attended by Dr. Goodman of Knickerbocker Hospital and then allowed to go home. It is alleged that Marshall cut Ashlor in the neck with a razor and threw the weapon overboard.

From the Founder's Writings

After much thought and observation, to some of us

it seems plain that many parents do not properly value or treat wisely their fast-growing children. Quite a large percentage of the children are little men and little women with good thoughts of their own which need encouragement.

It will not hurt the boys to split wood or run errands, nor harm the girls to wash dishes or sweep a floor.

But to add to their duty of learning their public school lessons for the next day, the running of errands, the bringing up of coal from the cellar, and keeping them constantly on the go at something, with no time to play, seems a hardship. It seems like what a mother told her little daughter, "If you don't look out, I will wipe up the floor with you."

Misses' Silk Frocks, $19.50

There's a certain dressmaker here in New York who is famous for the materials which he puts into his dresses—first of all, the quality must be fine; and, secondly, he is an artist in the selection of designs and colors. This will give you an idea of the silks in these frocks.

The superiority of this dressmaker's workmanship is evident even when a frock is upon its hanger. So you can imagine our delight when he offered to make up his surplus silks into our models which are illustrated. Of course, he has used these very silks—

Printed and Plain Crepe de Chines

—also striped tub silks (one model only)—in higher priced dresses this season.

Every color which is now fashionable is included—but we wish to emphasize especially periwinkle and navy blue.

FIND SUICIDE'S GEMS IN SANDS AT CONEY

Creditors of the Bankrupts, M. Sieger & Son, Dig Up a Barrel of Treasure.

BELIEVE MORE ARE HIDDEN

Exact Place Is Kept Secret Pending Result of Search for Another $50,000.

CLUE GIVEN BY WIDOW

Testifies She Sewed the Jewelry in Bags and Tells Why Her Husband Leaped to Death.

A barrel of treasure valued at $30,000 was dug yesterday from the sands of Coney Island by creditors and their counsel searching for assets of the bankrupt jewelry firm of M. Sieger & Son, 20 Nassau Street. The search for assets has been going on quietly ever since Mr. Sieger, pressed by his creditors, flung himself to death from a twelfth-story window of the Knickerbocker Building, Broadway and Forty-second Street, on May 24.

The creditors centred their treasure hunt on Coney Island as the result of testimony given before Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, 280 Broadway, by Mrs. Sarah Sieger, widow of the former head of the firm. With the aid of a woman, whose identity they declined to disclose, the treasure-seekers dug trench after trench in the sands of Coney Island. Finally their spades and shovels struck on the barrel buried deep in the earth, so deep that there was little danger of its being exposed by erosion of the beach.

The assortment of treasure was as varied as the legendary cache of Captain Kidd. It included diamond-set jewelry of many descriptions. There were diamond lavalieres, diamond rings, unset precious stones, beaded necklaces, stickpins, watches for men and women in diamond-studded gold cases, cameos mounted with bezels of precious stones and many other kinds of high-grade trinkets.

Place of Find Not Revealed.

Those who found the treasure cache are keeping secret its exact location. They admit it was on a part of the Coney Island beach near a house that once was under the control of the late Mr. Sieger. Further than that they will not say.

"There must be between $50,000 and $100,000 worth of jewelry still buried there," said Archibald Palmer, counsel for the receiver, "and we don't want to start any wild treasure hunt, particularly when the beaches of Coney Island are crowded with tens of thousands of persons seeking escape from the hot weather.

"We are continuing our search, and perhaps in a few days, after we have found the rest of the jewelry or eliminated every chance of it being found where we think it may have been concealed, we may be able to give more details of our discovery."

The old barrel, frosted from the salt water and encrusted with sand, was taken to the office of Assistant United States Attorney John M. Blake yesterday afternoon. After he examined the container and the jewelry he expressed the belief that the solution of the "disappearance of the Sieger jewels" was in sight. A thorough search of safety deposit vaults had failed to yield a clue.

The jewels had been taken from a vault in Brooklyn, according to Mr. Palmer, to be secreted at Coney Island.

The testimony leading to their recovery was given by Mrs. Sieger before Referee Ehrhorn on Thursday. Mrs. Sieger is the widow of Morris Sieger and mother of Simon Sieger, associated with the elder Sieger in the jewelry business. Following her testimony the Assistant United States Attorney moved for the indictment of Simon Sieger, Abraham Birt and Nathan Shapiro on charges of swindling assorted creditors and conspiracy to conceal assets. He hopes to bring the case to trial early next week. It was not revealed by Mrs. Sieger's testimony who actually buried the jewels found at Coney Island, and counsel for creditors yesterday were silent on this phase of the case.

Says She Sewed Gems in Bags.

Mrs. Sieger testified that she had sewed the jewels up in bags to be put in the barrel. She said that on the eve of the bankruptcy proceedings against her husband and son's firm she returned home and smelled gas. Looking through a glass door, she saw her husband stretched out on a sofa, overcome. She threw open the windows and called help. Her husband was revived and the case was explained as accidental, to the satisfaction of the police.

On May 24, Mrs. Sieger said, she said she went with her husband to the Knickerbocker Building, where he was to meet creditors and their counsel. Mrs. Sieger said she and her husband knew that their son was before the Grand Jury and that they expected him to be indicted, along with the father. Sieger was remorseful, according to his widow, because he blamed himself for the difficulties into which the son had been drawn. She quoted him as having said: "Sarah, I can't go to jail and be in the same cell probably facing my own son and know that he is there only for doing what I told him to do."

Mrs. Sieger became hysterical as she continued with her testimony, saying:

Then he gave me a kiss, ran to the window, and before I knew what he was about hurled himself from it."

Young Sieger, in his testimony, revealed that he had maintained three apartments on one time and that his need for cash became great after his marriage because several women united in blackmailing him.

M. Sieger & Son failed for $114,000, and it is alleged that before the failure they obtained credit for $145,000 through fraudulent statements.

FIRE TRUCKS CRASH; 4 HURT

Tender Collides With Steamer Running to a Blaze.

Four firemen were injured last night, one of them seriously, when the tender of Engine Company 11 on which they were returning from a fire at 134 Suffolk Street was in collision with the steamer of Engine Company 28 at Pitt and Stanton Streets.

Fireman Morris McKenna, 33 years old, of 307 Fourteenth Avenue, Long Island City, received internal injuries. He was removed to Gouverneur Hospital. Firemen John Volpe and Dennis Maumix received cuts and bruises. They were attended by an ambulance surgeon and returned to their quarters in East Houston Street. Captain Tony Poggi of Engine Company 11 also received slight hurts, but refused medical attendance. Engine Company 28 was on its way to a special alarm through Stanton Street when it crashed into the tender, which was going north on Pitt Street.

20,000 Pigeons Will Race North Today From Virginia

Special to The New York Times.

DANVILLE, Va., June 5.—Nearly 20,000 racing pigeons will be released here at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for a flight to New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. The concourse, said to be the largest ever held in the South, is sponsored by the United Homing Pigeon Concourse of New York.

Two trainloads of pigeons arrived here today with official liberators and attendants and were pronounced ready for the word which will send them into the sky. They will circle a few minutes and all are expected to head for the northeast.

According to Jack Healy of Brooklyn some of the birds will fly 450 miles to Bridgeport, but most of them will follow an air line under 400 miles. With a fair wind they are expected to make the trip in seven hours, the birds being capable of between 1,500 to 1,900 yards a minute.

RIFFIANS CHECKED IN FIERCE BATTLE

SUFFERS SEVERE LOSSES

Communist Propaganda Against the War Spread in France—Four Powers Confer in Madrid.

PARIS, June 5 (AP).—The Riffian forces of the tribal leader Abd-el-Krim took the offensive in violent manner on both sides of the fighting front in Morocco yesterday.

While Abd-el-Krim's choice storming troops were, according to an official communication, assailing in vain points along the Wergha River, his sympathizers in Communist circles in France became extremely active in spreading literature inciting the soldiers to desert. In this connection several arrests have been made, and scores of persons were found with such documents in their possession. Posters condemning the warfare in Morocco were torn up by the police at Nancy. A dispatch from Tunis reports the arrest of individuals who were caught on trains in the act of distributing revolutionary tracts.

While the news reaching Paris from Morocco indicates that the French forces had the stiffest fight of the campaign to push back the Riffians, confidence is expressed in official circles that the punishment inflicted on the tribesmen will be a most impressive lesson to the invaders, who in yesterday's fighting were composed largely of real Riffians.

The attack of Abd-el-Krim was so determined as to bring forth the opinion by French military authorities that he has not given up his original plan of reaching Fez. His immediate objective is Taounat, in the centre of the front and the key to the crossing of the Wergha River. The tribesmen crossed the river at a few points, but the French after some time succeeded in pushing them back, and after a series of counter-attacks some posts which the French had abandoned on the northern side of the stream were reoccupied.

The negotiations between France and Spain as regards events in Morocco, are going on favorably. It was confirmed today that statesmen representing the two powers will meet in the near future either at Madrid or Paris to settle the questions of arms traffic in Morocco and the blockade of the Riffian zone. It was said that Great Britain probably would be consulted.

MADRID, June 5 (AP).—Much activity has been noticeable the last few days in the diplomatic corridors of Madrid, with daily conferences at the Foreign Office between the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, members of the Military Directorate and the French, British and Italian Ambassadors. The conversations concern the Tangier statute and the Moroccan problem in general.

From the news that has leaked out of the conferences it appears that favorable progress has been made in the negotiations.

BOMB PLOT CHAIN MENACES ALFONSO

Explosives Are Discovered at Cathedral, Host's House and on Railway, Border Reports Say.

LONDON, June 5. (AP).—A dispatch to The Evening News from a point on the Franco-Spanish border says it is reported that a bomb was found in the Barcelona Cathedral just before King Alfonso attended mass there. The dispatch, says four priests were arrests.

This dispatch also reported that a bomb exploded outside a Barcelona hotel the day after a ball given there in honor of King Alfonso.

Fourteen Arrests Reported.

PERPIGNAN, France, June 5 (AP).—Fourteen persons have been arrested in Barcelona in connection with bomb plots against King Alfonso, according to travelers arriving over the frontier, who say news of the plots is being suppressed in the Spanish newspapers.

Those arrested were young students and functionaries, members of an extremist Catalan group which had been camouflaged as a literary and touring association. The prisoners denied any connection with the plots.

The bomb which was intended to blow up the royal train between Barcelona and Madrid is said to have been a large one, weighing 175 pounds, arranged to be exploded by an electric mechanism. It was found several miles outside the city near the tracks of the Madrid line.

The travelers say the police also found a map showing the location of a bomb under one of the numerous tunnels on the route to Madrid.

King Delays Return to Madrid.

BARCELONA, Spain, June 5 (AP).—A series of bomb plots to kill Alfonso has been revealed, and the sovereign's return is being postponed.

One bomb was discovered on the tracks traversed by the royal train on the way to this city. Two other plots are reported, one to blow up the entrance to the hall where Alfonso presided at a meeting last Sunday, and the other to kill him during the return journey to the capital.

The bomb found on the rails has been placed in a museum here, and the King took time from his scheduled program to view it. It is of considerable size, and had been placed so that, but for vigilance of guards, it would have been exploded by the impact of the royal train.

Says Plot Was Against Dictator.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 5.—The Spanish Embassy denies any knowledge of an attempt on the life of King Alfonso but the Journal's dispatch from Madrid says it is true a bomb of large dimensions was discovered on Saturday close to the exit of the Canet tunnel not far from Barcelona.

DRY CHIEF REBUFFS PLEA MADE BY EDGE

NECESSARY IN CAMPAIGN

Non-Commercial Boats Are Landing Liquor, He Charges, in Reply to Claim That Rights Are Violated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Treasury Department made it known today that there is to be no change in its policy of conducting real warfare against the rum fleet and the rum-runners along the Atlantic Coast, despite complaints made by Senator Edge of New Jersey and others that owners of pleasure craft are being treated discourteously by crews of the Coast Guard boats.

The Senator sent a telegram to General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary in charge of prohibition enforcement, stating that "totally unjustified practices" were being pursued by the Coast Guard, and that he had received "many and insistent protests" about the reckless use of firearms.

General Andrews immediately sent a letter to the Senator in which he said emphatically that it was absolutely necessary for Coast Guard boats to use force on occasions when suspected craft failed to obey orders to stop, and that the Senator must be aware that a very large number of motor launches were engaged in running liquor into the inlets along the Jersey coast.

Information concerning the passage-at-arms between the New Jersey Senator and General Andrews has attracted widespread interest here, as it is the first clash of the kind which has been staged in the open in which a prominent Republican political leader has figured. Senator Edge has denied that he was attempting to use his political influence, contending that he merely was acting as the representative of constituents who felt that their rights had been invaded. The advocates of a fight for enforcement that knows no politics are openly jubilant over the result of the encounter.

Andrews Has Free Hand.

When General Andrews was placed in charge of prohibition enforcement there was much made of the assertions that he had been given a free hand and that he need give no consideration to pressure that might be brought to bear by political leaders or by the Anti-Saloon League of America and kindred dry organizations, if their desires did not fit in with his convictions concerning ways and means to make enforcement most effective.

While the texts of the communications between Senator Edge and Assistant Secretary Andrews have not been issued for publication, the facts set out by the Senator and the general idea of the reply by General Andrews are available. Copies of the letter sent by General Andrews to Senator Edge also have been sent to the commanders of Coast Guard stations on the New Jersey coast for their guidance and for distribution to the personnel of the Coast Guards crews.

The Coast Guard fleet under the orders of General Andrews are doing their best to curb the liquor supply of Atlantic Coast Summer resorts, including Atlantic City. Information has been to the effect that efforts to get big supplies ashore were being made by private pleasure yachts as well as by the commercialized rum-runners. Under such conditions, the Treasury holds, the present tactics must be pursued, regardless of the fact that some innocent craft may occasionally be subjected to the annoyance of being stopped.

Edge's Complaint of Discourtesy.

Senator Edge in his telegram contended that the Coast Guard crews should be compelled to use ordinary courtesy and discretion in preventing a "reign of terror."

The Senator added that thousands of these pleasure craft were now in the waters of that section, and that thousands more would be added during the next three months. Charges had been made to him, Senator Edge added, that rum patrol boats had been indiscriminately reckless in the use of firearms in firing upon these pleasure boats, in which innocent citizens were seeking legitimate recreation.

In his letter to Senator Edge today, General Andrews said that the Coast Guard crews were required by law to stop and inspect any vessel or boat about which there was any suspicion, and the regulations of the Treasury Department required them to give signals for the boats to stop. If the boats did not stop, General Andrews said, the Coast Guard crews were compelled under the law to fire across their bows.

Boats Must Stops, Says Andrews.

In further explanation, General Andrews said in his letter that the rum-runners never stop when pursued by a patrol boat, but put on more steam instead in their efforts to escape. Because of this, he added, every time a boat of any description refuses to obey a Coast Guard signal, the assumption is that it has a load of contraband liquor aboard.

As regards the identity of the Government craft, General Andrews pointed out that the Coast Guard boats were easily recognized, and that are now used to the seashore would mistake them. Moreover, Government boats now particularly active along the Jersey coastline have found many of the rum-runners using fast motor launches that are not different in their external appearances from innocent pleasure craft.

In summing up his position General Andrews said bluntly that the steps taken to put a stop to rum-running were absolutely necessary and that the Treasury Department cannot modify them.

Lists Washington Among the Wettest.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—Asserting that Washington is one of the wettest cities in the United States, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment in a statement today charged that a great amount of liquor is imported for the consumption of the thirsty members of Congress "who devote considerable time to voting dry and praising prohibition."

Despite Federal and local police agencies, the statement said, liquor is arriving daily from what is called "an almost limitless source" and "drunkenness is on the jump in Washington." The association said that the arrests here for drunkenness for 1924 were 9,149, as against 3,568 for 1919.

NO DECISION IN CAB CASE.

"20 Cents a Mile" Device Called Misleading at Hearing.

Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney yesterday reserved decision after hearing argument on the application of the Twenty Cents a Mile Taxicab Corporation, Inc., and George Marks for an injunction to prevent the police interfering with the operation of the concern. Philip S. Hart of 1,674 Broadway, attorney for the applicants contended that because the cabs carried signs giving the rate of operation at 15 cents the first quarter mile and 5 cents each succeeding quarter, the public could not be misled as to what it would have to pay by the "Twenty Cents a Mile" in the title of the company, which is carried as a device on each car.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Russell A. Tarbox said the company's device was misleading and was intended to mislead. He insisted the police had acted under authority of law in stopping cabs using the device.

National City and Canadian Pacific Buildings Change Ownership in $20,000,000 Transaction

By far the largest real estate transaction of the year in the Grand Central zone was closed yesterday when the National City Bank Building and the Canadian Pacific Building, valued in the aggregate at about $20,000,000, changed ownership.

The properties occupy the two block fronts on the west side of Madison Avenue from Forty-second to Forty-fourth Street, and negotiations for their sale have been pending for several weeks.

As a result of the transaction, negotiated by G. Maurice Heckscher and Hughes & Hammond, the National City Company, a subsidiary of the National City Bank, Charles E. Mitchell, President, has become owner of the former Hotel Manhattan block, now a fifteen-story office structure occupying the block from Forty-second to Forty-third Street. It was converted into an office building a few years ago at a cost of $2,000,000.

The property occupies a plot fronting 200.10 feet on Madison Avenue, 121 feet on Forty-second Street and 155 feet on Forty-third Street and was sold by August Heckscher.

Mr. Heckscher purchased the hotel in May, 1916, from the Belding estate of Boston for $4,500,000. Two years later he leased the block to George McE. Bowman and associates, operating the Bowman chain of hotels, at a net annual rental of $300,000. That lease was subsequently sold to the National City Company, which has since been paying the Bowman interests a net annual profit of $200,000. The National City Company has acquired the fee, but the lease will continue in force.

The second deal involved the purchase by August Heckscher of the Canadian Pacific Building, which displaced in 1921 the old landmark of St. Bartholomew's Church at the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, and adjoining buildings on Forty-third Street.

This property was sold by the Madison Avenue Offices, Inc., an outgrowth of a company formed by members of the Fifth Church of Christ Scientist, which originally purchased St. Bartholomew's in 1920 to build a church and office building.

The plan instead was carried out by the W. J. Taylor Company and the Madison Avenue Offices, Inc., which gave the Scientists a 99-year lease at a nominal rental of $1 a year on the church which was incorporated in the Forty-third Street side of the big office building.

This twenty-one story structure occupies the west side of Madison Avenue between Forty-third and Forty-fourth Streets with the exception of the dwelling at No. 336, owned since 1871 by Mrs. Sarah A. Fay, who still lives in that house and No. 340, the headquarters of the realty firm of Pease & Elliman. Two fifteen-story wings of the big building jut into Madison Avenue between the Fay and Pease & Elliman properties, which the Scientists failed to purchase because the owners would not sell.

The Fifth Church of Christ Scientist paid $1,525,000 for the St. Bartholomew's church site and the Forty-third Street corner lot was bought for $500,000 from the Oceanic Investing Company which acquired it a few weeks before for $350,000 from the Women's Exchange.

The building was financed by S. W. Straus & Co. with a loan of $5,500,000, and subsequent loans of $1,500,000 and $400,000 were obtained on the property through Hughes & Hammond from the Prudential Life Insurance Company and William Henry Barnum & Co. respectively.

SHATTUCK ROBBER GETS 45-YEAR TERM

Man Who Locked Ten Persons in a Wine Vault Last of Four to Go to Prison.

SCORED BY JUDGE ROSALSKY

Life Sentence Avoided for Fear Parole Board Would Release Him in Ten Years.

Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday imposed a sentence of from forty-five to sixty-five years in Sing Sing on Paul Camillieri, alias "the Jockey," for his part in the hold-up of the Washington Square North home of Albert R. Shattuck, retired banker, in April, 1922, and the theft of $85,000 in gems, after Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck and eight servants had been locked in an old wine vault in the cellar. Camillieri, the last of the four robbers to be imprisoned for the crime, was brought to this country from France, by arrangement with the French Government, to face trial.

Judge Rosalsky said that he had considered imposing a life term but that would permit the State Parole Board to release him at the expiration of ten years. It was said that under the sentence imposed, Camillieri would have to serve at least thirty-three years and nine months of the sentence, allowing for commutation for good behavior.

"Judging from statistics," the Court said, "it appears the Parole Board invariably liberates prisoners at the expiration of the minimum term. This defendant evinced not only a depraved mind but a reckless disregard for the lives of ten innocent persons. When Mrs. Shattuck, about to be locked in the vault, pleaded with him for a few minutes to pray to her Creator before he slammed the door closed, this defendant said to her: 'Do not ask God to prolong your life, but to forgive your sins.'"

Fixing his eyes on Camillieri, Judge Rosalsky continued: "You then grabbed her, threw her into the vault and slammed the door. It seems to me that no substantial punishment in my power to inflict could be adequate for the fiendish and bold course you pursued in this crime. Mrs. Shattuck, a woman of culture and refinement, was positive as to the identity of the defendant, who interposed a false alibi. Three witnesses identified him as being in New York at the time of the burglary. I think there is no real doubt, absolutely no doubt, as to the guilt of the defendant.

"Mrs. Shattuck believes that men of your type should be put out of the way—not by life imprisonment, but by losing their lives. She begged on her knees to you not to close the vault door as it meant certain death, she believed, for herself and the other nine in the vault. You are the one who bolted that door."

The Court then praised Assistant District Attorney Owen W. Bohan, who represented the State at the trial in France of Albert Bollet, leader of the gang, through whose efforts Camillieri was convicted, and the good work of the police in the case. He remarked that while he did not know the total cost to the city in running down Bollet and Camillieri, he had been informed that the work of getting Camillieri to this country and trying him had cost the French Government and this county approximately $50,000.

Louis B. Reingold, State Parole Custodian, was in court when Camillieri was sentenced. Later he made public a statement in which he took issue with Judge Rosalsky for his recent criticism of the State Parole Board, and Samuel Untermyer for the attack he made on the board last week in connection with the case of Robert P. Brindell, former labor union boss.

Reingold said that the Parole Board, although not obliged to do so, often kept prisoners in jail after the expiration of their minimum sentences because facts produced before the board showed judges had been too lenient.

LACKAWANNA GIVES TRUESDALE NEW JOB

President Retires at 74 and Will Become Chairman of the Board of Directors.

JOHN M. DAVIS SUCCEEDS

New Chief Heads a Railway Supply House—Formerly B. & O. Vice President.

W. H. Truesdale, one of the pioneers in the railroad industry of America, and for twenty-six years affiliated with the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, resigned yesterday as President of that organization to take up the position of Chairman of the Board of Directors, a new post especially created for Mr. Truesdale by the Board of Directors. John Marcus Davis, for more than four years President of the railway supply house of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, who has also had wide experience in the railroad world, was chosen by the directors to succeed Mr. Truesdale as President.

Mr. Truesdale began his career in 1869 as a clerk in the auditing department of the Rockford, Rock Island & St. Louis Railway, which is now a part of the Burlington system. Mr. Truesdale, who is 74 years of age, is the oldest President of any of the larger systems in the East. It was during his period as supervisor of the affairs of the Lackawanna that the road unshackled itself from the old-time methods of railroading and was built up to one of the strongest organizations in the country. Its credit standing today ranks among the highest of any system in the country.

Official action on Mr. Truesdale's resignation as President will not take place until the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors to be held on June 25, but he advised the board of his plans yesterday. In commenting upon some of his experiences yesterday Mr. Truesdale said: "I have known most of the railroad pioneers of our country, but have not been actively connected with them in building the country's railroads. My position has been on the side lines. My twenty-six years of service with the Lackawanna, however, have been very interesting. During that period the railroads have had to meet many problems in expansion and development and feel that I have had my share in solving them."

After obtaining his first job as a clerk with the old Rockford, Rock Island road Mr. Truesdale had held virtually every minor or important position that a railroad can offer. He also at one time served as receiver for an Indiana line while he was connected with the law firm of Osborn & Curtis at Rock Island, Ill. He also acted in that capacity in 1894 for the Minneapolis & St. Louis. His services with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad dated from 1894 to 1899. Since 1899 he has served the Lackawanna and directed the destiny of that system.

Mr. Davis entered upon his railroad career in 1888 when a boy of 17, and began to assume executive positions in the following year. From 1900 to 1902 he was a superintendent of the Erie at Scranton. He was general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio at Cincinnati from 1914 to 1916, and in the next two years he was a Vice President of the Baltimore & Ohio system. From April, 1921, to date he has been connected with the railway supply house. Mr. Davis, like Mr. Truesdale, has served in virtually every branch of the railroad industry, including the marine departments.

Bank Closed With $342,000 Deficit.

JACKSON, Tenn., June 5 (AP).—The People's Savings Bank, in which an actual shortage of $342,000 was discovered by State bank examiners more than a week ago, closed its doors today. It is now in the hands of the State Banking Department. Depositors will be paid in full, bank directors having furnished a bond to cover any deficit.

ENRIGHT PROMOTES 149 MEN; SHIFTS 14

Raises Sergeants to Lieutenancies and Also Names Four New Captains.

AFFECTS MURDER PRECINCT

Commander of District in Which Miss Kane Was Slain Is Transferred to Canarsie.

Police Commissioner Enright yesterday announced fourteen transfers of policemen with the rank of Lieutenant or higher, 144 promotions to the rank of Lieutenant or higher and five promotions from second to first grade detective.

Captain Thomas F. Wynne, commanding the Brownsville precinct, where the murder of Miss Florence Kane occurred, was transferred to Canarsie. Insufficient police protection was held responsible for the murder by the Rev. Father William J. Costello in his funeral sermon.

Many of the transfers were caused by yesterday's promotions and Wednesday's dismissal of elderly Lieutenants and Captains from the department. The complete list of transfers follows:

Deputy Inspector James H. Post, from the 3d Inspection District (West 123d Street), to the 7th (Vernon Avenue, Brooklyn), as acting inspector in command.

Captain Harry Eason from the West 152d Street Station to Traffic "D."

Lieutenant Hugo Wunche, from the 6th Inspection District to the Marine Division as acting captain.

Lieutenant Patrick Dinan, from the Fifth Street Station to New Dorp, S. I., as acting captain.

Captain Thomas P. Cummings from Clymer Street Station, Brooklyn, to Coney Island.

Pearne Is Promoted.

One Acting Deputy Inspector, Camille C. Pearne, of the Special Service Division, was made a Deputy Inspector. Four Lieutenants were made Captains, 51 Sergeants were made Lieutenants and 88 patrolmen were made Sergeants.

The Lieutenants made Captains were the following: John J. Seery, Traffic B; Thomas Leahy, Charles Street Station, Manhattan; Arthur J. Dodd, Traffic A; Arthur Meade, West Sixty-eighth Street Station, Manhattan.

The following Sergeants were made Lieutenants:

RUDDY, JOHN H., Gates Av. Station, Brooklyn.
CAHILL, THOMAS, West 68th St. Station, Manhattan.
LAWLOR, JAMES, Bushwick Av. Station, Brooklyn.
McGRATH, JOHN, 86th St. Station, Brooklyn.

Woman Asks Cheerful Funeral, With Hymns in Natural Voices

"I do not want my funeral to be gloomy," said a letter written just before her death. The letter, giving many details for the ceremony, asked that there be no eulogy. "The world thinks me much better than I am," she wrote.

Pews on one side of the pulpit are to be reserved for negroes, the letter directed. "The negroes," it said, "have done much for me; have waited on me and kept me from drudgery all of my life, and I have never received an act of unkindness from one of them."

She closed by urging her children who were at her bedside not to "mope and stay at home," but to "go out and brighten the world."

The Detectives Promoted.

One of the detectives promoted to first grade rank was William Boyden, a negro, of the gangster squad, who has been employed in confidential work by Commissioner Enright. The others were Joseph P. Sheidrich of the Charles Street Station, Manhattan; Charles Armstrong of the Alexander Avenue Station, Bronx; Thomas E. Enright of the East 104th Street Station, Manhattan, and John Flynn of the Classon Avenue Station, Brooklyn.

Boyden is the first negro to become a first-grade detective in the Police Department.

Commissioner Enright passed over seven patrolmen who were on the eligible list for promotion to sergeants, and seven sergeants who were on the list for promotion to lieutenants.

36 POLICE CITED FOR VALOR.

Recipients of Departmental Medals Also Are Announced.

Commendations for meritorious conduct performed in line of duty for two lieutenants, one sergeant, six detectives and twenty-seven patrolmen are contained in General Orders No. 25 issued yesterday at Police Headquarters. Twenty-four of these commendations are for arrests of men who had committed holdups or murder; two are for rescuing persons from drowning; four for refusing bribes; four for int

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Decline and Recovery in Stocks —Further Decline in the Franc.

The market which more than any other arrested attention yesterday was the market for French exchange. The franc declined nearly ¾ cent further, its low price of 4¾ cents comparing with 5 last week and 5¼ a month ago. This reflects a situation which is difficult to read, for the reason that the basis of the movement is psychological rather than tangible. Whatever program of relief and reform was in the mind of Caillaux, he has withheld the particulars of it, except so far as to say that he proposes a balanced budget. This is as much as to say that the French business community must wait until the plan has been worked out. Such an attitude is well enough in moments of popular calmness, but it serves very indifferently at a time of acute misgiving.

Loucheur's declaration that he will not support Caillaux until he knows the Minister's full financial program is the action of a very practical financier. Even England learned what may happen to the foreign exchanges and the value of the currency under such circumstances when the vague rumors of "inflation," at the end of 1923, were not set at rest by any clean-cut outline of the Government's purpose and when, therefore, sterling fell from $4.50 to $4.20 in less than three months. Probably a certain distrust of Caillaux himself has had a part in the objections to endorsing a blank check for his policies; the Finance Minister's past career has not been distinguished for political consistency. The cards will now have to be placed, face up, on the table—probably to the advantage of the whole situation. But until that is done it is not at all remarkable that very many holders of dollars or sterling should refuse to convert them into francs, except on progressively more inviting terms. Yesterday's weakness of the franc was accompanied by a fall in the Belgian and Italian rate, the lira going under the lowest rate touched on Tuesday before the announcement of Italy's New York credit.

Prices for many of the speculative industrial shares declined further on the Stock Exchange in yesterday's early business. That downward movement was followed by what Wall Street calls a "diversion," meaning that a bidding-up process began in a separate group, this time the "oil shares." The result of this familiar manoeuvre was to check the decline in most of the market and to leave the day's net changes exceedingly irregular. As a whole, the day's movement of prices had little or no significance. Nobody asked what was the natural trend of the market, but what this or that "pool" was likely to do next with its stock. The day's transactions fell to considerably the smallest total of any full business day since April; a fact which suggests that even the speculating public was not strongly attracted to the market and that professional experts were responsible for most of the orders.

Except for some weakness in French and Belgian bonds, which seemed to be sentimentally affected by the movement in exchange rates, the bond market was again extremely firm. Even the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul bonds manifested more steadiness than usually follows a reorganization plan. This particular plan has not been received with unqualified enthusiasm by any group of security holders, but none of the objections made to it is based on allegation of unfairness to holders of one kind of security for the benefit of holders of another. It may be said on the whole to have gained the necessary approval—except, no doubt, among believers in the mysterious "conspiracy to wreck the road."

No fresh light on the business situation was expected from the week-end mercantile reviews, and they give none. When one of the agencies tells us that "trade as a whole has lately expanded moderately" and another describes it as "fully fair and about equal to last year," these expert observers will at least not be accused of indulging in superlatives. Yet somehow, the parallelling of the distribution of goods with that of a year ago not only excites some incredulity in view of the altered economic position of the West and South, but leaves the puzzle unanswered, how what we call "trade" could have failed to be influenced by the increase of 300,000 cars, or nearly 9 per cent., in the railway loadings reported for the first four weeks of May.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money rose to 4½ per cent. in an advance from 3¾, and then 4, and matching the week's high, touched on Monday. The rise came in the afternoon, almost in the last hour, at which time it has been noticed quite recently that out-of-town balances are drawn down. Dealers believe that the market's tension is due to the shifting of funds abroad where investment in British securities offer bigger return than here. Time money continued dull, and on light demand quotations were unchanged at 3¾@4 per cent. Now and then a little money comes in that can be placed at 3¾, while renewals go at 4.

$134,086,000 BONDS MARKETED IN WEEK

Total the Largest of Any Week Since the Offering of the Dodge Securities.

FOREIGN ISSUES $77,250,000

Public Utilities Aggregate $33,400,000—State and Municipal Securities $12,911,000.

Foreign and public utility issues dominated the new bond offerings this week, resulting in a total of $134,086,000, or more than twice the figures of last week. This week's total was the largest since the week ended April 17, when the total was swelled by the Dodge debentures issue, and was the fourth largest week of the year. The offerings of this and last week, by groups, follows:

	This Week	Last Week
Foreign	$77,250,000
Public Utility	33,400,000	$36,152,000
State and Municipal	12,911,000	12,288,000
Industrial	6,000,000	5,300,000
Railroad	3,525,000	10,491,000
Farm Loan	1,000,000	1,500,000
Total	$134,086,000	$65,681,000

The foreign issues of the week were represented principally by Argentine and Norwegian issues, both of which were largely oversubscribed. These two issues totaled $75,000,000 and are believed to be the forerunners of other large foreign issues soon to be placed here.

The public utility issues came from many parts of the country and reflected recent broad activity in the shares of these corporations and talk of mergers. State and municipal offerings were plentiful, but were mostly for small amounts, while an American Linseed Company note issue represented the only industrial on the week's list.

Several good-sized issues are scheduled to be offered next week. Among these is an issue of $10,000,000 6 per cent. notes by the Schulte Real Estate Company, Inc., the newly organized holding company for the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, which plans extensive operations in New York City properties.

TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE.

Morris & Essex Considering a $35,000,000 Financing Plan.

The stockholders of the Morris & Essex Railroad Company, which is leased by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, will meet June 24 to vote on a resolution to issue $35,000,000 mortgage bonds, $11,582,000 of which are to be presented to the Lackawanna in reimbursement of capital expenditures. The remainder, according to the plan, will be sold to finance electrification of the line which handles the Lackawanna's commutation traffic in and out of Hoboken. The new issue is expected to pay 5 per cent.

By the terms of the lease to the Lackawanna the lessee was required to complete double tracking and undertake additions and betterments, and in return the Morris & Essex agreed to issue bonds to cover the advances of the Lackawanna.

W. H. Truesdale, in addressing stockholders on the proposed issue, said: "Further large expenditures will have to be made within the next ten years on Morris & Essex property in order to properly provide for the handling of increasing business and to meet changing conditions. These requirements, exclusive of those which may soon be necessary for electrification, are estimated at upward of $18,000,000."

ANOTHER NORWEGIAN ISSUE.

Bonds of the Nitrogen Company Are Being Placed Here.

Reports have been received by the Foreign Department of Moody's Investors Service that American bankers are placing privately in behalf of the Norwegian Nitrogen Company (Det Norske Aktieselskap) a ten-year 6 per cent. loan of $1,800,000. According to the advices, the bonds are a direct obligation of the company, which was incorporated in Norway in 1912 to smelt aluminum, and are further guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Aluminum Company of America. The latter owns a third of the 15,000,000 kronor capital stock of the Norwegian company.

The reports to Moody's follow what was described as "a rather appreciable investment by the Westinghouse Company in a Norwegian corporation engaged in the manufacture of telephone equipment and the flotation of a $30,000,000 loan in behalf of Norway."

$25,000,000 for Electrification.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company has spent more than $25,000,000 on suburban electrification to date, it was announced yesterday, and more than $37,000,000 will be needed to complete the project. Operation of the trains, it is said, will begin July 1, 1926, six months ahead of the ordinance requirement of the City of Chicago.

Texas Pacific Extra Dividend.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway Company declared an extra dividend yesterday of 3½ per cent. on the common stock and the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent., payable June 26 to stock of record June 15.

MAY TEXTILE PRICES LOWER IN ENGLAND

Some Minor Foodstuffs Also Cheaper and the Commodity Index Number Drops.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—The Economist's wholesale commodity prices index number dropped on June 1, 92 points below the May figure. It is now 4,456, compared with 4,550 in April and 4,855 at the end of December.

The chief slump was of 100 in textiles, with a decline also in some subsidiary foodstuffs.

There were increases in other sections, however. The figures are:

Cereals, meat	956
Other food products (tea, sugar, &c).	706
Textiles	1,261.5
Minerals	745
Miscellaneous (rubber, timber, oils, &c)	789.5
Total	4,458
Percentage of change	202.6

The figures by groups of articles are as follows:

	June 1, 1925.	May 1, 1925.	June 1, 1924.
Cereals and meats	956	944	912
Other food products	706	724.5	730.5
Textiles	1,261.5	1,362	1,357.5
Minerals	745	743	753
Miscellaneous	789.5	776.5	774

Other food products include tea, sugar, &c., and miscellaneous include rubber, timber and oils.

June 1, 1925	4,458	June 1, 1924	4,572
May 1, 1925	4,550	June 1, 1923	4,389

*Lowest point since the war.

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since last year's low point of April has now amounted to 573,784,000 gold marks, or $136,560,592. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,258,199,000 gold marks. They were increased to 2,537,780,000 on Dec. 30, 1916, which was the high point in its history.

Following is the Reichsbank's outstanding note circulation in reichsmark denominations:

May 30	2,608,797,000	926,875,545
May 23	2,202,812,000	749,339,802
May 15	2,269,525,000	763,027,295
May 7	2,286,499,000	780,856,439
April 30	2,451,772,000	776,050,639

This week's note circulation, reckoned in gold value, is at the highest point reached since the war. It stood at 2,406,580,000 marks on July 31, 1914, when the war began, and reached 5,045,899,000 at the end of 1914, when the mark was still quoted above 22 cents.

LOST SECURITIES CAMPAIGN GROWING

Plan to Give Publicity to Theft or Loss to Be Made Nation-Wide.

MORE HELP FROM BROKERS

Transfer Association Asks That Less Reliance Be Placed on "Stop Orders."

Steady progress is reported by members of the New York Stock Transfer Association in their campaign of publicity to reduce the losses, now running into millions of dollars yearly, from the theft or loss of securities. General cooperation is being given in the campaign, which includes advertising immediately on the report of a security robbery or loss, and the publication of a weekly list of missing securities, which will keep bankers, brokers and others on the look-out for dishonestly acquired securities.

The plan is aimed primarily at the education of the public to report promptly the loss of securities, but it is intended also to impress upon brokers the necessity of greater care in the matter of lost securities. The transfer agents intend to implant a better general understanding of the workings of the New York State uniform stock transfer law, which they say, while facilitating trade, has in some cases resulted in losses that might have been prevented.

B. S. Mantz, Treasurer of the Corporation Trust Company, said yesterday that a broker, after notifying the transfer agent of a loss of securities and requesting that a "stop" be entered against transfer, is likely to feel that his troubles are ended and to forget the incident. Actually, however, in many cases losses, trouble and litigation accrue. Under the workings of the State law, which is designed to protect innocent purchasers, an affidavit showing the circumstances of the loss is made, a bond is furnished in twice the par or market value, whichever is higher, of the lost securities, following which duplicate securities are issued. Trouble frequently comes later if the lost stock or bonds show up in the hands of a person declaring he is an innocent purchaser. Claim is made for the stock, the surety company makes good the claim by purchasing the number of shares required in the open market, and then looks for settlement to the broker or person who lost the stock in the original instance.

Thus, Mr. Mantz said, the loser of the securities must bear the loss and the immediate remedies of "stop orders," affidavits, and surety bonds are merely temporary expedients and never cure the situation unless the missing securities should fall to turn up in the hands of an innocent purchaser. In actual experience it is found that it is not difficult for stolen or lost securities to be negotiated. Even the largest banking institutions are able to show that they are innocent holders of stock pledged with them.

Mr. Mantz declared that losers of securities, and especially brokers, should rely less on "stop orders" and should make immediate and thorough efforts to recover the securities. Immediate advertising of such losses, Mr. Mantz said, should place purchasers on notice and especially banks, and thus reduce the risk of an innocent purchaser, or a criminal, establishing claim to the securities.

Persons losing or being robbed of securities are advised to telephone or telegraph immediately to the transfer agent of the institution handling the issue. A newspaper advertisement listing all details of the lost securities is immediately inserted, and bankers and others to whom the securities might be offered for sale or for a loan are put on their guard. The weekly lists will provide a means of checking up which will reduce the risk of dishonest persons realizing on the securities.

The New York transfer agents, who have connections in many parts of the country, propose to extend the plan until its application is nation-wide.

500 AT BOND CLUB OUTING.

Approximately five hundred bankers, investment bankers and bond dealers of the Wall Street district spent yesterday at the annual frolic of the New York Bond Club at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. The guests for the day also included a delegation from the Bond Club of Chicago. Favored with ideal weather the day was one of jubilation for the Wall Street bankers, who during the past year have experienced the most prosperous season in their history.

The chief event of the day was the golf match between the New York and Chicago clubs, which was won by the local team. It was composed of Schuyler Van Vechten, Mason Starring, R. L. Oakley, Caryl Sayre, C. E. Bacon and Clayton du Bosque. An exhibition tennis match was given by Dean Mathey and Jarl H. Behr against Dr. George King and Hugh G. M. Kelleher. Another feature of the program was the annual appearances of the Bawl Street Journal, a publication playing on the foibles of Wall Street.

About 450 men teed up for the annual golf tournament. The eighteen-hole medal play, Class A handicap, was won by John Linen with a gross score of 83 and a net of 71. The Class B handicap was won by R. C. Bortle, with a gross of 101 and a net of 71. The best gross score was turned in by Mason Starring who won possession of the golf cup for one year. A special prize for the best score of the Chicago players was won by H. B. Eldred.

U. G. I. INCREASES STOCK.

Directors Approve Addition of 133,406 Shares Common.

Stockholders of the United Gas Improvement Company at a special meeting held yesterday in Philadelphia approved the proposed increase in the capital stock from 1,521,456 shares of $50 par value to 1,654,862 shares. All of the increase will be in common stock.

Holders of both common and preferred stock have the right to subscribe between July 1 and July 28 at par, plus an amount equivalent to the dividend accrued at the rate of 8 per cent., or a total of $50.30 a share in cash to the extent of 10 per cent. of their holdings on June 12. Subscription warrants will be mailed June 27 and subscriptions for full shares are payable in full between July 1 and 28, inclusive.

BUILDS LARGE POWER LINE.

North American Company to Link Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Construction of Wisconsin's largest power transmission line has been started by the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company, a subsidiary of the North American Company., it was announced here yesterday. Two hundred miles of high-voltage line will connect the Lakeside steam-electric station at Milwaukee with the plants of the Peninsular Power Company in Northern Michigan.

The North American system will be able to bring surplus energy from its Northern Michigan hydroelectric stations into Greater Milwaukee and Fox River Valley, according to President Frank L. Dame. Power from Lakeside can be called upon to serve upper Michigan during periods of low water. Water power and coal will be saved, and Eastern Wisconsin will have a larger power reserve.

Deposits Drop and Borrowings Increase In Member Reserves' Report of May 27

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The principal changes in the condition of 736 reporting member banks in leading cities during the week ended May 27, as shown in the statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board, comprise a decline of $49,000,000 in net demand deposits, and increases of $65,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks, of $17,000,000 in reserve balances, and of $11,000,000 in loans and discounts.

The New York City banks reported a reduction of $11,000,000 in net demand deposits, and increases of $48,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks, of $19,000,000 in reserve balances and of $18,000,000 in loans and discounts.

Loans on stocks and bonds went up $35,000,000, of which $23,000,000 and $11,000,000, respectively were reported by banks in the New York and Cleveland districts. "All other" loans and discounts, largely commercial, fell off $19,000,000 in the Chicago district, $5,000,000 each in the Philadelphia and St. Louis and $4,000,000 in the Cleveland, these reductions being offset in part by an increase of $16,000,000 in the Boston district.

Investments of reporting members changed but slightly during the week, small declines in the New York, Richmond and Atlantic districts being nearly offset by increases in other districts.

Net demand deposits declined in all districts except Atlanta, Minneapolis and Kansas City, the principal reductions being: Chicago, $23,000,000; Philadelphia, $10,000,000, and New York, $9,000,000. Time deposits of reporting members went up $11,000,000, small increases being shown for most of the districts.

Of the aggregate increase of $65,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks, $46,000,000 was reported by banks in the New York district and $11,000,000 by banks in the Cleveland district.

A summary of changes in the principal assets and liabilities of reporting members during the week and the year ended May 27, 1925, follows:

TO STUDY INSURANCE COSTS

Automobile Chamber of Commerce Believes Methods Can Be Improved.

Charles Clifton, President of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, has been authorized to name a committee to study insurance costs and report on the advisability of the Chamber actively entering the insurance business, in order to reduce the cost of policies, called at present "an unnecessary burden on the automobilist." A company representative of the industry is to assist in carrying on the insurance business for the Chamber.

The announcement means that automobile makers of the country, if the plan goes into effect, will handle the major part of motor car insurance. The industry thinks that insurance methods can also be improved.

Colonel Clifton was re-elected President for the twenty-first time at the members' meeting. During his administration the output of the association has grown from a few thousand cars a year to nearly 4,000,000 annually.

210 FILMS FOR UNIVERSAL.

Company Will Spend $9,000,000 During Coming Year.

The Universal Pictures Company, Inc., will spend $9,000,000 on new productions during the coming year, according to a statement issued yesterday, including 48 feature pictures, 6 serials and 150 one and two reel films.

The motion picture industry is reported to be the most prosperous in several years, all of the larger companies showing good earnings.

MARKET AVERAGES.

American Locomotive was substituted yesterday for International Harvester in the list of stocks from which THE NEW YORK TIMES Stock Market Averages are computed. This change was made to overcome the difference in the price of United States Realty and Improvement, from which a stock dividend was deducted.

SCHULTE FORMS REAL ESTATE UNIT

Stores Interests Organize New Company as Adjunct to Regular Activities.

TO OFFER BONDS TO PUBLIC

$10,000,000 Flotation of 6 Per Cent. Securities Anticipated—Will Issue Common Stock.

Schulte Retail Stores interests have organized a new company, to be known as the Schulte Real Estate Company, Inc., to deal in real estate. The new company, though separate and distinct from the other Schulte companies, will be under the same management and control. It will handle all the real estate transactions of the Schulte organization, this line of business having grown to be an important adjunct of the stores company's activities.

A $10,000,000 issue of 6 per cent. bonds of the new company is expected to be offered to the public next week by Dillon, Read & Co. It is understood that an offering of common stock of the new corporation will be made simultaneously with the bond flotation. The new company, it is understood, will have $3,000,000 6 per cent. preferred stock and 500,000 shares of no par common stock. The bonds, which will have a ten-year maturity, will carry a bonus of common stock, though the majority of both common and preferred will be held by D. A. Schulte, Inc., the principal operating company of Schulte Retail Stores Corporation.

The Schulte interests already own nearly $15,000,000 worth of high-grade New York City property. The new capital is designed to permit the prompt extension of their operations. The new company will buy properties in fee, while the other Schulte organizations will discontinue this practice and will deal exclusively in leaseholds.

David A. Schulte, President of the Schulte companies, said yesterday that real estate transactions totalling only $3,000,000 of Schulte capital had contributed practically $1,000,000 annually toward Schulte net earnings for the last three years. He said that Schulte sales now were running about 11 per cent. ahead of last year, when sales were 15 per cent. larger than in 1923. The Schulte Retail Stores Corporation is the second largest distributer of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco in the United States, having 260 stores in nearly 100 cities.

TO PAY A STOCK DIVIDEND.

Anglo-American Oil Shareholders Approve Directors' Plans.

Stockholders of the Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd., at a special meeting in London yesterday, approved plans to enable the directors to declare a 33½ per cent. stock dividend. They also approved the plan under which employes of the company may subscribe for the corporation's securities and the issuance of trust certificates in the United States against share warrants, so that dividends may be paid by check in this country instead of through collections of numbered coupons, which is in conformity with British law.

Directors of the Silver Coalition Mines Company have declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 21. The previous dividend was 20 cents a share.

The Salt Creek Consolidated Oil Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share on the capital stock, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 15.

According to reports received in the financial district from the West yesterday, directors of the New Bradford Oil Company declared an extra dividend of 1 per cent. on the capital stock, in addition to the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. Declaration of this dividend, however, could not be confirmed locally.

MIDDLE STATE STOCK UP.

Rises to $3 on Reports of Favorable Developments.

The capital stock of the Middle States Oil Corporation, in receivership, sold up to $3 a share on the Stock Exchange yesterday. This price represents an advance of $2 a share, or 200 per cent., compared with the price of $1 a share quoted earlier in the week. Trading was unusually active.

In responsible quarters yesterday it was stated that the receivers were preparing a statement of the operations during the past year, which will be submitted to the court by July 1. This report, it was intimated, would be favorable from the standpoint of the operations of the various subsidiary organizations.

In regard to the outlook for the parent organization, the Middle States Oil Corporation, it was stated that the outlook was still very uncertain. The chief factor standing in the way of an early settlement of the company's affairs is the Government's claim for $11,000,000 in back taxes. Until a ruling is made on the Government's position in this matter, it is believed, the stockholders of the parent company will not know where they stand.

RAILROAD REPORTS GAIN.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company reports current assets of $10,166,448 and current liabilities of $4,001,673 at the close of 1924, compared with $11,312,718 and $11,678,318 respectively at the close of 1923. The income account already published shows a deficit of $3,604,719 after taxes, interest, rentals, &c., against a deficit of $2,854,909 in 1923.

The report comprises eleven months and nineteen days' operation by T. H. Beacom, receiver, from Jan. 1 to Dec. 19, 1924, and twelve days' operation by the corporation. Following a receivership in 1923 the road was auctioned on Oct. 29, 1924, and purchased by the Western Pacific, which later disposed of a half interest to the Missouri Pacific. The sale was confirmed by the Court on Nov. 20, 1924.

The Bankers Trust Company has been appointed registrar of voting trust certificates representing first preferred, second preferred and common stock of the White Rock Mineral Springs Company.

Frank B. Cahn & Co. announce that Henry S. Dinkelspiel has become associated with them.

On and after June 10, 1925, the Bankers Trust Company will be prepared to pay a first and final dividend on 7 per cent. notes of the Liberty Oil Company, Inc., series A, B, C, D and E.

The Kelvinator Corporation is discussed in a pamphlet report issued by Noyes & Jacobus.

William Carnegie Ewen has prepared a summary and analysis of the proposed plan of reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company.

Directors of the American Exchange Securities Corporation yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. payable July 1 to stockholders of record, June 15, 1925. Kenneth Durland was appointed Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French Franc Drops ¼ Cent to 4.65½ Cents—Continentals Weak, Sterling Firm.

In a movement which paralleled the stampede in March, 1924, when the French franc broke to the lowest point in history at 3.42 cents, heavy and unremitting offerings of that bill yesterday drove it to 4.62½ cents, an overnight decline of one-quarter of a cent. Selling was chiefly speculative with New York just a little more aggressive than the Continent. Bankers and brokers placed the cause of the break to the receipt of news from abroad that the French capital was shaky, and that the Finance Minister intended to convert short-term bonds into currency which would bring inflation, higher prices and depreciated paper. Another force behind the debacle was the heavy selling by a prominent international banking house, particularly in the afternoon after a morning of buying.

The market opened at a decline of 3 points, at 4.87¼ cents, tapered almost immediately to 4.78, whence there was a sheer decline of 4.70 before any business was reported. In the interval every one was a seller and the franc could be bought at any figure. There was a rally then to 4.71, following which it dipped to 4.65½, with a recovery to 4.70 cents at the close. Big blocks were turned over, a curious incident of the movement being that as little as a quarter-million francs, on the decline, resulted in a wide-open break, while an amount several times greater was quickly snapped up on the rebound.

With the exception of sterling, which held firm at 34.85¾, other Continentals were weak. Italian dropped 3¼ points to 3.95 cents; Belgian franc was at a new low at 4.03¾ cents, with Spanish, Swiss and Scandinavians nervous and irregular. The Chinese currencies reacted, but South Americans were firm.

EXPECTS A SHIFT IN FRANCE'S TRADE

Balance in the Next Few Months Likely to Favor Imports, D. S. Green Says.

EXPORTS LED IN 1924

Relation of Figures for Foreign Commerce Later to Be Influenced by Course of the Franc.

A reversal of the French export balance in favor of imports in the next few months is not improbable, because most of the heavy industries of France report a marked falling off in the volume of orders from abroad. In addition, French grain importers have not yet called heavily for deliveries to make up the crop deficits at home. This was the view expressed here yesterday by David S. Green, Assistant Trade Commissioner for the United States Department of Commerce at Paris, in which he referred to the first favorable visible trade balance for France in nineteen years—that of 1924. This balance amounted last year to 1.3 billion francs, and has been strengthened in the first four months of 1925.

Whether this relation between exports and imports will be maintained throughout the year was admitted to depend largely on the course of the franc. Mr. Green offered some interesting figures to show the extent to which French commerce had responded to abnormal factors, such as franc depreciation, during the last year. These figures are as follows:

VALUE (in million francs).

	Exports.	Imports.
Monthly average, 1913	572	702
Monthly average, 1923	2,536	2,724
Monthly average, 1924	3,454	3,344
April, 1924	4,027	3,292
April, 1925	3,537	3,050
QUANTITY (in thousands of metric tons).
Monthly average, 1913	1,840	3,685
Monthly average, 1922	2,075	4,572
Monthly average, 1924	2,449	4,708
April, 1924	2,500	4,024
April, 1925	2,297	3,658

Mr. Green assigned as the principal factors which were responsible for the success of France in maintaining its favorable visible trade balance, first, the progress of industrial reconstruction in the war-devastated regions; second, recovery of the Rhineland provinces; third, steady depreciation of the franc, and fourth, the recent incorporation of the Sarre Basin in the French customs area.

"In mapping out its reconstruction program," said Mr. Green, "France gives precedence to rebuilding of factories, which are now equipped throughout with modern machinery. The principal industries in this area, that is, textiles, coal mining and metallurgical, have been restored to their pre-war capacity in most cases, and the use of more modern machinery permits an important cutting down of labor and other production costs.

While the three Rhineland provinces represent hardly 3 per cent. of the area of France, they are industrialized to a point which causes them almost double France's textile-producing capacity and increase its iron ore production several times over, he said. Inasmuch as the Versailles Treaty provision that products of Alsace and Lorraine be admitted into Germany duty free expires this year, industries in those provinces are suffering from the failure of France and Germany to conclude a commercial treaty, according to Mr. Green. The present temporary arrangement now in effect is far from satisfactory, he said.

As the franc has depreciated in the last two years, quotations of French manufactures have naturally become increasingly attractive abroad and had a direct beneficial effect on the volume of French exports, though at the same time increasing the spread between the volume and paper franc value of French imports.

Regarding the efforts of the new Finance Minister, Caillaux, to operate the Government from its financial difficulties, Mr. Green said that these continue to monopolize debate in Parliament and discussion in the French press. Confidence in M. Caillaux's ability as a financier has apparently been sufficient to lessen the fears of a continued franc depreciation. Mr. Green declined to comment on the reports that what Caillaux was really seeking was a devaluation of the franc in order to stabilize it around 5 cents, the near present level of the currency.

ROADS TO PAY RECORD TAX.

TRENTON, N. J., June 5.—New Jersey railroads this year will pay $16,665,-536.53 as tax on first and second class property. The total valuation fixed by the State Tax Board on both classes of the property is $448,202,250. This is a jump of $8,164,383 over the aggregate valuation for 1924. The tax to be paid is an increase of $372,520.18 over last year and the largest yet levied.

Topping the list is the Pennsylvania, which will pay a tax of $4,584,388.56 on a property valuation of $126,236,967. The second largest assessment is against the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the valuation being $97,154,539, and the tax $3,631,429.89.

First-class property, which includes the main stems, franchises and tangible personality, is apportioned at $262,250,658. The tax on this total will be $9,776.-94.09.

The total valuation of second-class property, which includes all property used for railroad purposes other than the main stems, is $186,551,601, and the tax yield will be $6,888,500.60.

BOSTON TO HAVE BIG GARAGE

The Largest in the East, It Will Be Chiefly for Trucks.

Plans for the erection in Boston of the largest garage in the East were announced yesterday. The plans call for financing to be offered shortly by Boston bankers. With one exception, the structure, which will be for storage of trucks principally, will, it is said, be the largest of its kind in the country.

It will be erected on a plot owned by the North Terminal Corporation, of which George Putnam is President and John Heard is Treasurer, on Commercial Street, between Hull and Prince Streets, at the head of Charlestown Bridge. The corporation has leased the property to Edward W. Malley, a garage operator.

Get Funds to Pay on Chinese Loan.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced yesterday that funds had been received to pay the coupon due June 15 on the American, British and French issues of Imperial Chinese Government 5 per cent Hukuang Railways loan and also to pay the bonds of the same series due last December for redemption on June 15. No advices have been received as yet from China regarding coupons and drawn bonds of the German issue on that date.

New Haven Railroad Appointment.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company announced the appointment yesterday of W. L. Bean as mechanical manager to succeed L. R. Reed, resigned. Mr. Bean has been with the New Haven since 1916. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

WOOLWORTH REPORTS SALES OF $18,509,867

Big Gain Over May, 1924—Kress and Metropolitan Stores' Dealings Also Jump.

The F. W. Woolworth Company for May reports gross sales of $18,509,867 against $17,676,750 in the same month last year. For the first five months of 1925 the company reports gross sales of $83,376,153 against $75,806,490 in the corresponding period last year. H. T. Parson, President of the company, commenting upon the company's showing, said that the gain of 1,397 stores operated in May was $1,433,117 or 8.39 per cent. compared with last year, and for the five months the gain amounted to $7,569,662, or 9.99 per cent. Of the total gain for May in the 1,276 old stores contributed $353,487, or 3.12 per cent., and for the five months, $5,310,213 or 4.37 per cent. Not one of the company's thirteen districts reported less sales than last year, despite the fact that there was one less Saturday and one less business day in May this year.

The S. H. Kress & Co. reports May sales amounting to $3,545,384 against $3,017,061, a gain of 17.5 per cent. For the five months ended with May the company reports gross sales of $15,897,431 against $13,258,010, a gain of 19.9 per cent.

The Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., for May reports gross sales of $627,208 against $548,579, a gain of 14.33 per cent. For the five months sales aggregated $2,756,381, against $2,530,403, a gain of 8.93 per cent.

TWO DAYTON BANKS MERGE.

City National Absorbs Dayton National—Resources Now $19,000,000

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, June 5.—The merger of the City National Bank and the Dayton National Bank, through which the City National becomes an institution with resources in excess of $19,000,000, was announced tonight. The merger will be effective July 1, although the actual consolidation will not take place until July 15.

What is now the City National was founded in 1814 under the name of the Dayton Manufacturing Company. In July, 1831, the name was changed to The Dayton Bank. In 1813 it became a branch of the Ohio State Bank, and in February, 1865, began operating as the Dayton National Bank under the Bank act of Congress. It obtained its national bank charter in 1883 as the City National. During the panics of 1847, 1877 and 1861 it was adequate for every call made upon its resources. The last bank statement showed resources of $15,000,000. The Dayton National has more than $4,000,000 resources.

RAIL NET INCOME RISES.

Class 1 Roads Report an Increase of $3,900,709 in April.

Class I railroads report gross revenues during April of $473,496,550, a decrease of $1,735,680, compared with the same month last year, according to the compilations of the Bureau of Railway Economics from the reports filed by the carriers with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Operating expenses totaled $370,622,400, a reduction of $7,203,500, although the railroads carried approximately 5 per cent. more freight this April than they did in April, 1924.

Net railway operating income of the Class I roads was $66,189,236, compared with $62,298,527 in April of last year or an increase of $3,900,709. Net railway operating income for the first four months amounted to $270,104,080, which is said to be at the annual rate of return of 4.38 per cent. on property investment on the carrier's books, compared with $265,669,375, or 4.46 per cent. for the same period last year.

Carriers in the eastern district had a net operating income of $38,960,550, compared with $34,448,630 the year before; carriers in the southern district $12,135,950, compared with $11,020,880 last year and carriers in the western district $15,102,290, compared with $16,829,000 last year.

Youngest New Haven Executive at Odds With Directors.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—Harry W. Whipple, for twelve years President of the New Haven Merchants Bank, today resigned after sending the directors a letter saying that he could not agree with them in matters of general policy and deemed it wise to retire. In his stead Samuel A. York, who has been a director in a large number of the Tenney public utilities of Eastern Massachusetts, was chosen his successor. Mr. Whipple was the youngest bank President of this city, having been promoted rapidly from subordinate positions. The directors passed resolutions of regret at Mr. Whipple's resignation, which they said was unexpected.

EMBASSY AID TELLS MEXICAN PROGRESS

Calles Regime Has Paid Debts to Employes and Is Paying Merchants.

BIG INCREASE IN IMPORTS

40,000,000 Pesos in Treasury, He Says, and Is Optimistic on Foreign Obligations.

Information on present industrial and financial conditions in Mexico was provided yesterday in an interview with Dr. Alexander V. Dye, commercial attaché of the American Embassy at Mexico City, who is here with several other representatives of the Department of Commerce on annual leave or business.

Dr. Dye pointed out that since the Calles Administration took office the Government had cleared off its indebtedness to employes resulting from inability to pay back salaries, had accumulated 40,000,000 pesos in the Treasury and had started on April 28 to pay off accumulated debts to merchants on a monthly percentage basis.

The increase in exports from the United States to Mexico in the first four months of 1924 was about 40 per cent. greater than for the same period of 1924 or 1923, he said. He made a point of the fact that in that period of 1923 there was no revolution to interfere with trade, although there was trouble of this kind in the four months of last year, and that the increase this year over those two years was about the same. He was optimistic for Mexico's eventual ability to meet her foreign obligations, amounting under the Lamont-De la Huerta agreement to about $508,000,000. The Government's income is now about 300,000,000 pesos a year, he said.

Credit problems in Mexico were not troubling the old established businesses, he declared. By experience, they have learned not to make commitments when credit conditions were not favorable. The present credit problem principally concerns new businesses. Dr. Dye thought there was an impression in the United States that Mexico lacked any stabilized, conservative business element. He said he desired to refute such a belief. Conservative houses are doing the bulk of Mexico's business, he said, and without recourse to excessive credit demands.

What Mexico needed, he said, to increase her consumptive powers for foreign goods was the development of her own natural resources, which would depend upon the further introduction of foreign capital.

Carlton Jackson, commercial attaché at the embassy in Havana, Cuba, also now in New York, said that the enlarged sugar cane output in Cuba this year had created an unfavorable price situation, with raw sugar alongside the mills about 2¾ cents a pound. The result of this, he said, was to enlarge the natives' interest in diversification. The crop of 1923 was about 1,200,000 tons under the present sugar yield, but the planters got $100,000,000 more for it than they are getting for the present crop.

STEEL BOOM IN EUROPE.

Construction Activity Believed Responsible for Increased Demand.

While American steel production has declined from 85 per cent. at the first of the year to approximately 70 per cent. of capacity, due largely to the slowing down of construction in the United States, the iron and steel industry in Central Europe has shown a reverse tendency as a result of improving European credit. This is the view expressed by F. J. Lisman & Co., industrial and railroad bankers, in a bulletin yesterday.

Deferred construction in Central Europe is now entering a period of activity, the company says, calling attention to Associated Banks of Vienna figures on Austrian steel production in the first quarter. This increased 636 per cent. in pig iron production over the same period of last year, 555 per cent. in wrought iron, 329 per cent. in rails, 97 per cent. in steel and 30 per cent. in iron sheets.

The Russian demand for steel in Central Europe is described as becoming vigorous, "and it is to some extent responsible for the increased production."

$7,674,650 Mortgages Accepted.

At a meeting yesterday the Executive Committee of the Lawyers Mortgage Company accepted mortgages aggregating $7,674,650, distributed throughout Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Westchester.

ITALY WON'T MOVE TO FUND DEBT NOW

Finance Minister Tells Senate the Country Is Not in a Position to Do So at Present.

ROME, June 5 (AP).—Finance Minister De Stefani announced in the Italian Senate today that Italy at the present moment was not in a position to consider the funding of war debts.

"No systematization of the interallied war debts can be accepted," he declared, "unless subordinated to the possibility of payment, and such possibility can only be offered by the financial situation of the State and by the budget of international payments, which budget today cannot support any further burden."

Referring to the credit of $50,000,000 which the Government had arranged with J. P. Morgan & Co., the Finance Minister asserted that it was not a debt and could not be transformed into a debt, as, he added, the officials of the banks of emission handling the credit were governed by rigid instructions not to use more credit than could be covered immediately to avoid the risk of needing gold covering.

Signor Schanzer, former Foreign Minister, said that a creditor, when discussing the amount and method of debt payment, must consider Italy's condition, adding: "Without a great windfall there would be no possibility of immediate payment."

He agreed with Senator Ricco on the necessity of obtaining a moratorium permitting no discussion of the question of the payment of interest or amortization for ten years, after which there could be provision for wiping out the debts by instalment payments over a long period. He declared that Italy eventually would have to return to the gold basis, but that internal and international conditions were not yet ripe; it was necessary to await considerable deflation and certain revaluation of the lira.

Senator Ricci took Finance Minister De Stefani to task for not having reduced circulation as he had promised early in the Spring. Despite the Minister's promises, he said, the circulation was still above 18,000,000,000 lire.

Referring to debts, Senator Ricci remarked:

"If we say we are rich, Senator Borah will want us to pay 100 per cent., if we say we are poor, the value of the lira suffers on the exchange market."

NICKEL PLATE REPORT.

Shows Net Working Capital of $8,275,713 on March 31.

The condensed balance sheet of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company (Nickel Plate) for the quarter ended March 31 shows current assets of $16,828,108 and current liabilities of $8,552,395, leaving net working capital of $8,275,713, compared with $4,849,554 for the first quarter of 1924.

St. Joseph Lead Shares Not Ex-Rights Until Further Notice.

The Committee on Securities of the Stock Exchange has ruled that the capital stock of the St. Joseph Lead Company shall not be quoted ex. the 25 per cent. stock dividend on June 9, nor until further notice. The committee also ruled that Western Pacific common and preferred stocks shall not be quoted ex. the stock dividend distribution on June 30, nor until further notice.

In regard to the transactions in V. Vivaudou, Inc., stock of no par value, the committee ruled that transactions including borrowed and loaned contracts may be settled by delivery of either stock of no par value or of certificates of $10 par value each.

Mortgage Company Retires Bonds.

Completing a program adopted several years ago, the United States Mortgage and Trust Company has retired the whole of its outstanding first mortgage trust bonds, amounting to $624,000, which were secured by a pledge of mortgages held by a trustee. The company has discontinued the sale of mortgage trust bonds and now sells to investors specific first mortgages or participations in first mortgages trusteed in its trust department.

TRADE IRREGULAR, BUT ON UPGRADE

High Temperature Stimulates Clothing Sales, but Are Harmful to Crops.

A DROP IN PRODUCTION

Cotton Goods Making Is Slowing Up—Pig Iron Output the Smallest Since May.

Although trade continues irregular, being variously affected by the high Summer temperatures, the mercantile agencies report an improvement in sentiment in some lines. According to Dun's Review, there is more disposition now to place emphasis on the favorable features, rather than on the unsatisfactory aspects, and evidence multiplies that trade as a whole has lately expanded moderately.

Trade generally is in a more wholesome position, says the paper, "for large inventories are the exception and the absence of speculative excesses tends to act as a safeguard against sudden reaction. Although complaints of narrow profit margins are not uncommon and decrease in orders has caused curtailment of production in certain industries, there has been a recent check to the declining trend of some markets and also some increase in buying.

"The latter condition is true of both pig iron and steel, while the current week developed more demand for dry goods, the retail distribution of which was quickened by the intense heat in the East, the Middle West and in some other sections of the country. The abnormally high temperatures, however, had a depressing effect on other activities, causing temporary suspension of some manufacturing operations. Sudden changes in the weather have impeded the progress of crops and resulted in considerable damage, but the financial status of the farmers, particularly in the grain regions of the West and Northwest, is better than for several years."

Bradstreet's says in part:

"Among the industries' features are the evidences that the peak of automobile output was touched in April, and that May saw a smaller production. Cotton goods making shows signs of slowing at some Southern as well as Northern mill centres. May pig iron registered the smallest production of any month since November, although larger than a year ago, and there are reports of a slowing in building at some centres, which is reflected in price concessions in materials.

"Measures of movement, such as prices, showed a rally in commodities in May after declines of four months, with advances in grains, live stock, provisions and miscellaneous products, particularly rubber, more than offsetting declines in cotton and cotton goods and other textiles.

WHEAT HAS A BULGE BUT THEN DECLINES

PUBLIC IS BUYING CORN

December Makes a Small Gain—Oats and Rye Likewise Go Up.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 5.—What was regarded as eleventh-hour buying by the public was instrumental in causing a bulge of 2¼ to 4½ cents in wheat futures at the start to a new high on the crop for the September and December, while July touched $1.76⅜, or within 2¾ cents of the best figure of the season. The bulge brought heavy and aggressive selling, headed by local traders, who were impressed by the fact that values were up 11¼ to 13¾ cents from the low of Tuesday and were disposed to take profits.

While the buying by commission houses was persistent, so was the selling, and the finish showed net gains of only ⅜ to 1¼ cents, a rally coming toward the last on short covering by "the pit" element.

Barring the possibility of local thunderstorms in parts of the West and Southwest, the forecast held out little hope of relief from the present hot wave or a breaking of the drought. South Dakota and Montana had good rains, but hot winds again prevailed in the Southwest.

First threshing returns from Oklahoma showed a yield of around fourteen bushels per acre, when only ten to twelve had been expected.

A decided acceleration of red Winter wheat has developed, with sales at St. Louis as high as $2.03, and a little miller paid 25 cents over July, or $1.93½ for a car on track here, an advance of 5 cents in the basis. Charters were made for 55,000 bushels to Montreal.

Primary arrivals today were 781,000 bushels; week ago, 1,076,000; last year, 661,000. Shipments were 844,000 bushels; week ago, 1,072,000; last year, 671,000.

Public buying was strongly in evidence in December corn and in September and December oats, the continued dry and hot weather being the main influence.

The new corn crop is not, it is said, making the progress it should, due to the dry soil, while oats are reported as going back rapidly in many sections of the Central West.

Primary arrivals of corn were 882,000 bushels; week ago, 1,090,000; last year, 652,000, and shipments, 610,000 bushels; week ago, 593,000; last year, 741,000.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Spot Cotton Continues Higher—Now at Substantial Recovery From Recent Low Point.

Feature of the trading in cash staples yesterday was the continued strength in spot cotton, which rose 35 points to 24.70 cents. At this point the staple stands at a gross advance of 125 points over the price established last Tuesday, the day of the Government crop report. Elsewhere prices were only slightly changed.

Files Incorporation Papers.

Articles of incorporation of the Flying Machine Corporation of America were filed with the County Clerk of Hudson County, Jersey City, N. J., yesterday. The capital stock is $500,000, of which $5,000 has been subscribed by Julius von Waldy, said to be the inventor of a new type airplane.

ANOTHER RISE LIFTS COTTON $2 PER BALE

July Sells Near 24 Cents, Highest Since May 4, and List Gains 35 to 39 Points.

DRY WEATHER CHIEF CAUSE

Under the cumulative effects of dry weather in the South and increasing nervousness on the part of a short interest in the July position, cotton advanced $2 a bale yesterday, final prices being 35 to 39 points higher than Thursday. July sold at highest figures since May 4 and within a few points of 24 cents. Though the Liverpool exchange was closed, foreign interest bought during the morning and commission house traders continued to reduce outstanding obligations. Price fluctuations increased in range, an early rise of 25 points being followed by a decline of 40 and this in turn by a rise of 50 points before the close.

Week-end figures showed that spinners have already taken over 13,000,000 bales this season or 2,750,000 in excess of last year to date. Exports for the week were double those of a year ago and aggregate 7,832,000 for the season. Combined port and interior stocks are only 70,000 bales over the quantity held a year ago.

A substantial volume of overnight buying orders were received by various commission houses as a direct result of Thursday's sharp rise in prices. Many of them were in July, where liquidation and selling had proved the heaviest during the severe break several weeks ago. When old crop months went into new low ground below 23½ cents, where each price recession had been halted throughout the Winter, an extensive long interest was sold out and pressure carried July around 21⅝ cents. With dealers paying heavy premiums for good staple cotton, with exports still remaining heavy and interior stocks less than a year ago, the demand from trade sources disclosed a speculative short interest, which has been hurriedly reducing obligations the past few days. The rapid rise of a cent a pound in forty-eight hours brought in outside covering orders for execution on the call yesterday and July sold above 23¾ cents. This strength advanced late months and new crops rose a quarter of a cent in early trading.

A block of October for sale at 23½ cents halted the morning advance and with showers predicted for Oklahoma, West Texas and the Panhandle region a setback of 40 points followed. As July sold under 23½ cents, however, the quantity of contracts for sale diminished and when the covering of July was resumed during the afternoon prices rose rapidly. The execution of every buying order in July served to create buying in new crops and the whole market advanced to highest levels of the session. July sold within a few points of 24 cents, while December rose to 23½ cents, with the list closing at the top.

Statistics showed 62,000 bales in sight, against 54,000 last year, making 14,254,000, against 10,875,000 last year. Spinners took 184,000, against 141,000 last year, making 13,090,000 for the season, against 10,927,000 last year. The visible supply decreased 132,000 compared with 86,000 decrease last year, leaving the world's visible supply of American cotton 2,146,000, against 1,418,000 a year ago.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
July	23.70	23.95	23.83	23.91-95	23.56

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, sales 1,007 bales at 24.85c, 25 points advance; New Orleans, sales 282 bales at 24.85c, 25 points advance; Savannah, sales 234 bales at 24.73c, 41 points advance; Augusta, sales 370 bales at 25.13c, 38 points advance; Memphis, sales 600 bales at 24.00c, unchanged; Houston, sales 317 bales at 24.45c, 15 points advance; Little Rock, 25.00c, 50 points advance; Dallas, 24.50c, 45 points advance.

Rubber Market Reacts.

Crude rubber market reacted yesterday, realizing sales by those who have handsome profits at these prices sending the general market sharply lower. Spot ribbed smoked sheets yielded 1 cent, to 77 cents, while other leading grades dropped from 1 to 5 cents per pound.

The future market was also weak, options following the break in spot stock. Straits tin was quoted at 73 cents; first late straight was 76 cents, and amber No. 3 and fine up-river proportionately lower. Reclaimed rubber market was steady, with tire and shoes at 9 cents, and tubes at 13 cents per pound.

London was moderately firm, showing a gain of ½d at 39d.

QUEENS HARD HIT BY WATER FAMINE

WOODSIDE CHIEF SUFFERER

Virtually All Houses There Lack Water From 7 A. M. Until 8 P. M., Builder Declares.

The Borough of Queens for the last three days has been suffering from a daytime water famine and yesterday the condition became so serious that a delegation of residents appealed for help to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. Woodside has been especially hard hit, with its 2,500 residents and 1,000 pupils at Public School 11, suffering.

According to Queens officials the situation has arisen through "misuse" of hose by persons seeking to prevent lawns from being burned up by the heat. Although hose permits are restricted to certain hours, some have been allowing a hose to run all day on lawns. The twenty-six inspectors attached to the Long Island City bureau of the department were sent out yesterday in an effort to nab persons violating the terms of the hose permits.

Woodside residents, however, had a different explanation of the famine. They said the city had taken no steps to replace the inadequate water mains of the Citizens' Water Supply Company. The city purchased the lines of the private company two years ago and, although the mains were ample then, the population has outgrown the facilities.

At the time the city took over the company's three-inch mains, the public school was the largest building in the Woodside section. Since then one Woodside company alone has erected nearly ten blocks of three-story dwellings, all now occupied. Complaint was made that the mains were built to serve hundreds, whereas thousands now live in the area.

"There is no water in practically any of the houses in this district from 7 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night," said George Mathews, one of the leading Woodside builders. "There is widespread suffering. The school teachers are complaining because children are sent to school without having their faces and hands washed. This is no fault of the parents. Every possible measure has been adopted by the housewives to keep water in their homes during the day for cooking and drinking purposes."

Clerk Says Mains Are Ample.

E. B. Powers, Assistant Chief Clerk in the Queens branch of the department, said that facilities were ample for the territory and pointed out that complaints of a shortage were coming in from "throughout the borough," proving that it was not the Woodside mains that were responsible for conditions. He said that Commissioner James Butler had conferred yesterday morning with Borough Engineer Lanes with a view to opening another pumping station as a relief step.

"There is no danger," said Mr. Powers, "and the whole thing is due entirely to misuse of hose. During the present hot spell people with hose permits have been filling their lawn pools, letting the water run from the hose flowing out from lawns into the gutter and otherwise indulging in excessive use of hose."

He explained that permits to residents provided they could use hose for sprinkling lawns or sidewalks only between 7 P. M. and 8 A. M. from April 1 to Nov. 30.

"The use of the hose during any other hours than those specified in the permit is a violation," he added, "and we have brought persons to court where fines as high as $20 have been imposed.

"There is no doubt that persons during this hot spell have indulged in widespread and flagrant violations of the 'hose hours.' It is this sudden demand that has cut off water for a time. There is no doubt that many persons are suffering from water shortage.

Forced to Get Supply in Pails.

"In the house where I live, for instance, persons living on the third floor are without water during the day and tenants have to bring the water up in containers from the lower floors. We have launched a vigorous campaign to halt the hose nuisance, but we must appeal to the public to cooperate."

Condius M. Sheehan, in charge of the Brooklyn water supply, said that his office had not received complaints about failure of supply. He said that he doubted whether hose users in various sections of the borough, particularly in the Flatbush section, where there are many lawns, were overdoing the sprinkling. He admitted, however, that water pressure at times indicated the setting of small boys who opened fire hydrants to get a free bath. Commissioner Sheehan said that he had asked the police to suppress the urchins.

RANKS LEE WITH NAPOLEON.

General Maurice Says Allies Should Have Used His Methods.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 5.—The United States, in the opinion of one of the best known British writers on military subjects, can boast of a military leader as great as Napoleon or Alexander the Great. He was General Robert E. Lee, and the writer who vouches for him is Major Gen. Sir Frederic Maurice, Director of Military Operations on the Imperial General Staff in the World War.

"Had the Allies in the World War studied more closely Lee's methods in 1864," says General Maurice in the preface of his book "Robert E. Lee the Soldier," "they would have solved more easily many of the problems with which that war confronted them. While this book was in press I learned that the French General Staff has come to a similar conclusion and had begun in the present year for the first time the study of the history of the American Civil War at the Ecole de Guerre."

It is more than twenty years since General Maurice began a study of the famous Confederate commander's military career, and he visited the fields of all Lee's battles. He considers Lee the greater, except perhaps in organizing ability, of Wellington and places him in Napoleon's list of great commanders as the equal of Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar, Gustavus, Turenne, Eugene and Frederick, as well as Napoleon himself.

LIGHTER WORK FOR MAYO.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., June 5.—In spite of the scorching heat, Virginius Mayo, formerly a wealthy manufacturer, was busy carrying brick and stone today, but on account of his age, Warden Lewis E. Lawes announced he would find an easier job for him.

He has not complained at all," said Warden Lawes, "but he is 66 years old and it is too hard work for a man of his years in this kind of weather, anyway."

Mayo is engaged in tearing down an old brick and stone factory. He is helping to remove, clean and carry away the material as the work of demolishing the old piano factory progresses.

Mayo, after a three years fight in the courts against going to prison, reached there fifteen days ago to start a one-year term for bigamy.

Cheek on Harvard Student Council.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 5 (AP).—Marion A. (Dolph) Cheek, captain-elect of the Harvard football team, was chosen one of the student council today. He will hold office until early next Fall, when additional members will be elected to the council.

SAYS COOLIDGE THRIFT HAS HELPED BUSINESS

Bankers' Association Head Declares It Caused Sound Buying by the People.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 5.—Coolidge economy, instead of being responsible for slackened business, has brought a sound element into the times, it was declared here tonight by William E. Knox, President of the American Bankers' Association. Business men, he said, who blame the public's economical mood for unsatisfactory conditions in their enterprises are "hiding behind a sham excuse." Mr. Knox said in part:

"If it had not been for the sound element of economy that the President had brought into the times the nation would now be in danger of a real depression.

"Of course, in the first place, in the accusation that Coolidge economy hurts business there was an obvious distortion of fact. The President's economy program has had to do with economy in Government, with reduced public expenditures in order to make possible reduced taxes. Will any one carp at that kind of economy?

"He has not meddled with personal economy or private purchasing. But nevertheless, in so far as his sound, sane administration of public business has been copied by our citizens and applied to their personal finance, it has been good for business and not bad. A major cause of the depression phases of business cycles in the past has been extravagance and waste. Wastefulness in personal habits by our people is a greater economic burden on business than Government taxation. On the other hand the foundation of a sound economic condition for the country is the personal economy of the masses of our people—the prudence of the individual multiplied by the millions of our population.

"Business men who blame sound economical programs for unsatisfactory conditions in their business are hiding behind a sham excuse. They must adjust their operations to conform to the present day prudent public mood—not expect the public to adjust itself to their exigencies. Profits must come from economic service to the public welfare. As a matter of fact business today is good. There is no boom, but business is normally good and profitable where it is conducted efficiently and in keeping with public requirements for goods.

"There are indications that the present relatively moderate pace at which business is going reflects a great change for the good that has come over business in this country. Economic efficiency has been carried to an extent that gives ground for hope that hereafter we will have less marked contrasts in the business cycle—less violent ups and downs."

BUYS PAUL SMITH INTERESTS

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., June 5 (AP).—John Mange of New York City, President of the Associated Gas and Electric Company, has bought the interests of Paul Smith in the Paul Smith Hotel Company and the Paul Smith Electric Light, Power and Railway Company, it was announced today. The price was reported as more than $1,000,000.

The new owner made the purchase in his own interest, it was said, and he with Phelps Smith now are sole owners of the properties which have made the Paul Smith development the largest single project in the Adirondack Mountain section. The hotel property alone includes an area of 30,000 acres of choice mountain land. The electric developments include large power plants at Franklin and Union Falls on the Saranac River, and another now under construction at the Raquette Falls on the Raquette River.

The hotel, it was said today, probably will be remodeled to become an exclusive year-round hostelry. For the present, it was said, the resort property will continue under management of Alfred C. Ray of New York.

AGAINST A GERMAN UNION.

Mussolini Says Italy Must Be Consulted on Austrian Merger.

ROME, June 5 (AP).—Premier Mussolini declared in the Chamber of Deputies last evening that there could be no solution of the question of a union of Germany and Austria without Italian participation. Particularly could there be no solution against Italy.

Former Premier Salandra announced that he would support the Government in opposing any attempt at an Austro-German union. These declarations were made during the discussion of the Versailles and other peace treaties, which are only now being brought up for ratification six years after their signing.

Deputy Rivera, Communist, opposed any proposal to put "a Dawes plan" into operation against Italy. The Communist party, in the interests of the proletariat, he said, could not remain indifferent to such a threat by "Anglo-American capitalism" to enslave the economic life of Italy.

GET 8 SHEPHERD JURORS.

Both Sides Tentatively Accept Three More—Trial Is Near.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Eleven men were practically certain tonight of being on the jury to try William D. Shepherd. One more juror, barring anything that might disqualify any of those now chosen, and the presentation of evidence will begin to determine if the young millionaire, McClintock, was slain by typhoid germs.

Heat was no deterrent to the lawyers today. They kept plodding, and as a result four jurors were sworn, making eight to pass the tests of both sides. Three more were tentatively accepted by both sides.

In expectation that the hour is not far away for the opening of the trial State's Attorney Crowe and his assistants were hard at work with witnesses, reviewing the testimony.

Yale Announces Honor Awards.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—The Strathcona Memorial Fellowships in Transportation, established by the late Lord Strathcona, were awarded tonight by Yale University to Samuel James Dempsey, University of Manitoba 1922; Ford Kingsbury Edwards, Iowa State College 1923; Alpheus Beebe Stickney 2d, Yale 1924; Victor Popping, University of Toronto 1917; Trusten Perry Wadsworth, University of California 1925. The Charles Lathrop pack prizes for the best original article were awarded as follows: First, Percy Munson Barr, Yale 1925, of Vancouver, B. C.; second, John Henry Sleker, Yale 1924, of Hawthorne, N. J.

F. A. Vanderlip Takes Motor Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARBORO, N. Y., June 5.—Frank A. Vanderlip had sufficiently recovered from his illness today to leave his country home in Scarboro and take a four-mile automobile ride to Tarrytown. It was the first time he had been away from home since last November. Dr. Norman Barnesby, the family physician, is still making his home on the Vanderlip place and attending Mr. Vanderlip, who first contracted influenza, then typhoid fever, then pneumonia and finally rheumatism, from which he is now recovering.

Italian Flier Makes Another Jump.

ALBANY, West Australia, June 5 (AP).—Commander de Pinedo, the Italian airman, arrived here today. He has flown from Rome since April 21. He will continue to Melbourne and then fly to Japan.

DEFENDS CITY PIERS ON STATEN ISLAND

Hylan Says They Are Being Used More and More and Are Revenue-Producing Now.

TELLS THEIR ADVANTAGE

Declares Henry Ford and Other Big Shippers Are Sending Goods Over Them.

Mayor Hylan, prompted by recent revival of criticism of the city's $35,000,000 investment in the building of municipal piers on Staten Island, made public last night a long defense of that enterprise. The Mayor said, in part:

"It is a matter of record that more business has been done at the Staten Island piers in the past month than there has been at any time since they were built. Shippers are being made to realize the advantage of all-rail cargoes direct to the steamer. About two months ago the Pan-American Wharfage Company, which is the permittee lessee of four piers, made its wharves the base for direct shipments to Russia of four full cargoes of agricultural implements, flour and other materials bought in the Middle West by the Soviet authorities and loaded right from freight cars to steamer. Since September this company has sent eighty-five ships to the piers it has under permit leases. There have been cargoes from the Mediterranean. A great volume of freight has come directly from the West by all rail for unloading to steamers docking at piers 12 and 13.

Direct From Cars to Ships.

"Recently there has been a general movement to coordinate rail and water transportation by the bringing alongside of vessels railroad freight by all rail. Under the system originally in vogue the cargo is unloaded at freight yards in New Jersey and then lightered, often through fog and ice. When cases are loaded to dock from lighter and again loaded on to a steamer many a damage claim may result. In the past few days hundreds of Ford cars have been shipped direct from Detroit to the Staten Island piers and have been sent to Europe with but one handling. Henry Ford is a man of vision and apparently senses the value of the Staten Island piers and is making use of them.

"The general slump in shipping business since the war has affected this waterfront as it has affected shipping the world over. But a proper understanding with the steamship interests of the port and the general shipping public of the possibilities of these docks will bring about a logical coordination of the various factors in making them a success. From a steamship man's point of view the piers are desirable. They are far wider and longer than the ordinary pier in New York. Floors can carry heavier loads and slips are so spacious that manoeuvring can be performed in less risk and greater ease. Steamers can dock without the aid of a single tugboat.

Says They Are Profitable Now.

"There has been a lot of propaganda picturing the Staten Island piers as an economic waste. There may have been many economic wastes due to the war, but the Staten Island piers cannot be so catalogued. They are revenue producing now, with shipping at a low ebb, and despite the fact that the steamship companies which leased the piers are trying to lie down on the city. The city surely has some equity in these leases.

"The piers on Staten Island are finding more and more uses and will, in the course of time, be as necessary, and they constitute, considered as foresighted and justified, as anything done previously in this harbor."

International Cotton Congress Says Americans Issue Too Many.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 5.—The frequency with which the American Government issues cotton reports tends greatly to disturb the market, in the opinion of the International Cotton Congress, meeting in Vienna.

Speakers pointed out that immediately before and after reports are issued it is practically impossible to do business because of unrest, first because of anxiety over what the report will contain, and secondly, as to its possible effect on the market.

One report each month is advocated in place of two reports, although the delegates agreed that the American Government did everything possible to prevent leakage in advance of publication.

Dr. W. A. Schoenfeld, Dr. Taylor of the American Department of Agriculture and J. P. Orr, Vice President of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange were among the speakers.

WARNS ON GERMAN FLEET.

Oslo Newspaper Says Norwegians Are Not Anxious to See It.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSLO, June 5.—A leading article in an Oslo newspaper refers to the number of German naval visits officially announced to take place this Summer to various parts of the Norwegian coast. While welcoming the time when good relations will be restored between Germany and the former neutral countries it warns the German Government not to expect any improvement in these relations by resuming at too early a date the annual obtrusive naval visits to Norway which characterized the Kaiser period. It says that there are still dwelling around the Norwegian coast a couple of thousand families who lost dear ones through the German submarine warfare, which rightly or wrongly they consider synonymous with murder.

GOOD MAY IN DRY GOODS.

Business Still Holding Its Lead Over That of Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale drygoods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of drygoods was well in excess of last week's volume and exceeded by a large margin that of the same week a year ago.

"Road sales maintained about the same figure as a week ago and showed considerable increase over the total recorded last year for the same period.

"There were more customers in market than during the corresponding week in 1924.

"Business during the month of May was well ahead of May, 1924, both road sales and deliveries being recorded in much larger volume. Sales of merchandise for future shipment also showed a marked increase over the corresponding month's figure last year."

BUSINESS NOTES.

For the first time Hart Schaffner & Marx will hold an advance showing in this city of its lines of women's coats. It will take place next Tuesday at 3 P. M. at the firm's local offices, 200 Fifth Avenue. The new garments will be worn by mannequins recently selected by Charles Dana Gibson, Neysa McMein and other artists.

The firm of Bloomfield, Ellner & Snyder, Inc., has been formed for the manufacture of coats and suits, with offices at 205 West Thirty-sixth Street. The concern will stress sizes for small women and juniors' garments, although a complete line of regular sizes will also be made.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4 per cent. for the best names. Thursday—4 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six month's paper.

Fancies to Help Plain Flannels.

Introduction of novelty bordered wool dress flannels in highly varied printed patterns for midsummer wear is counted on to have a beneficial effect on the plain flannels as well. The vogue for the plain flannels tapered off somewhat during the last two months, with the result that the cutters-up were left with fairly sizable stocks of these fabrics. At the same time the demand for the goods from the mills naturally fell off. The leading flannel producers, in order to adjust the situation, have now featured the fancy goods. The result will be that a dress manufacturer can now use both the fancy and plain flannels for the same garment, an outlet being thus provided for whatever plain flannel stocks he may have on hand. The combination of the two has proved very effective in garments already produced.

Combination Corset Stressed.

With the vogue for rubber reducing corsets no longer as strong as it was this time last year, although a good demand is still reported, wholesalers are tending to stress the combination corset as a seller that retailers will do well with. This is the corset and brassiere combination, and it is being pushed as a moderate-price garment that will appeal to consumers during the month or two. The rubber corset demand so increased the turnover of the corset department during last Summer and Fall that buyers and merchandise managers have conceded it will be difficult to realize figures for the immediate period ahead that will compare favorably.

Broadcloth Shirts Still Dominate.

Despite the degree of success achieved with fancy shirts, either of the collar attached or to match variety, the consumer demand continues to run strongly to white broadcloth shirts. A leading manufacturer here estimated yesterday that fully 75 per cent. of the entire men's shirt demand is for broadcloths. It was his belief that broadcloths would also dominate for Fall, although the fancy kind might have a slightly better run. The difficulty with the broadcloth shirt, it was explained, is the great variety of prices on this merchandise, with the cheaper end so greatly stressed as to give the keenest kind of competition. The retailers also feel safer in buying these staples, as the novelties entail the carrying of a much larger stock in order to afford the consumer a necessary range of choice.

Wide Laces Have Taken Well.

The popularity of the all lace dress for this season has been productive of an added volume of business in the lace trade. These dresses have sold well in many of the out-of-town stores, with the result that a nice reorder business has developed. Wide laces have been stressed, in as much as only 1½ to 2 yards are needed to make a complete lace dress. This follows along the same line that has made the wide silks popular. It has also helped the turnover of yard goods over the counter because the ease of making a dress at home has been rendered obvious.

Gray Goods Tone Stronger.

Although no great volume of merchandise changed hands, the further rise in cotton strengthened the tone of the local gray goods market quite a little yesterday. Some trading in 38½-inch 64-60s was reported at 9¼ cents for this month's delivery. June-August deliveries were available at 9 cents, with few takers. There was also some buying of 39-inch 68-72s, for spot shipment, at 10 cents. In the sheetings, buying by the bag trade included 37-inch 48-squares at 9½ cents. Good makes of 38½-inch 64-68 sateens were sold at 11½ cents, with inferior cloths of that construction available at 11 to 11¼ cents. Not much else of interest took place.

Less Call for Hard Coal.

The demand for anthracite is much less vigorous than it was during the greater part of April and May and, were it not for the likelihood of labor troubles in the Fall, there would be no reason to anticipate much in the way of activity for the next three months. But the opening of wage negotiations in July, Seward's Journal will say today, will have some effect on the market, so that June will doubtless prove to be the quietest of the Summer months. Bituminous users are displaying a little more interest in the market and, while this is not being translated into orders very rapidly, it would appear that buyers are preparing to operate on a heavier scale.

Little Buying for Export.

Buying of cotton goods for export has been at a very low ebb this week, and the primary reason given for it was the downward trend of cotton up until Wednesday. Not for some time, it was said yesterday, have foreign buyers been watching the ups and downs of the staple more closely than they have done in the last month or so, and the drop in its price, which necessarily lower prices for the finished materials, held back many orders that would otherwise have come forward. As in this country, consumer buying in foreign markets has not been any too satisfactory for some time, which the result that there are numerous accumulations to be disposed of before further buying of any consequence can be done.

Closing Movement Is Growing.

According to reports current in the local cotton goods trade yesterday, between 80,000,000 and 7,000,000 the 10,000,000 spindles in Southern cotton mills that it is planned to stop during the week of Aug. 9 to 15 have already been pledged to the movement. This was said to be the first concerted movement ever planned to reduce production and thus bring the market back to a more satisfactory state from the viewpoint of the manufacturers. Independent curtailment has been in effect in a number of Southern mills for some time, and many are now working but three or four days a week. This, coupled with the group shutdown that is planned, is expected to make for a very bullish cloth market here in the early Fall. While it is not expected by trade leaders that any general rise in prices will result there is a belief that it will bring wholesale buyers to a realization of the need to increase the volume of their buying.

Dress Linens Have Lost Ground.

Although sudden changes in fashion from one fabric to another are not new, it is not often that a general class of cloths loses so much ground from one season to the next as dress linens have. Last year at this time colored linens were in great demand, and the amount of business done in them, particularly in the most-wanted shades, was limited only by the inability of the importers to make sufficient deliveries. This year, while the goods have sold to some extent, there has been nothing like the volume of them disposed of that was let out last year. Earlier in the season it was thought that higher prices had something to do with the lessened movement of the goods, but since that time it has been found that they have been largely crowded out by the present great demand for printed novelties in wash goods and silk and cotton mixtures.

GROUP INSURANCE GAINS.

Study Reveals 3,000,000 Workers Now Are Covered Under This Plan.

The growth of group insurance in American industry has been so rapid that at the present time approximately 3,000,000 workers are covered under this form of insurance, many of whom were in no other way protected, according to a study made by the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park Avenue.

An investigation in 1912 revealed that at that time that the great majority of wage earners carried no life insurance of any kind, and that the majority of those who were carrying life insurance were insufficiently protected, their policies averaging less than $400 each.

It has been estimated that because of physical defects, approximately 30 per cent. of all wage earners cannot obtain individual life insurance or are obliged to pay higher premiums, but under group insurance every worker is equally eligible.

Wool Market Somewhat Stronger.

BOSTON, June 5.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "There is a broader and stronger market in wool, prices being generally about 5 cents a scoured pound higher than last week. Activity in the bright wool States is very much keener and some buying is reported in the territory States, with a fair consignment movement in swing.

"Better business in goods is reported, more especially in woolens, although worsted and knit goods are in better demand.

"There is rather more activity at the River Plate and prices show a slight hardening tendency. Otherwise, the foreign markets are hardly changed. Bradford being slow on account of the holidays and rather in favor of the buyer."

FACES PERJURY TRIAL AGAIN.

Witness in Murder Case Indicted on Account of Conflicting Testimony.

Michael Gallagher, who was acquitted last week in Jersey City of perjury in the trial of Charles Parish, who was acquitted of the murder on Oct. 19, last, of Michael Healey, was indicted again yesterday in Hudson County on another charge of perjury. The new indictment of Gallagher charges him with perjury before the Grand Jury in testifying he had seen Parish shoot Healey whereas in the trial he had testified otherwise.

The indictment of Parish, it was said yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Aloysius McMahon, was based largely on Gallagher's evidence before that body. Gallagher and five other men were indicted for their evidence in Parish's trial, charges of perjury and conspiracy being made gainst them after Nicholas Vinola, one of the six witnesses, had testified they had agreed not to give evidence unfavorable to Parish. Following Gallagher's acquittal by a jury, Mr. McMahon said he would continue prosecutions in the case with new charges, and this indictment of Gallagher is the first.

Parish was released from the Hudson County jail Thursday in $15,000 bail and faces a new trial on the charge of atrocious assault in connection with Healey.

WOMAN, 74, IS HELD.

Will Be Oldest of Her Sex to Be Arraigned for Homicide.

Mrs. Nora Prendergast, 74 years old, the oldest woman ever held on a homicide charge in New York City, will be arraigned today in the Homicide Court in connection with the death of Mrs. Mary McGreen, 30 years old, a waitress, who was found dead in the basement apartment of the old woman at 215 West Sixty-sixth Street on Thursday.

An autopsy yesterday revealed that the waitress had a fractured skull and had been severely beaten about the head and shoulders.

Mrs. Prendergast was questioned yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Morgan A. Jones and Detectives Conklin and McGovern of the West Sixty-eighth Street station, but held to her original story that she had no knowledge of how the woman met her death.

The detectives say they found bloodstains on Mrs. Prendergast's eyeglasses and also on her cane and crutch. She admitted that she and Mrs. McGeeren had been drinking heavily but said the last she knew of anything in connection with the affair was when Mrs. McGeeren lay down on a couch to sleep a few hours before she was found dead.

CAT'S FALL BRINGS POLICE.

Report Goes Out That It's a Child and Ambulance Comes.

Scores of persons saw a kitten fall yesterday from the roof of 420 West Forty-eighth Street to the sidewalk, and one of them, a woman, moved by the injured animal's cries, ran to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station.

"A kitten fell from the roof on Forty-eighth Street," she cried, breathlessly and indistinctly, to Angelo Ross, the doorman, who ran to Desk Lieutenant Harry Stalnkamp.

"A kid fell from the roof on Forty-eighth Street," he cried, and the Lieutenant detailed Patrolman Charles Welch and ordered an ambulance from Bellevue to the spot. They arrived together, but the ambulance left immediately, and Patrolman Welch shot the kitten and dispersed the crowd.

SENTENCED FOR LIBEL.

Man Who Accused Magnus Johnson Gets 60 Days.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 5 (AP).—A. N. Jacobs, author of an article for the publication of which he was convicted on a charge of criminal libel against former Senator Magnus Johnson here on May 2, was sentenced yesterday to sixty days in a workhouse. The court granted a twenty-day stay in which to file a motion for a new trial.

In the article Jacobs accused the former Minnesota Senator of having been arrested for drunkenness in Monneapolis on May 7, 1924. It was brought out in the trial that a different Magnus Johnson was the man arrested.

BANDITS GET $10,000 HAUL.

Silk worth $10,000 was stolen from the silk house of M. E. Mailhouse, 117 East Twenty-fourth Street, late yesterday afternoon, according to a report made at the East Twenty-second Street police station.

Just before closing hour yesterday, the report said, three men walked into the place, which is on the ground floor of a loft building, and after holding up three persons who were in the store, bundled up the silk. They made their escape in a motor truck.

Originally there were fourteen defendants charged with the conspiracy, which had ramifications in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago.

ENTERS JAIL TO REPAY BAIL.

Barber Accused of Keeping Shop Too Late, Goes as a Protest.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—In order that the cash bail his wife borrowed can be returned, Julius Schneider, a barber, surrendered today to the police, to be kept in jail until his hearing before Recorder Joseph Corio.

Schneider was charged with keeping his shop on States Avenue open after the time set by city ordinance. He denies the charge.

"I am going to remain in jail as a protest until the hearing, which has been twice postponed," said Schneider.

TELLS OF THREATS AT GRAFT INQUIRY

CHRISTMAS FUND TRACED

One Witness Names Two Supervisors Who, He Asserts He Was Told, Got $35.

Further evidence of intimidation of witnesses and of money collected from peddlers for the benefit of market supervisors was heard when Magistrate George W. Simpson resumed yesterday in the City Hall his investigation into alleged graft and oppression among the pushcart merchants.

Mrs. Lena Susserman of 16 First Avenue, testified that Morris Loopesko, who is the head of the pushcart men's association and is known as "the pushcart king," had threatened her last Thursday, called her vile names and told her he would have her sent to jail if she appeared again to give testimony in the inquiry.

Karl Brenner of 299 Avenue B, a peddler in the Avenue C market and an organizer of the independent peddlers' association there, told of a collection being taken among the peddlers there last Christmas by Max Kreisler of 738 East Sixth Street, and Sam Sorosky of 195 Avenue B. They told him, he testified, that the money was given to Market Supervisors Mandelbaum and Keogh, who were then assigned to that market, but who have been since transferred.

When the witness was asked by Assistant District Attorney Jacob Gould Schurman Jr., who is conducting the examination, whether his association ever had given any money to market supervisors, Brenner declared that the same two supervisors had received $35 from his organization last Christmas. The money, he said, represented revenue derived from dues of 10 cents a week paid by each of the peddler members.

Brenner also declared that Supervisor Keogh had borrowed $5 from him and never had repaid the loan.

"It was the middle of last Summer," Brenner said. "Keogh came to me and said, 'Let me have $5 until tomorrow.' I gave it to him."

Brenner declared that Keogh practiced the same method on another peddler, Jack Fuhr of 734 Sixth Street.

The witness told of a collection made by the supervisors on a Sunday last Fall when the peddlers were selling their wares on the Sabbath by special permission of the Department of Markets. On two Sundays, he declared, a collection of 50 cents from each peddler was made, although he was not asked to contribute. He explained his being overlooked in this fowise:

"The supervisor had a habit of coming to my cart and taking fruit without paying for it. He'd tell me to pack it up after I weighed it and then he'd walk off with it. Later I refused to let him have any more and he wouldn't talk to me."

Brenner said he took the charges before Mrs. Louis Reed Weizmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Markets, who held a hearing. Later the pushcart men went before Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield and, he said, "they stuck to their story."

Joseph Holdner, who said he lived in the rear of a store at 2,931 West Twenty-fourth Street, Coney Island, while his wife operates a pushcart in the Orchard Street market, the license for which he had held for five years, was called. Holdner had been accused by Adolph Goldenberg earlier in the inquiry of having approached Goldenberg with the suggestion that he give Alderman Moritz Graubard "at least $100 of the $900 you promised him." He denied he ever made that statement.

No afternoon session of the inquiry was held. Owing to the heat, Magistrate Simpson adjourned the hearing until next Monday morning.

PROTEST WOODEN CARS.

Vehicles "Death Traps," Civic League Officers Write Commission.

Daniel Gutman, Executive Secretary, and Maurice Gersing, Transit Chairman, of the East New York Civic League, Brooklyn, sent a letter yesterday to the Transit Commission protesting against further use of wooden cars on the elevated.

The letter blames the recent fire at the Van Siclen Avenue Station of the Fulton line on a short circuit touching a wooden car. It declares the city's prohibition of the use of steel cars on Brooklyn Bridge could be overcome by widening the clearances, that "buckling" of wooden cars is a menace to safety in the event of a collision, denies all wooden cars on the B. M. T. have an allsteel underframe, and calls wooden cars "death traps."

"Having stated our stand," the letter concludes, "we demand action on your part, and will do everything in our power to force such action."

NEW STATION FOR FORDHAM

As a result of negotiations instituted by the Transit Commission, the New York Central Railroad Company will begin soon the construction of a new railroad station at Fordham to replace the present antiquated structure. The company was in litigation with the city in regard to its rights to the present station site and adjoining property, and further delay was prevented by the action of the commission. The new station will be on the north side of Fordham Road and will cost about $50,000.

Upon the removal of the old station on the south side of Fordham Road, it is expected that the city will construct a new plaza over the railroad right of way, which will have the effect of widening and straightening Third Avenue at its northern end. The cost of this work will be about $500,000, and will be borne equally by the city and the railroad company. The cost of the station will be borne entirely by the railroad company.

Hunt for Drowned Man Fruitless.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Jacob and L. D. Wolf the store and basement at 66 Cortlandt Street for a long term of years.

Charles F. Noyes Company has leased additional ground floor space at the northeast corner of Seventy-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue to the National City Bank. About twelve months ago the bank leased the immediate corner for a ten-year term and the success of this branch is indicated by the necessity for additional space, the new lease giving the bank 100 per cent. increase over their original premises.

REPORT SHOWS 1925 BUILDING INCREASE

Plans for 468 Buildings Costing $127,245,074 Filed for First Five Months.

During the first five months in 1925 plans were filed for 468 buildings, costing $127,245,074, in New York City with Superintendent of Buildings Charles Brady, according to his report covering that period.

This is an increase of $5,976,224 over the same period last year, when plans for 466 buildings at a total cost of $121,268,850 were filed. Plans for sixty-six new buildings, costing $15,750,000, were filed during the month of May, as against sixty-seven plans of buildings to cost $31,617,925 in 1924. This shows a loss for May, 1925, of one in the number of buildings and a decrease of $15,858,825 in money involved.

Of the sixty-seven plans filed, nine were for dwellings at a total cost of $131,500, eleven for tenements costing $6,180,000 and two for hotels at a combined cost of $2,000,000. One other residence cost $15,000. Eight stores and lofts $1,744,000; four office buildings, $2,125,000; seven factories, $1,865,000; two municipal buildings, $365,000; fifteen garages and stables, $1,238,650, and five other structures costing $4,850.

There were no plans filed during May for hospitals, churches or schools.

The report also shows that during the period from January to May, inclusive, applications for alterations to 1,441 buildings, costing $12,401,922, were filed. This is a decrease of eleven buildings and $2,497,204 over the same period in 1924, when alterations costing $14,899,126 were made on 1,452 buildings.

2,500 PER CENT INCREASE.

Some idea of the tremendous increase in value of Atlantic City realty is conveyed by the sale of the southeastern corner of Missouri and Atlantic Avenues. In 1877 the late Mrs. Jane Fortesque, a pioneer resort hotel woman, bought this property and a section of the Boardwalk on Arkansas Avenue for $4,400. At that time the Boardwalk was undeveloped and both parcels were considered of equal value.

Yesterday the parcel on the corner of Missouri and Atlantic Avenues was sold for $500,000, or an increase of nearly 2,500 per cent. above the original buying price of $2,200 in forty-eight years.

Pell Building Sold to Investor.

The twelve-story fireproof building at 24 and 26 West Thirtieth Street, known as the Pell Building, was reported sold by the Raylean Realty Company to Moses Harris at a reported price of around $300,000. The purchaser will hold the building for investment. The brokers were Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc.

Mortgage Loans Placed.

Derecktor & Co. have placed the following loans: $32,000 at 6 per cent. for five years on 850 Home Street, $16,000 at 5½ per cent. for three years on 318 West Twenty-seventh Street, and $13,000 at 6 per cent. on second mortgage on 329 Eighth Avenue.

Contracts Let Since Jan. 1 Show a Gain of 7 Per Cent.

Value of engineering and construction contracts let in the United States from Jan. 1 to June 1 shows a gain of 7 per cent., compared with the corresponding period a year ago. The total value of contracts actually let in the first five months of the year amounted to $941,019,000, as against $880,029,000 in the same time a year ago, Engineering News-Record reports. Construction has been on the up-grade in all sections of the country, except the South and the Middle West. In the South the slowing down occurred mainly in public works, while in the Middle West the decline reflects lessened activity in bridges and commercial buildings.

Contracts let in the month of May were valued at $190,203,000, which compares with $239,785,000 in May a year ago.

PRIVATE HOUSE SALES CENTRE IN HARLEM

Row of Three Dwellings on West 124th Street Sold by Harry Golden.

Harry Golden sold 115-120 West 124th Street, two three-story and basement private dwellings, 18.9 by 100 feet, to the Soway Realty Corp. Louis W. George was the broker.

The same broker sold for Harry Golden, 116 West 124th Street, a three-story and basement private dwelling, 18.9 by 100 feet to Romayne Burton.

Charles M. Pocher sold the three-story and basement brownstone dwelling at 138 West 122d Street, size 18 by 100, and held at $18,000. The purchaser is Simon S. Friedber

Magnificent Estate

of late Frank W. Woolworth Dec'd

known as "WINFIELD HALL"

GLEN COVE, L. I.

In the pre-eminence of its location, its architectural features and the completeness of its appointments, THE WOOLWORTH ESTATE is an achievement of which the architect, Mr. C. P. H. Gilbert, may well be proud. Comprises about 18 acres of rolling, intensively improved property, surrounded by substantial, ornamental iron fencing.

The Estate includes the superb residence of white marble and stone in the style of the Italian Renaissance, a large white stone and outdoor garage with apartments for employees, several greenhouses and outdoor flower and vegetable gardens; a tennis court and an excellent 9-hole private golf course. One of the most impressive features of the mansion is a Superb Aeolian Orchestral Pipe Organ, having 75 stops. A splendidly equipped bathing beach, for the exclusive use of the North Country Colony—of which the Woolworth Estate is a part—is near by.

SOME ADJOINING ESTATES are those of J. Pierpont Morgan, the Pratt Estates, De Lamar, Maxwell, E. R. Ladew, J. F. Aldred, W. H. Porter, J. C. Ayer, Andrew Fletcher, Thomas L. Leeming.

FIRE HYDRANT OPENING HURTFUL.

The practice of opening fire hydrants and permitting them to run for hours at a time is becoming quite general all over the city. Officers and members of the uniformed force are hereby directed to request the police officer on post to summon to court any person known to have opened a fire hydrant without authority. Police Magistrates should be appraised of the fact that this practice is dangerous, firstly, by reducing the water pressure available for fire service, secondly, that it may result in injury to small children, and thirdly, instances of damage to property and flooding of cellars will result. A determined effort must be made at once to stop this practice of tampering with fire hydrants.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Pressure remains low from Newfoundland westward to Manitoba and from there southward to Mexico, with centres of minimum pressure over Southwestern Colorado, Northern Ontario and Eastern Newfoundland. The barometer remains high from the Mississippi Valley eastward beyond Bermuda, and it is relatively high and rising from the north Pacific Coast eastward to the northern Rocky Mountain region. This pressure distribution has been attended by high temperature from the Missouri Valley and southern plains States eastward to the Atlantic Coast, and by quite cool weather in the plateau and northern Rocky Mountain regions.

The following stations reported the highest temperature ever recorded so early in the season: Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Erie, Harrisburg, New York City and Albany. At Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Lynchburg the temperature reached 100 degrees. There have been local rains within the last twenty-four hours in the northern plains States, the northern Rocky Mountain region, the plateau region and in portions of California, while generally fair weather has prevailed over the eastern half of the country, except that there were scattered showers in Maine, Florida and the East Gulf States.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M., and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

'DUTCH' ROBBINS NOW MARBLES CHAMPION

BIG CROWD CHEERS RIVALS

Prizes, Including Gold Watch, Heaped on Winner—63 Other Contestants Receive Awards.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—Howard (Dutch) Robbins of Springfield, Mass., won the United States marble-shooting championship today. Robbins, who is 13, defeated Tommie Raley of Owensboro, Ky., four out of six games in the finals of the third annual national tournament.

Robbins succeeds as champion George Lenox of Baltimore, who won the title here last year.

Harry Sparr of San Diego, who was stricken ill the first day of the tournament, received a gold wrist watch from the sixty-three other champions, who in turn were presented with bronze statuettes of a marble shooter made by a New York sculptor. It is estimated that more than 200,000 boys and girls participated in local tournaments in the sixty-four cities represented by their champions here.

Marie Lawley of Harrisburg, the only girl in the tournament, was given a bracelet with a crystal marble. She was introduced as "the finest little girl in America" and received a shower of American Beauty roses.

Raley, as the runner-up, received a gold watch with a silver marble fob. Each of the league champions was awarded a gold wrist watch.

The Tournament Committee awarded Robbins a $100 gold watch with a gold marble fob. Mayor E. L. Bader gave him a gold fountain pen and a gold pencil. "Dutch" also received annual passes good at any American or National League baseball park. Then he and the runner-up accepted, with popping eyes, a small edition of a phonograph.

With a rabbit's foot dangling on a string around his neck, Robbins shot a spectacular game, rallying after the mountaineer had run away with the first game by the top-heavy score of 13 to 0. Robbins battered his way into the marble hall of fame by the following scores: 0—13, 7—6, 5—3, 10—3, 9—4, 11—2.

Thousands, representing practically every State in the Union, watched the games. The rooters were about evenly divided. Those living south of the Mason and Dixon line whooped it up for Raley, while ecstatic cries greeted pointtaking shots by the aggie wizard of the North.

A hot sun beat down on the spectators. Men doffed coats, and women held newspapers over their heads. For half an hour the Fireman Band, coatless, kept the crowd humming popular tunes.

"Tommie" Raley and "Dutch" Robbins walked to the centre of the ring, smiling at each other. Raley was deiled up in a new brown and white mottled sweater, jersey gray knickers, tan stockings, rubber sneaks and a blue peaked cap with white stripes.

MRS. GUIDA EXONERATED.

A charge of attempting to poison her granddaughter, made against Mrs. Angelina Guida, 60 years old, of Mount Vernon, was dismissed yesterday by Acting City Judge William Caffrey in Mount Vernon on the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Hoisworth. Mrs. Guida had been under $3,000 bail, accused of sending poisoned figs to Fanny Leone, also of Mount Vernon.

Captain of Detectives Michael Silverstein reported that there was not enough evidence to connect Mrs. Guida with the sending of the figs, which were found on examination to contain bichloride of mercury. The investigation started when Miss Leone applied for treatment at the Mount Vernon Hospital after she had eaten some of the figs. She recovered.

PRINCE GETS CREDENTIALS.

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP).—Prince Kojo Tovalou-Houenou of Danomey, whose color caused a Chicago restaurant to refuse to serve him, resulting in an altercation and the Prince's arrest, today received a guarantee of freedom from similar trouble here in the future by receiving credentials signed by Chief of Police Morgan Collins.

The credentials, which are similar to those granted distinguished visitors, were issued on advice of the Corporation Counsel after that official had received a written appeal from A. Barthelemy, French Consul. The Consul stated that the Prince is "under the protection of the French Government," and is "an accomplished French scholar and member of the French bar."

Kelly Flexible Cord

The best tire Kelly ever built

You can get pretty good mileage from almost any of the better known makes of tires. But in the Kelly Flexible Cord you can get not only greater mileage, but in addition a degree of riding comfort such as no other high pressure tire can offer, because no other high pressure tire is made with the Integral Bead construction that makes this easy riding possible.

The NEW Kelly Way

The drawing shows how the bead of the new Kelly Cord is formed by enclosing strips of braided wire in the loops of the cord fabric. The cords which form these loops are continuous from the beginning of the inmost ply to the end of the outer. The whole tire thus has a flexibility and "give" that is necessarily lacking in tires made by the ordinary method.

For sale by all Kelly-Springfield dealers
